OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY OF MARSHFIELD.

Official Paper of Coos County.

THE GRIND GOES ON.

WRITER, assisted by an artist has called attention in a current magazine to the "burdens of great wealth." It is an argument calculated to discourage men from acquiring wealth and to induce those who have it to give it up freely. We have no doubt that as soon Rockefeller and Carnegie and Mrs. Green read it they will hasten to their stores of golden treasure to scatter it broadcast, and when the ordinary man, trying to make enough to pay the rent and a coal bill and dreaming of becoming a Rockefeller, sees the story, he is bound to wake up.

The writer of the article about the burdens of great wealth divides the burdens into several classes, each one apparently more staggering than the others and plainly indicating the folly of the pursuit of riches, altogether an imposing array. For instance, there is the annoyance of beggars. And still, possibly this may be discarded, for most men have been importuned on the street even if they have not been approached by the ubiquitous pan handler in finely carpeted offices. The utter lack of privacy of the enormously wealthy is cited by the magazine writer as one of the penalties of the game. This is a very sad affliction, as viewed by the writer of the article and he describes it in somewhat furid fashion. It is claimed that the Croesus is snap shotted, which is something new in the world, and his servants are interview and every bit of kitchen gossip which concerns him and his family is hurried into print, etc. All that sounds discouraging and yet on second thought, the reader is likely to feel some surprise. When has he read kitchen gossip except per-
