MARSHFIELD, OREGON

A. D. S.

HERB TEA

Will do for your entire family. Let every one, young and old, drink of it and they will eat better, sleep better, feel better. It is purely vegetable, positively harmless, mildly purges and cleanses the whole system and is therefore the best blood purifier. When you take it you get up in the morning and exclaim: "By Jim! I feel fine—tip-top."

Injures Foot.—Gordon Smith sustained a severely crushed foot yesterday, a heavy timber fell on it while he was working in the rear of the Smith & Son blacksmith shop.

May Cremate Body.—J. F. Bode announced today before leaving for Portland that the remains of Mrs. Bode might be cremated at Portland instead of being shipped to her old home at Colorado Springs for burial. He has wired relatives there to meet them at Portland.

Will Reside Here.—According to a Salem dispatch, Clifford S. Benson, son of Governor Benson, and his bride, former Miss Bertha Allen of Portland, will come to Marshfield to reside, Mr. Benson figuring on engaging in the lumber business here. They were married at Salem September 2, the event being a surprise to their friends and relatives.

Enjoy Outing.—About forty members of the Marshfield Lutheran church headed by Rev. J. Richard Olson and Rev. B. F. Bengtson took the visiting Lutheran ministers to the Life Saving Station yesterday for an outing. The day was a delightful one and the trip greatly enjoyed. The visiting divines left for their homes on the Alliance today.

Is Fined.—Abraham Tenbrook, a former resident of Marshfield, but now mayor of Merrill, Oregon, was fined at Klamath Falls for shooting ducks out of season. He and a party were out deer hunting when they struck a flock of mallards and the temptation was too great. A game warden happened to get sight of them and they attempted to escape him but their launch struck a sand bar and they were overhauled. Mrs. Tenbrook is a sister of Judge Hall and Tom Hall.

Elect Teacher.—Miss Ora J. Wood of Oakland, Cal., a graduate of the Oakland Polytechnic Business College, has been elected instructor in the commercial department of the Marshfield high school.

Men Quit Today.—Because their demand for an increase from $2 to $2.50 per day was refused, twenty men employed in the sorting sheds at the C. A. Smith mill, quit work this morning.

Gets Too Many.—"For the Lord's sake, take out that ad of Mrs. Smith for a girl." This was the gentle request of J. R. Smith of North Bend, over the phone today and he continued, "I am bothered to death about it. We got a girl soon after we put it in, but I have been forgetting to tell you to take it out and this morning, I had bother with two long distance phone messages from Bandon and Coquille wanting to know if we still needed a girl."

HARRIMAN'S PROMISE

Interviewed in New York the day he returned, Harriman told a reporter: "We must take advantage of these unusually prosperous times to develop more quickly. We will build new railroads in Idaho and Oregon, and in other places; I won't tell where." If he redeems his promise in the two states named, we will waive our rights to plead for railroads in the regions he doesn't mention.—Portland Oregonian.

ADVERTISING EXPERIENCE MEETING

Advertising in all its phases, both in relation to the newspapers and magazines having space to sell and the business interests of the country which spend millions of dollars in advertising their wares, was discussed during the fifth annual session of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, which was held in Louisville, Ky., recently. All of the large cities of the country having advertising clubs were represented in the convention.

One of the most interesting features of the session were the addresses by great advertisers who have made fortunes through the magic of printers' ink. One of these is Frank Van Camp, of Indianapolis, who spends two million dollars a year to advertise his milk, beans, and other food products.

In telling of what advertising has done for him, Mr. Van Camp cites this instance: "I made arrangements to spend $100,000 in one week in Greater New York alone, and before the week was out I had to cut out advertising and give day and night orders to my factories." That is why Mr. Van Camp was qualified to speak on "Advertising. What it is, and Its Effect on the Consumer."

Hugh Chalmers was getting $72,000 a year as advertising and sales manager of the National Cash Register Company when he left that job to take the presidency of the Chalmers-Detroit Company.

"I didn't know anything about automobiles, but I did know something about advertising," explained Mr. Chalmers naively.

He developed an idea for a new type of car, spent the modest sum of $28,000 in a week to let the country know about it—and sold 984 machines as a result. What he thinks of advertising was told under the title of "Advertising and Salesmanship."

The big business men of the country, who have come to know the necessity of wise expenditures in advertising, met with the convention along with the "ad" writers and the agency men.

The railroads of the world are valued at $27,775,000,000.

SAY GOODBYE TO J. E. OREN

Employees at C. A. Smith Mill
Tender Him Farewell Banquet.

A farewell banquet was tendered J. E. Oren, the retiring general manager of the C. A. Smith mill, at the Chandler last evening by his fellow officials and employees of that institution. As a lasting token of their esteem, he was presented a handsome diamond ring, the presentation being made by J. D. Goss.

Aside from the general expressions of regret that the "happy family" must be broken up, last evening's event was a most enjoyable one. J. D. Goss presided as toastmaster and in presenting Mr. Oren the diamond ring assured him that it was a mere keepsake and that long life, happiness and success for him were the ardent wishes of all. Mr. Oren responded, thanking his associates for their handsome tribute and said that his associations with them would ever be a bright spot in his memory.

Several others in impromptu talks paid tribute to Mr. Oren and expressed regret that ill-health compelled him to leave. Among those who responded were A. Meehan, B. W. Olson, Mr. Quinn, Jas. Bennett, J. E. Stack, R. K. Booth, W. M. Blake, Fred. Powers, B. B. Ostlund, W. J. Conrad, Hugo Quist and A. Lofgren.

Among those present at the banquet were:

J. E. Oren, Gus Adelsperger, A. Meehan, Ben McMillen, J. D. Goss, R. K. Booth, Geo. F. Murch, David Nelson, Capt. B. W. Olson, W. M. Blake, Mr. Quinn, Fred Powers, Jas. Bennett, B. B. Ostlund, J. E. Stack, F. W. Payne, Ben Matheson, W. J. Conrad, G. A. Brown, A. N. Lofgren, H. E. Quist, V. A. Johnson, L. W. Holmberg, Enoch Holmberg and C. A. Lagerstrom.

Mr. Oren will leave tomorrow for Minneapolis where he will join his wife and family and make his future home. As yet, his successor as general manager of the company on Coos Bay has not been announced.

A. WHISNANT was in the city today in the interests of the OREGON JOURNAL OF PORTLAND. The Journal is making a bid for the reading public of Coos County that cannot be ignored. No other Portland paper has ever placed a representation on salary in the county to represent them from a news standpoint as well as in the subscription field and as this is now the position filled by Mr. Whisnant, a greater amount of publicity is guaranteed Coos County than ever through the Journal.
