TO USE ONLY HOME LABOR

Eagles Building Committee Issues Statement About New Hall.

Editor Times:— We, the committee, desire to state that nothing but home labor will be used in building the Eagles hall. The home folks are the ones we put feathers on, and when we ruffle our feathers, the folks here at home are the ones we protect. This notice is put in here as there seemed to be some fear on the part of some that we would let the building by contract and the contractor would import his labor from Frisco or Portland. MYSTERY IN CARLSON CASE been informed of a body being found floating in the boom at the Bay Park landing by a man named Hansen yesterday afternoon about 1 o'clock.

Gus Levene testified that he was confident the body was that of Axel Carlson. Identification was fully established by the number of the watch found on the dead man's pocket, corresponding with the number of the watch which Carlson had repaired by a local jeweler sometime ago, Mr. Frizeen having secured the latter from the jeweler.

When the body was first examined, Dr. Golden found a dent on the head which looked as though it might have been caused by a hard blow. Owing to the long time the body had been in the water, it was badly decomposed. Dr. Golden later found that the indentation in the head was probably due to an old scar.

How the body could have got into the water, Coroner Golden has been unable to establish. Carlson in coming to Marshfield or returning home from town would not go near Isthmus Inlet. If he had been overcome by heart failure while walking across the railroad bridge over Coal Bank Inlet, he could not have fallen into the water unless he was near the edge. If he had, the tides might possibly have carried him from Coal Bank Inlet around to the point in Isthmus Inlet where the body was found.

The watch found in Carlson's pocket had stopped at 8:40 o'clock, the water stopping it. The time-piece had evidently been wound up but a short time previous.

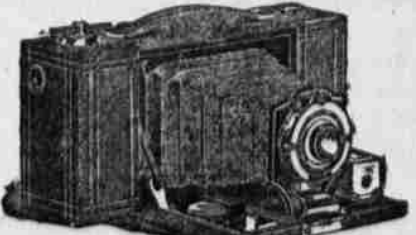

Carlson came here last December and intended to remain until spring.

Besides the witnesses already given, Olaf Johnson also testified last night. August Frizeen had to act as interpreter owing to Johnson's poor command of English. He did not know much about the case, merely having known Carlson slightly and having been acquainted with the latter's parents in the old country.

The jury was composed of Hayes Temple, Chas. M. Seidelback, C. A. Metlin, D. L. Rood, Edward M. Joehnk and John Longstaff.

Today, Coroner Golden is trying to get in communication with relatives of the dead man. Unless he does so, the body will be buried by the county.
