Hair Raising Talk

This is not a blood and thunder story—the sort that causes your blood to curdle and hair to raise. On the contrary it is a brief, nice, civilized talk—yet showing how to raise a fine crop of hair and keep it in good condition by using.

Capillatone

We claim that it is easily the best toilet requisite of its kind on the market. They who have used it are enthusiastic in its praise. It cleans and invigorates the scalp; it prevents and cures dandruff; it stops the hair from falling out; its regular use soon shows surprisingly satisfactory results; and there is not one drop of injurious matter in its composition.

Pioneer Is Ill.—Robert Hayter came over from Coos River to see his father, W. L. Hayter, of near Myrtle Point, who has been very low since the 4th, about the time the old gentleman sustained a stroke of paralysis, and has been failing very fast.—Coquille Herald.

Go to Seattle.—A. M. Buntin of Beaver Hill and family who have been residents of Coos County for more than twenty years, left on the Breakwater today for Seattle where they will make their home while the children complete their education. They were loathe to leave here but Mrs. Buntin expressed the determination that just as soon as the children complete their education they would return to "dear old Coos county" and meanwhile their many friends hope they will return for an occasional visit. For four years, they had charge of the hotel at Beaver Hill. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Neff, Mrs. Neff being their daughter, accompanied them in hopes that the northern climate would benefit her health.

Plans Big Shoot.—J. R. Smith of North Bend, and members of the Yarrow Gun Club, are planning to pull off a big shoot on the Bay in August, probably during the meeting of the Oregon-Idaho Development congress. They plan to raise about $250 for prizes.

Wed at Gardiner.—The Roseburg Review announces the marriage of Bert Peterson and Minnie Peterson at Gardiner, July 11, Justice Thomas Williams officiating. Whether the groom is Bert Peterson, the former Coos Bay puglist who is now in the United States life saving service, could not be ascertained here today although his friends do not think he is the man.

Funeral Sunday.—The funeral of George Burns, who was killed in an accident at the Smith-Powers Logging Camp Thursday, will be held from the Catholic church at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The casket will not be opened at the church but those desiring to view the remains can do so by calling at the Temple & Wilson Undertaking parlors between 10 and 1 o'clock Sunday.

Get New Players.—Ed. Johnson, a first baseman from Vancouver and Geo. M. Baker, a pitcher and second baseman, from Cottage Grove, arrived here last night to recruit the Marshfield baseball team. They were sent in by Troch and Monohan who are expected home today. With W. C. Saxton, the south paw, who arrived day before yesterday, Manager Burkhardt hopes to take Coquille down the line at Coquille tomorrow and get a fast team together for the balance of the season. A number of fans will probably accompany the team to Coquille tomorrow.

SAFETY RAZORS.

We have all kinds. The Auto Strap, The Gillette and The Ever Ready, but the greatest of these is the Auto Strap. Ask us to show you this marvel. It beats anything ever shown on Coos Bay. An Automatic sharpener accompanies each razor. See our window.
