A GERMAN WATERWAY.

NO COUNTRY IN EUROPE surpasses Germany in commercial and general business development, and none recognizes to a greater degree the value of water transportation and the wisdom of a liberal government policy in its improvement. The American consul general, Richard Guenther, at Frankfurt-on-the-Main describes a new harbor in construction there at a cost of $11,500,000. Additional adjacent land for industrial purposes has been purchased by the city for $5,500,000. When completed the harbor area will be 716 acres, with a river front of 2.2 miles. The city has sold lots from its new purchase of land for $1,000,000, and the erection of large manufactories has been begun. Frankfurt was once, but a small port on the river Main, but river canalization has converted it into a Rhine harbor, available for 1,500-ton vessels. Its traffic, 150,000 tons in 1887, was 1,500,000 tons in 1906. Among the fifty-three Rhine harbors it now ranks fifth in tonnage. Its traffic on the Rhine is chiefly of coal, coals and gravel, coal forming nearly one-half. The work of securing a deeper, permanent channel has not only been highly successful, but is leading to larger improvements. France is scarcely less enterprising than Germany in river and harbor betterments on a comprehensive scale and looking to perpetual results. No nations know better the difference between good and bad investments.

Coos Bay should profit by this universal experience and vote for a port commission that will give this great natural harbor the care it requires. Remember a vote for the Port of Coos Bay is a vote for prosperity and progress. It will add value to every dollar's worth of property in the Port District.

LADIES of Coos Bay should not miss seeing the superb line of EASTER MILLINERY at the Clarke Millinery. New styles and reasonable prices.

WHITTIER.

IRREFUTABLE.

When Gladys dons her latest hat We know full well that spring is here, Unmoved by chill reminders that Belated winds are harsh and drear, Though snows may gather o'er the field Where yellow blooming bravely strives, Our vernal hope we shall not yield When Gladys' hat so fairly thrives.

No violet that decks the glade, No flaunting toucan is more neat Than is the flowering there arrayed About her smile demurely sweet. And so, though storms may rage about, This dainty prophetess stands pat; 'Tis gentle spring beyond a doubt. When Gladys dons her latest hat. ANON.

Tell me, dear reader, are you one of those that think that it is fun to buy a little stack of chips, Put a cigar between your lips, And play and play and play and play Until the night has merged to day— To wake until Aurora's blush In vain attempts to fill a flush— To chip away your precious hoard At something you can not afford? And can you find true pleasure in That drawing, drawing ad infinitum? Is there enjoyment to be found In quitting with "another round"? All this and worse—Oh, are you one That thinks such foolishness is fun— To fool away th' entire night? You are? Dear reader, you are right. —Puck.
