Malthoid Roofing

Comes nearer to being indestructible than any known roofing. It's incomparable. Tin, iron, shingles or slate, or the mass of cheap imitations are not to be classed with it. Malthoid always makes good, and in doing so makes friends for the original makers.

Lincoln's Funeral Coach.
That the first Pullman sleeping car, constructed in 1864 in the shops of the Alton and Chicago and called the Pioneer, served as a funeral coach for President Lincoln will be news to many persons. Its cost was $18,000, which was regarded in those days as most extravagant, and as it was higher and wider than the ordinary cars and so wider and higher than the clearances of station platforms and bridges when it was decided that it should be the funeral coach of the president many changes were involved. Gangs of men were set working night and day to cut wider clearances all the way from Washington (by way of New York and Albany) to Springfield, Ill.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Where It Rains Every Day.
There is a group of islands to the south of New Zealand called "The Sisters," which are said to be subjected to a practically constant rainfall. The same may be said of the islands and mainland of Terra del Fuego, save for the difference that the rain often takes the form of sleet and snow. On a line running round the world from four to eight or nine degrees there are patches over which rain seldom ceases to fall. This is called the "zone of constant precipitation," but at the same time there are several localities along with it with very little rainfall.

The Pilot Fish.
A little fish about which many interesting fancies cluster is the pilot fish. Aelian tells us that pilot fishes were supposed to be kindly disposed toward sailors, and therefore liked to approach ships, which they continued with and guided until they reached land. They were deemed sacred to Neptune, the god of the ocean, who protected them from designed injury; consequently a man who had ventured to eat one soon afterward lost his son by drowning. Apollo was said to have changed a fisherman named Bouddus, who had crossed him in his boat, into a pilot fish and condemned him for all eternity to the task of gratuitous pilotage. He is also said to be a pilot of sharks and is said to warn the latter away from baited hooks and other dangers and lead them to food. There really does exist a strange bond of friendship between the huge shark and this little member of the mackerel family, which are often to be seen traveling together although the pilot fish's supposed car to warn its companion of impending danger and to provide food for it is a fallacy pure and simple.

An Indirect Hit.
A patient who was suffering from a scalp wound was recently admitted to a hospital. "How did this happen?" asked the resident surgeon.
"The wife hit me on the head with a stone," was the answer.
"It's the first time I ever heard of a woman hitting anything she aimed at," the doctor observed jokingly.
"Oh, she didn't aim it at me! She was throwing the stone at our neighbor's fowl, and I was standing behind her!"—London Graphic.

What a Change!
"He used to kiss me every time we passed through a tunnel before our marriage," said the little woman, with sad reflections.
"And does he do so now?" asked the bosom friend.
"No; he takes a drink."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Reduced.
"Old Juggleworth died at an advanced age, didn't he?"
"On the contrary, he died at a greatly reduced age. He was really twenty years older than he said he was."—Chicago News.

The Penalty.
Jinks—How much do you think a minister ought to get for marrying a couple? Filkins—Well, if wholly unacquainted with them, perhaps he might be let off with six months.

His Way of Putting It.
Sillius—Do you believe there is honor among thieves? Cynicus—No; they are just as bad as other people.—Philadelphia Record.

BABY'S OUTFIT BOX.

How to Make a Pretty Receptacle For the Infant's Clothes.
In order to make a baby's box get a clean, strong wooden box from the grocer, if possible one with a hinged top, or put the top on with two small hinges. The box should be about three feet long, two feet wide and two feet deep. Line it with unbleached muslin first, then with a pretty flowered denim. The inside of the lid should first be covered with muslin, then with denim, and a strip eight inches wide may be put on to form pockets to hold the articles of the baby. The outside of the box may be covered with denim or matting.

If you cover it with denim pad the top of the box well and it will make a comfortable seat. Fasten the covering on with brass headed tacks and get two brass handles for the ends of the box. The baby's slippers may be kept in the box, its basket and other things. A strawberry crate makes a pretty box for holding a baby's outfit. Take a smooth new crate, paint it white or pale blue and line it inside with either blue gingham or white cambric. The lid of this may be finished inside with pockets and cushions outside. This box will not gather as much dust as the other one described and for that reason may be preferred.

Humbling a Lawyer.
A prominent Indianapolis lawyer tells a story of a letter he dictated to a new stenographer to a client in Cincinnati. The client, a new one, had asked his opinion as to certain business relations here. He dictated like this:

"Dear Sirs—Yours of the 6th inst. at hand. My first blush opinion as to the matter," etc.
The new stenographer wrote the letter and submitted it to the lawyer. Since she was a new stenographer he read the letter with care—to his everlasting relief. She had written it: "Dear Sirs—Yours of the 6th inst. at hand. My first gush of opinion as to the matter," etc.—Indianapolis Star.

An Old Sailing Vessel.
Modern steamships have a very brief life as compared with the old sailing vessels. The Princess Mary, which conveyed King William III. to England from Holland in 1688 and was then over seventy years old, lasted until 1827. This vessel was retained as a royal yacht until the reign of George I., by whose orders she was sold. As the Betsy Cairns she sailed to the West Indies and back for over fifty years and then after another change of ownership was employed as a collier until Feb. 17, 1827, when she struck a rock and was totally wrecked.
