Few On Excursion.—The excursion from Bandon and Coquille this morning brought over a comparatively small number. The Cody mill fire at Bandon played havoc with the plans there.

In Cigar Business.—T. B. Stackhouse who moved here recently from Huntington, W. Va., has become interested with C. A. Howard in the latter's cigar business. They will open a cigar factory on North Front street.

Orders Launched.—W. S. Chandler has ordered a new gasoline launch which will have a speed of about twelve miles an hour. A. O. Rogers is also figuring on having a new launch built and equipped with 35-horse power engines.

Take Homesteads.—Homestead entries were made at the United States Land Office in this city yesterday and today as follows: William C. Brooks, Prosper, Coos county; William T. Gillilan, Gold Beach, Curry county.—Roseburg News.

Schooners In.—The steam schooner Bandon arrived Thursday with oil for the Coos Bay Oil and Supply Company and will probably load at the Railroad docks. The Bee, another steam schooner, also came in yesterday and will load with lumber at the C. A. Smith mill.

Rebuild at Once.—Mayor Steve Gallier of Bandon, who came over last evening to attend the Oregon-Idaho Congress and invite the delegates and Coos Bay over there Sunday, says that the Cody mill will be rebuilt at once. Col. Coach informed him that the rebuilding would begin next Monday.

Council Tonight.—Owing to inability to secure a quorum last evening, the special meeting of the city council was postponed until this evening. The principal matter to come up is the purchase of the "B" street lot. It is understood that arrangements are being made to secure the cash to close the deal at once.

Hurt Leg.—Col. E. Hofer of Salem, severely wrenched his leg while coming down on the Breakwater. He was wandering around the ship wondering how it would feel to come to Coos Bay in a Pullman when suddenly the Breakwater struck a big wave. All thoughts of a Pullman were dispelled but for an instant only and today Col. Hofer is a more ardent advocate of a railroad to Coos Bay than ever.

Want Ad Gets It.—Mrs. Wm. Vaughn of North Bend, today recovered a valuable pin which she lost in Marshfield, the recovery being effected through the want columns of The Times. H. S. Bonebrake gave it to her, the party who found it having turned it over to him.

Horse Is Frightened.—A horse driven by Archie Whisnant in North Bend this afternoon became frightened at Dr. J. T. McCormac's automobile and smashed up the rig badly. Mr. Whisnant and his baby daughter and Mr. Smith of the Portland Journal, were in the rig at the time.

Was Cooston Man.—It was learned today that the young man who rescued Miss Vineyard from drowning in the Bay yesterday was a Mr. Floton of Cooston. Parties who witnessed the rescue declare it was one of the bravest acts they have seen in a long time, the waves running quite high at the time.

Election Tuesday.—The special election to amend the charter to permit the council to issue about $100,000 in bonds will be held next Tuesday, the call for the election appearing elsewhere in The Times. Many believe that it will carry by a large majority. At present, the council plans to issue only sufficient of the bonds to pay up the outstanding warrants and other indebtedness.

News to Owner.—C. O. Erickson of Marshfield, found some news in The Times last evening that was a surprise to him—the account of the burning of the house on his ranch on Catching Inlet. He had not heard a word of it until he saw it in The Times. He left for the place this morning. This is the second time the house has burned within a few years. The house cost about $1,000 and he carried no insurance on it.

Loses Everything.—C. C. Russell, the Catching Inlet gardener who occupied the C. O. Erickson house on Catching Inlet which was destroyed by fire yesterday, was in the city today. He says his family lost practically everything except the piano which he was enabled to save by parties from the launch Curlew which happened along soon after the fire was discovered. He had $570 insurance on his effects. He and the boys were working in the garden about forty rods from the place when the blaze was discovered and he does not know what could have started it. Mrs. Russell was away from home.

LARGE NUMBER TO LOWER BAY

Over 1,500 Participate In Excursion to the Bar Friday Afternoon.

The trip to the lower Bay yesterday afternoon for the Oregon-Idaho Development Congress delegates was probably the biggest excursion ever held here. The steamer Breakwater had been given for use by Manager Mills and it was loaded with about 500 people. Besides there were over a dozen gasoline boats of different sizes. Tickets had been provided for everyone who wanted to go and at 1:30 the passengers gathered and started for the lower Bay. The Breakwater stopped at North Bend where quite a large number of passengers were taken on.

The life saving crew, with Capt. Boles was out when the flotilla reached the lower bay and an exhibition was given. A line was shot out to the Breakwater and fastened to a mast and men were taken ashore to show how passengers are rescued from a wrecked ship. The life saving crew also gave a drill in the water, turning over their life boat and showing in different ways how they work.

To many the work of the life saving crew was a new thing and the crowd enjoyed it. On the steamer Flyer was a machine for making moving pictures. It is in charge of men sent here by a Chicago film firm and a moving picture of the fleet of boats and the work of the life savers was made so the excursion of yesterday was one which will be seen by people in moving picture shows all over the country.

The boats came back so that the excursionists were all landed in good time for supper and the night business session. Probably fully 1,000 persons were on the boats making up the fleet. All of the mills and factories along the waterfront saluted as the boats passed and there was whistling heard from either shore of water nearly all of the time.

The entertainment was characteristic of Coos Bay and filled in the afternoon pleasantly and gave all the people a good chance to see just what was on Coos Bay.
