The Roseburg Review says: "The formal contract with Messrs. Kuettner and Haas for building an electric railway between Roseburg and Coos Bay was received here this morning from Coos county, where it was signed by the executive committees in charge of the matter in the several Coos county towns interested. The Roseburg executive committee signed the document this afternoon and it will be forwarded to Portland tonight. It is expected that the necessary bond will be filed by Messrs. Kuettner and Haas in a few days, and the matter will then be up to our citizens to raise the necessary $25,000 to begin the work. It would seem that this should be subscribed in two or three days and the whole matter arranged by the end of next week. With this accomplished, there seems every assurance that the long-looked for railroad to the coast will soon be built."
