

SHERMAN AVE. WORK DELAYED

North Bend City Council Reconsiders Plan—Blake Franchise Up.

Partly owing to the fact that only one bid was received on the proposed $22,000 improvement and partly because it was thought that the opening of the waterfront road between Marshfield and North Bend would for the present afford sufficient highway privileges between the two towns, the North Bend city council at the meeting this week deferred the improvement of Sherman avenue. J. J. Burns was the only bidder for the work and his bid was returned unopened.

The council in discussing it advanced the theory that if Major Kinney is going to secede from North Bend as he is now endeavoring to do, it would be useless to open the street further than Ohio avenue. Besides this, some of the council thought to divide the improvement and in this way secure more competition for the work.

Holdup Franchise.

Copies of three ordinances from J. M. Blake, who is seeking a street railway in North Bend were submitted but no action was taken on them. One was providing for calling a special election in April, another for amending the North Bend city charter and the third granting the franchise. The council in laying them on the table stated that they would not take action on them until the date of opening the waterfront road between Marshfield and North Bend was certain because they claim Mr. Blake's franchise specifies that he is not to begin the construction of the line until sixty days after the road is opened. They declared that North Bend has one franchise like this now—the Bell franchise—in which it specified the road shall be started within sixty days after Sherman avenue is opened. This franchise was granted several years ago and North Bend has not derived anything from it, the councilmen claimed.

GOOD YEAR IN PROSPECT HERE

COOS COUNTY LUMBERMEN EXPECT OUTPUT IN 1910 MAY DOUBLE THAT OF 1909.

The coming year promises to bring the greatest activity yet in the lumber business of Coos County, according to the statements of lumbermen. This is true both of the Coos Bay District and the Coquille River section. Shipping from both ports of the county, Coos Bay and the Coquille River, is increasing.

The C. A. Smith Lumber & Manufacturing Company in Marshfield has been running its big mill steadily and is now equipping a second mill, which will be used for cutting cedar and spruce exclusively. This will prevent the changing of the mill and will save time. The second mill will have the finest of equipment and a daily capacity of about 150,000 feet; the big mill can cut 300,000 feet in ten hours. A new $25,000 waste burner is being installed and other improvements are continually being made.

At North Bend everything is now going full force. The Simpson Lumber Company is operating the old mill and also the mill at Porter where a new boiler house with new equipment throughout has been completed. The sash and door factory of the North Bend Manufacturing Company has been shut down for a time to install new machinery to increase its capacity.

The mill of the North Bend Lumber Company, which recently went into the hand of new owners, is running full force and turning out large shipments. The Coos Bay Manufacturing Company is also operating its box factory with a big force and the Reynolds sawmill is running steadily to furnish the lumber for the box factory.

The activity seen in the lumber mills is also found in the logging camps. A tract of 12,000,000 feet of timber is to be opened on Catching Inlet, and the North Bend Lumber Company has contracted for the logs cut from it. All the camps are rushed, as there is a great demand at the mills for logs. Those who operated individual camps on the Coquille River expecting to sell their logs in the open market are sorry how that their faith in the revival of the business was not strong enough to induce them to take out more.

Activity on the Coquille River is the same. The Randolph Lumber Company mill near Bandon is again operating and loading boats for San Francisco. The Lyons & Johnson mill, which was also closed this summer, is cutting lumber for the Cody Lumber Company, at Bandon. The latter firm's mill was burned down last July and now a new and finely equipped mill will be ready to operate about the first of April. The new mill will cost over $100,000 and will be equipped with modern machinery of every kind. It will have a capacity of about 80,000 feet daily and will employ about 60 men. The company also employs 65 men in a big lumber camp on the river.

The Prosper Lumber Company, just above Bandon on the Coquille River, is operating the mill and also a big logging camp where a number of improvements in the way of machinery have recently been made.

During the past year 8 1/2 miles of logging railroads have been constructed in the county and many thousands of dollars worth of logging machinery has been brought here, and more camps will be opened to meet the demand for logs.

A. Meehan, general manager of the C. A. Smith interests, said recently that shipping from Coos Bay during the year 1910 would double that of 1909 because of the increase in the lumber manufacturing business. Colonel R. A. Rosa, owner of the Rosa mill and large timber holdings south of Bandon, thinks that there will be a particular demand for the white cedar, which is peculiar to Coos and Curry counties, as it is being used extensively in all marine work. Colonel Rosa is the oldest veteran lumberman of the county and still engaged in active business.

E. E. Johnson, secretary of the Johnson Lumber Company at Coquille, reports that he expects the coming year to see a great improvement over the past 12 months. Members of the Cody Lumber Company say they look for a big advance in demand for lumber by the time their new mill is opened and expect to keep two lumber steamers

OVERDOSE TO SAVE HIS LIFE

V. D. Hutson, North Bend Young Man, Will Survive Attempted Suicide.

V. D. Hutson, the young man who was found suffering from strychnine poisoning at the Coast Boarding House in North Bend the night before last, is now on the road to recovery and it is practically certain that he will get well. The fact that he took an overdose of the poison, taking about ten tablets, is the thing that saved his life.

Last evening about 8 o'clock, he recovered sufficiently to talk. He appeared much ashamed of his act and while he talked considerably about it. However, he submitted sufficient to substantiate the story of "unrequited love" that was told yesterday, the failure to receive his expected missives for several weeks after they had been coming regularly convincing him that he had been thrown down.

Today he is getting along as well as could be expected.

Howard Johnson, the Coos County representative of A. F. Estabrook & Co., of San Francisco, who has his headquarters at Bandon, says the handling and shipping of railway ties this year will greatly increase because of activities in railway construction work. These ties come from the woods of Coos and Curry counties and are shipped mostly from Bandon, which is also a shipping point for the matchwood of the vicinity.

EACH THOUGHT DEAD, BOTH MARRIED AGAIN

Couple Separated Thirty-Two Years Find Each Other Under Strange Conditions.

OWOSSO, Mich., Jan. 28.—After a separation of thirty-two years, during which each thought the other dead and both remarried, A. E. Mead of Brant, and the wife who left him have found each other.

The man's second wife and the woman's second husband are alive, so it has been decided that their lives shall be continued as they have been for years, with no attempt at further separations and reconciliations.

Mead became a wanderer after his wife had left him, because of a trivial family trouble, finally marrying again in Oklahoma. He returned to Michigan and lived for a quarter of a century within a dozen miles of his former wife. Winters during the lulls on the farm he worked as a fireman in a sugar factory here.

A conversation with Otto Kirchner, another fireman, who had confided to him some family troubles, led to the discovery that Kirchner's wife was Mead's daughter, whom he had thought dead for thirty years.

A meeting with his former wife, now Mrs. William Herman, followed. The two families now are warm friends. Mead reconciled his daughter to Kirchner, obtained the latter a position in Cadillac, away from the influences which had disturbed them, and furnished a new home for them.
