HANDLING A MOTOR BOAT

Some Important Points For Beginners and Reminders For Veterans.

Novices, and those who are not, would do well to remember the following important points:

1. When at the wheel, remember that is your first consideration. You cannot entertain the boat's occupants as well.
2. Keep your course, and know what that course is.
3. Regulate your speed to the company you are in. Marine motors are, as a rule, very flexible.
4. Do not cut corners.
5. When approaching a landing, learn to judge exactly the distance your boat will travel after stopping your propeller, so as to run alongside without using your reverse gear if possible. This requires some practice, but is amply rewarded by time saved, in the long run, and decrease of wear and tear on engine, gear or propeller. Anyone can get to a landing in time by alternately running full speed ahead and then astern.
6. When aboard your boat and facing the bow, your right hand is starboard, your left port. Keep to the right. Should a boat be overtaking you, hold to your course, that is, don't move your helm. Should you be overtaking anyone, it is your duty to pass clear on their left. The above only applies to narrow waters.
7. When going up or down stream should you wish to cross over to the other side and return and overtaking you on your left don't attempt to cross his bow; slow up until he has passed.
8. Keep clear of non-engined crafts. You have greater freedom of action than they; it costs 'you nothing and their occupants appreciate your courtesy.
9. Do not tow canoes or skiffs alongside. If towed at all they should be right aft with as short a tow line as possible.
10. Finally, remember the "rules of the road," Green to green or red to red. Perfect safety—go ahead. If to starboard red appear 'Tis your duty to keep clear. When upon your port is seen, A steamer's starboard light of green, There's not so much for you to do, As green to port keeps clear of you.

SENDS THANKS FOR ASSISTANCE

Modern Woodmen Lodges' Gift For Sanitarium Received In Colorado.

Sometime ago, The Times announced that the Modern Woodmen and Royal Neighbors of Coos county had forwarded $250 to defray the cost of establishing a tent at the tuberculosis sanitarium which the orders are establishing in Colorado. The remittance was made through Ned C. Kelly of Coquille, who has just received a letter from E. E. Murphy, who has charge of that work. Mr. Murphy writes in part as follows:

"I am in receipt of your draft for $250 as a contribution from the Camps of Coos County, Ore., both Modern Woodmen and Royal Neighbors. I note the amount given by each Camp and the same have been credited.

"Allow me to convey to you, and through you, to the Woodmen and Royal Neighbors Camps of your county, the heartfelt appreciation and gratitude of not only myself but the executive council for this generous act. You cannot appreciate the value this cottage will be to the Sanatorium and how much it will do toward curing some neighbor afflicted with a disease that is today destroying more lives than any other disease in the world, or any pestilence that ever invaded our land. It is more than pleasing to the Executive Council to feel that our efforts to build this Sanatorium are being appreciated and receiving the endorsement of the splendid membership of this Order, and your county by this contribution has placed itself in the forefront of those camps and counties in the jurisdiction in a movement that in future will bring more credit and scatter more sunshine and joy than any act or deed your Camp ever did.

"Please accept my heartfelt appreciation, as well as that of the executive council, and convey to those contributing our appreciation and gratitude, and I am satisfied the time will come when you will all be prouder of this than anything you ever did."
