GOOD EVENING.

There's a right way and a wrong way
Our lives to live.
There's a short way and a long way
Our help to give.
There's a good way and a bad way
For everything.
A merry way and a sad way—
Don't sigh, but sing.
—Selected.

CHEER UP! ! !

What if you should break your leg,
Cheer up!
You can get a wooden peg,
Cheer up!
Don't be doleful if you're broke,
Treat the matter as a joke—
You can put your watch in soak—
Cheer up!

Should you get into a fight,
Cheer up!
Perhaps the licking served you right,
Cheer up!
Use your heart and use your head;
What's a week or two in bed,
When you have to work instead—
Cheer up!

Should an auto knock you far,
Cheer up!
It might have been a subway car,
Cheer up!
If a fire destroys your flat,
Please consider where you're at,
Paying rent is worse than that—
Cheer up!
If you're married to a wife,
Cheer up!
Remember there's another life,
Cheer up!
If you find yourself in jail,
And the judge refuses bail,
Don't feel dismal, don't look pale—
Cheer up!

—Wex Jones.

The wings of monopoly fan the flames of hell.

Much knowledge of things divine escapes us through want of faith.

Many a bachelor lives to bless the fellow who married the girl he was in love with

The man who meets trouble half way has a pretty poor companion for the rest of the journey.

Some Coos Bay men seem to get a heap of melancholy satisfaction from being misunderstood.

That Colorado Springs man who threw the family sewing machine at his wife was doubtless angry enough to go out and push the house off its foundations

Say, this joke about stockings getting higher is being worked to a frazzle, but—well, this morning a lot of them were higher than I ever expected to see them.

"The real problem at Harrisburg," says the Philadelphia Inquirer, "is how to make one dollar do the work of two." Piffle! That's the real problem the wide world over just now.

"What," asks the Burlington Hawk-Eye, "has become of the old-fashioned young man who, the girls used to say was 'too slow to catch a cold'?" He's dead. He speeded up and caught one.

Mme. Patti wrote in a Boston album: "Go to strangers for charity, acquaintances for advice, and to relatives for nothing, and you will always have a supply." The sweet singer probably speaks from experience.

Mrs. Boyle, the kidnaper, says some of the things the papers have said about her are simply terrible.

She ought to be extremely thankful that she is unaware of the things said about her which didn't get into the papers.

Infants Hercules, "Is the baby strong?" "Well, rather. You know what a tremendous voice he has?" "Yes."

"Well, he lifts that five or six times an hour."

Coos Bay has yet to tackle aerobics. She is essentially a marine proposition and cannot rise above her normal predicate, perhaps. We are quite satisfied to make good on that low range and eke out our destiny on the water level. The nearest we have come to the aerial, is the possession of a fine and serviceable "wireless" station up on the hill.

"My aim in life," says Mabelle Gilman Corey, "is to devote myself to the artistic development of poor talent." She could win more thanks by devising ways and means of keeping some of the poor talent off the stage entirely.

"He has a mighty strong imagination for a real estate dealer," said a member of the Saints and Sinners' Corner, referring to a Marshfield dealer in dirt.

"Yes," said John Goss, "He'd lay out an addition in Mars and get husky cracking up the canal privileges."

A man in a neighboring town taking a city paper in preference to a country paper because he got more paper for the money, was attracted by the advertisement of a fire escape which would be forwarded on receipt of two dollars. He sent his cash and in a few days received a copy of the New Testament.

The Old Silver Dollar.

How dear to our hearts is the old silver dollar,

When some kind subscriber presents it to view—

The liberty head, without necktie or collar,

And all the strange things that to us seem so new;

The wide spreading eagle, the arrows below it,

The stars and the words with the queer things they tell,

The coin of our fathers! We're glad that we know it,

For some time or other 'twill come in right well—

An Ad. in The Times is the best thing to get 'em,

'Twill bring the 'mighty dollars we all love so well.

Let us "show" you.

Under the Yoke.

I cannot wear the old clothes I wore last spring, alack!

Because my waistband now has crept Quite halfway up my back!

And as for sleeves, more dolorous Than ever is my song—

Whereas they have been full and short,

Today they're small and long. E'en one's anatomy is not Exempt from sudden change! We take on flesh, or cast it off

In manner passing strange! Dame Fashion says: "You must be fat,

Or svelte, or quaintly lean; More Botticelli-like"—and lo!

No other type is seen! Oh Mother Eve, why did not you

Withstand the serpent's wiles? Then we, your daughters, had not known

This curse of varying styles!

—A Woman.

Two Views of Marriage.

"Two Views of Marriage" was published early in the last century.

Married persons are directed to read the lines as they are printed: single ones are to read the first and third lines, then the second, and finally the fourth in each verse.

That man must lead a happy life Who's freed from matrimonial chains;

Who is directed by his wife Is sure to suffer for his pains.

Adam could find no solid peace When Eve was given for a mate;

Until he saw a woman's face Adam was in a happy state.

In all the female face appear Hypocrisy, deceit and pride;

Truth, daring of a heart sincere, Ne'er known in woman to reside.

What tongue is able to unfold The falsehood that in woman dwells?

The worth in women we behold Is almost imperceptible.

Cursed be the foolish man, I say, Who changes from his singleness

Who will not yield to woman's sway Is sure of perfect blessedness.

The Rev. Father J. Moran, who next Sunday will succeed the Rev. Father E. Donnelly in the Coos Bay parish, tomorrow morning will conduct the Catholic services at North Bend at 8 o'clock. The Rev. "SUCH A TINY TODDLE"

Such a tiny toddle! And she wants to know Why the sun is golden, How the daisies grow!

Why do dandelions Choose the roadside bare? Tell me why the river Runs so fast, and where?

How can weenie swallows Fly so very high? Oh, so many questions! How? and where? and why?

Such a tiny toddle! She may know some day, All the clever reasons, What the wise men say;

But beyond their learning Shines the truth so clear, Even children listen, And delight to hear

Everything was fashioned By one mighty Hand, Birds, and beasts, and flowers, Earth, and sea, and land.

God Himself, my sweetheart, Gives the sun its glow, Tells the baby blossoms How and where to grow.

Guides the rushing river Till it joins the sea, Makes the birdies' pinions Light, and strong, and free.

And my little maiden With your earnest eyes; You are His, my darling, He will make you wise.
