SUMMER-DRESS THE CITY.

THIS IS THE ACCEPTED time for putting Marshfield in clean, healthful and attractive shape for the glad summer time. She needs a very thorough overhauling in many ways: her buildings need painting; some of her sidewalks are crying out for repairs; her yards and gardens and squares are demanding care and clearance; her docks and warehouses want a good deal of attention including a lot of white-wash and paint; her water-face needs a combing to rid it of the hideous growth of unpainted shacks; her streets need cleaning and fixing up and things want straightening up, digging-out, and putting-in, and all the touches of interest that conserve the order and beauty of a community after a long and dismal winter when things are permitted to run at hazard. (All exceptions noted).

Coos Bay is one of the beauty-spots of the Northwest; she is far more attractive than any of the coast resorts within hundreds of miles of her boundaries; and nothing should be left undone to make her notable for the charm she boasts; especially where the duty devolves upon her own people to maintain and manifest the record.

PERFECTION OF DETAIL.

INCLUDING THE POST OFFICE at Marshfield, Uncle Sam's vast mail business, considering its almost incalculable detail, is the perfection of business administration, and the fact that once in a great while something goes astray is accentuated as the exception rather than the rule. When one thinks out the infinite and elaborate system that controls the direct movement of hundreds of millions of small objects daily, each as important as the other to the government, and lands them in particular hands with unfailing precision and invariable good order, within the quickest possible time, the marvel looms more and more prodigious as the thought follows its ascertainment to one climax after the other.

It is conceded the world over that the United States mail and its handling constitute the nearest expression of intelligent and effective operation in human affairs, and the infrequent lapse may be safely relegated to things infinitesimal.

MAY BE HE MEANT MARSHFIELD

AN ARCHITECT IN ONE of the large cities of the east once delivered an address before a literary club on the subject of the city beautiful, and in his remarks he made the following prophecy: "Somewhere in the civilized world at the beginning of the next century there will be the most beautiful city that the sun shines upon. It will have the best government, to which other cities will come to learn wisdom the best schools, the cleanest streets, the finest architecture, the noblest monuments. All of which will not mean the greatest wealth or the most numerous population per square mile or per city, but the best taste, the clearest common sense." After a perusal of the foregoing one might believe that he had the Key City of Oregon in mind when he spoke.

GOOD EVENING.

Plant patience in the garden of thy soul.
The roots are bitter but the fruits are sweet.
And when at last it stands—a tree complete—
Beneath its tender shade the burning heat
And burden of the day shall lose control:
Plant patience in the garden of thy soul.

THE FISHING LESSON.

First thing you do when you start to fish
Is to cross your heart and make a wish;
Then look at your bait and give it a whack
And it's bound to bring a big trout back:

First thing you do
Is to wish and wish
And cross your heart
When you start to fish.

Next thing you do is to crotch a stick
And plant on the bank where the grass grows thick;
Lay your pole in the crotch, while the line swings free,
Then drop your back 'gin the trunk of a tree:

Second thing to do
Is to sit there and sleep
Till the sun goes down
And the shadows creep.

JACK FLANAGAN.

If you can't talk of anything but your woes, don't.

Well-balanced people are careful to weigh their words.

Free speech is all right if you don't get too free with it.

No truly great man needs a brass band to herald his coming.

The devil rarely finds time to tempt the really busy woman.

It isn't easy for a learned man to learn to love a learned woman.

Some Coos Bay people mistake the smirk of Fortune for her smile.

You can flatter almost any woman by telling her that she is flattery-proof.

A grass widow usually knows enough to make hay while the sun shines.

No man was ever known to forgive another for stepping on his pet corn.

Many a woman marries for money because she can't think of any other excuse.

No woman on earth would want her friends to know what she knows about herself.

The higher up the financial ladder you climb, the harder the fall when the tumble comes.

Some Coos Bay women are so afraid of doing wrong that they won't do anything.

Some Coos Bay women look so well in black that they actually hate to discard mourning.

Many a self-made man sees where he could improve on the job if he could do it all over again.

Many a married man has doubtless noticed how hard it is to pay a thing on the "easy payment plan."

She is a smart woman indeed who is smart enough to refrain from boasting of her smartness.

You never saw a Coos Bay woman so homely that she didn't like to look at herself in the mirror.

Time flies with most Coos Bay people and as time is money it may account for the poverty of many.

A man with seven daughters to support is always so happy when they get old enough to want to get married.

Did you ever talk with a woman who runs a boarding house that she didn't tell you she "had seen the day she didn't have to work for a living?"

None but the brave deserve the fair, and none but the brave would tackle the fare dished up by some of the fair.

"Be sure you are right then go ahead," is an old saying. That is the reason why some Coos Bay people never go ahead.

It is only when they find themselves in a precarious position that some Coos Bay men stop to think of their future existence.

You never hear a Coos Bay boy complain about running on an errand if it is to go to a drug store half a mile away for candy.

It is on a long steamer journey that Coos Bay women get confidential and tell each other all about the faults of their respective husbands.

Some Coos Bay men who love their wives seem really afraid they will find it out, and the same may be said of the men who love other men's wives.

Put some Coos Bay men on a cannibal island and in ten hours they would have a revolution started among the natives and themselves declared king.

This is an opinion: That opinions are a good deal like a shiftless man; don't amount to much, and have a way of "butting in" where they are not wanted.

"To escape criticism," says an advertising card "do nothing, say nothing, be nothing," and there seem to be a number of Coos Bay people who are following this advice.

JUST LAZY.

I've no quarrel with the lawping if it wants another crest,
And to me it is no matter how the burnished dove is dressed,
And I'd let the young man's fancy turn the way it wants to turn,
And not kick, whatever happened no, I wouldn't give a "dern."
For I have the springtime fever, if the truth must be confessed,
Which just makes a fellow lazy, so he wants to rest and rest.

COW MAKES GREAT RECORD.

Washington County Bovine Gives 17,005 Pounds of Milk in Year.

FOREST GROVE, Ore., April 15.

The production in one year of 17,005 pounds of milk is the phenomenal record of Lady Lunde De-Kol, a registered Holstein cow, owned by B. B. Goff, a farmer residing seven miles from this city. The record of the animal was kept by Mr. Goff, and extends from March 19, 1908 to March 18, 1909.

On a certain date during that time she made a record of 85½ pounds, and in May her average test for a period of two weeks was 80 pounds. In that same month she produced 2335 pounds of milk. The record of the cow for the various months follows: March, 675; April, 2,295; May 2,335; June, 1,900; July, 1,720; August, 1,295; September, 1,080; October, 980; November, 1,005; December, 1,100; January, 1,045; February, 975; March, 600.

During April, May and June, Lady Lunde was milked three times each day.

O. L. Hopson, Marshfield, Ore.: Account the very large business that is developing on and around Great Lakes that we have not anticipated or expected and the large increased foreign demand coupled with the recent contracts covering the China Empire. I shall on my return to New York call the executive board together to consider a further advance in the price of stock to take effect at once or not later than May 1st. I feel the committee would be justified in advancing to fifty. C. C. WILSON, President United Wireless Telegraph Company.

How One Doctor Successfully Treats Pneumonia.

"In treating pneumonia," says Dr. W. J. Smith, of Sanders, Ala., "the only remedy I use for the lungs is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. While of course I would treat other symptoms with different medicines, I have used this remedy many times in my medical practice and have yet failed to find a case where it has not controlled the trouble. I have used it myself as has also my wife for coughs and colds repeatedly, and I most willingly and cheerfully recommend it as superior to any other cough remedy to my knowledge."
