GOOD CHEER MAKERS.

ACCORDING TO ONE of the proverbs, "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine," but, in truth, a merry heart "doeth" more good than all the medicine that was ever compounded, for a merry heart is a factory whose product is sunshine, cheerfulness, kindness, and all the qualities that help to make happiness.

To be born merry hearted is to be greatly blessed, since the owner of a merry heart cannot long be depressed by life's shadows, and is always a good-cheer maker. As everyone knows, a good-cheer maker is a comfortable sort of a person to have around, and is something no well regulated family should be without if there is to be complete happiness in the home.

Happiness, in one form or another, is the thing which all the world is looking and longing for. It is called by many different names, and is represented in many different ways, but, while one may travel by devious routes to discover it, the object of every voyage is the same. They all narrow down to the one word "happiness," whatever may be thought necessary to bring about this condition of mind.

If we are making others happy, we are very sure of being happy ourselves. "We save it when we scatter it everywhere," and we may scatter it in a way other than by actual deeds or service.

Have you ever chanced to think how strong an influence is the atmosphere we create around us? If we are feeling bright and sunny, we give out this atmosphere. If we are absorbed in gloom, a prey of dolorous thoughts and direful imaginings this is the atmosphere with which we are surrounded. It is felt by those with whom we come in contact, and they are affected accordingly. Life is largely made up of habits and we cannot do better than to get in the habit of carrying about with us a cheerful atmosphere. In reality, the world is much as we make it, and the mutual benefit plan is to make of it as good an old world as possible.

Those who look habitually on the bright side of things radiate a helpful influence, and they are the ones whose society is most sought. They are full of the magnetism and vitality born of hope, and they inspire others with hopefulness and help to dispel their gloom. We all like the sunny people; those who can make us feel that our worries are not real troubles, but are only a "state of mind," and that the most we have to do is to change our mind in order to lose the worry. The ones of sunny atmosphere can do this without even mentioning the word trouble or arguing against it. Their very presence is peace, and their's is the power to strengthen, cheer and soothe.

We sometimes may be in a state of mind when we think we do not care whether we make anyone else happy or not, since we ourselves are wretched. "We, ourselves," are too often the paramount consideration, though this fact is not freely acknowledged, but if we try to feel happy and succeed, we confer a benefit on others, and whatever adds in even the smallest way to the world's brightness and cheer, is worth while.

It is not always easy to surround ourselves with an atmosphere that is helpful, but having knowledge of its power, of the good it can do, cheerfulness, if it does not come naturally, is something to strive for, and once obtained, to cherish as a rare possession. It is better to be a lifter rather than a leaver, and "he who cheers others need not fear for himself."

WITH THE TOAST AND TEA

GOOD EVENING.

Have hope! Though clouds environ round, And gladness hides her face in scorn, Put thou the shadow from thy brow; No night but hath its morn! —Selected.

LOOK UP.

When trials o'ertake us and dark seems the way, When with trouble beset we are downcast and blue, Look up through the clouds, see the brightness of day; Be loyal and earnest, be faithful and true.

Our mistakes seem as mountains, our sins are as great loads, But to err is but human and sins are forgiven. Look on them as steps to but show us the road That leads to the brightness the future holds hidden.

No life is so drear, weary, sin-sick, depressed But that sunshine may not far exceed shadows cast. Life's a great mille of treasure, seek therefore the best, Assert now thy right, prove thy heritage vast. W. C. GRAVES.
