OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY OF MARSHFIELD.

Official Paper of Coos County.

THAT CITY CHARTER.

HAT HAS become of Marshfield's new city charter? Several prominent citizens and leading attorneys labored long and faichfully last spring and summer to produce a new city charter suitable to the altered conditions and requirements of the city. After completion it was submitted to the city council for approval and action. Since then, nothing has been heard of it.

If it is to be voted on at the coming city election, it is time that the voters were being made familiar with its provisions so that they might vote upon the matter intelligently. If it is not to be voted on, why

Marshfield has outgrown the old charter and needs a new one.

Since Marshfield began agitation for its new charter, the city of Bandon also has taken up the matter. There is this difference, however, Bandon prepared its charter, discussbeing conducted under it while tion. Marshfield-well Marshfield seems to have forgotten all about it.
