Is Paid.—Stanley Olin today received $5,200, the amount of his verdict against the Libby coal mine for injuries sustained a few years ago. J. T. Hall, his attorney, received a check for that amount from J. W. Bennett, attorney for the defendant.

Lumbermen Here.—Miles Standish and H. B. Hickey of the Standish-Hickey Lumber Company, are spending a few weeks on the Bay. They recently acquired a big interest in the North Bend Lumber Company's mill and are understood to be negotiating for timber, with a view of starting their own logging camps.

Elect Directors.—At a meeting of the Archer Land Company, which owns about two hundred lots across around Bay City, A. H. Powers was added to the directory board, having acquired G. W. Carleton's interest in the syndicate. The other directors are M. C. Horton, J. S. Coke and I. S. Smith.

Gets Dogs.—Marshal Carter and his dog catcher are busy rounding up the canines on which the taxes have not been paid this year. He has collected $175 but this only about one-half the amount to be collected. This morning he had a couple of canines in tow for the city pound and it will cost the owners $1 extra besides the tax to get them. In case this is not paid soon, the canines will be killed.

Needs Enumerators.—Director Hendricks of Salem who has charge of the taking of federal census in this section, says that he has only had six applications here for enumerators while he will need about twenty-five. The job will last about six weeks and the pay is $6 per day.

CITY PAVING COST $100,000

Council Arranges to Secure Competition Between Various Kinds by Tentative Bids

To secure competition between the contractors laying various kinds of hard paving, the Marshfield city council last evening instructed City Recorder Butler to ask for tentative bids to be opened in three weeks. This action was taken on account of the state law and city charter preventing the city asking for bids on the various kinds of paving under "hard paving" specifications and the means of getting around the restriction.

While Mr. Sandberg has not completed the estimates on all the streets that the council and property owners are desirous of improving this summer, he roughly estimates that over 30,000 square yards of paving are to be laid this summer in Marshfield. This, with grading, will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Mr. Sandberg said that during his recent trip north, he had inspected the paving in several places. He said that in Salem, the bituminous paving was being laid for $2.22 1/2 per square yard and in Portland from $2.12 up. The bituminous rock paving that Marshfield has been putting in the past season has been figured at $2.37 1/2 per square yard. These figures do not include the cost of grading and getting the streets into condition for the paving.

As soon as the tentative bids are secured, which will be the maximum amount per yard that the contractors will ask, specifications for the kind of paving that the council thinks is the best and cheapest will be prepared and final bids asked. It is hoped to have this done so that the contracts can be let in March or April and the contractors enabled to start the projects just as soon as the weather clears in the spring.

ANGRY OVER PAVING COST

George Ayres and Others Claim Contractor Buncoed Them On Street Work.

Declaring they had been "buncoed" and "gold-bricked," George Ayres and other Commercial avenue property owners left the council chamber last evening highly indignant when they found that they had been too late in entering their protest against the cost of paving on that thoroughfare. There was quite a delegation present, including Mr. Ayres, Mr. Brown, Geo. Campbell, Rev. Richard Olson and others.

Rev. Olson first brought the matter up by wanting to know why the paving of the western part of Commercial avenue had cost at the rate of about $77 per 100 feet frontage more than did the eastern portion of the same street. He said that prior to the city ordering the work done, Contractor Whitmore had agreed with several of the property owners that the work would be done at the same cost as the eastern part of the street.

Contractor Whitmore was called on to explain the matter and he said that he had told the property owners their work would be figured on the same basis as the other work. However, he said that just about that time, he had been compelled to pay $2.75 per day for common labor which he had been securing for $2.25 and $6.00 for teams that he had previously secured for $5.00. Besides this, he said that the west end of the street required considerable filling which the east end did not.

George Ayres next arose and declared that Mr. Whitmore had agreed with George Campbell, M. R. Brown and himself in the presence of F. A. Sacchi that the work should be done at the same cost as the east end of the street. He called upon Messrs. Brown and Campbell who substantiated this. They also declared that the fill or grading had amounted to very little.

Contractor Sandberg said that there was a little more grading on the west end than on the east end, about 200 yards.

In going over the figures on the contract, it was found that the job had been awarded for about $500 more than Engineer Sandberg had estimated it would cost and that this was responsible for the deficit assessment.

Councilman Coke and other members of the council said that they had not been aware of the price in Mr. Whitmore's alleged agreement with the property owners, but that if they had been they would have seen it had been carried out. Mr. Coke said that he thought it had all been arranged between the property owners and contractors in a satisfactory manner and this had been adopted by the city.

When the difference in cost had been pointed out and the matter discussed, City Attorney Goss said that there was nothing that the city council could do legally in the matter. He said it was simply up to the property owners and Mr. Whitmore to settle. He said the property owners should have been present when the contract was awarded. It developed that the paving had been laid and the job practically completed before the city had made the assessment and awarded the contract but this did not affect the situation.

When informed that the council could not do anything, Mr. Ayres arose and declared that he would never pay the extra amount if he had to spend three times as much in litigation. Turning to Mr. Whitmore, he said, "Mr. Whitmore, you can put that in your pipe and smoke it," and left the room. The matter was then dropped by the council.
