A FATAL DEFECT.

ANY NOVICE in transportation could have pointed out to A. Brodbeck of Salt Lake City a fatal initial defect in his plan to establish an airship line from New York to London, via Peking.

This proposition has been submitted by the westerner to the postoffice department and the second assistant postmaster general has passed upon it, calling the inventor's attention to the fact that it would be impossible for the government to subsidize the line for carrying mails for the reason that the law has been so drawn as to appropriate funds for transportation of mails by railroad only.

But this is not the fatal defect, for we have no doubt that the Hon. Stephen B. Elkins of the commerce committee would promptly co-operate with the Hon. Boise Penrose of the post roads committee in amending the law so as to let airships in on the good things which congress provides.

In unfolding his plan to the postoffice department, Mr. Brodbeck pointed out the advantages incident to his proposed line which would avoid both oceans since he would deflect its course at San Francisco to Bering, via Alaska. "The principal stations," he explained, "would be New York, Chicago, Omaha, Denver, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Seattle, Fort Williams, Bering, Sakhalin, Tokio, Peking, Irkutsk, Omsk, Orenburg, Moscow, St. Petersburg, Riga, Berlin, Cologne, Paris and London."

This list of towns is all right as far as it goes. The fatal defect lies in an omission. It is impossible to figure out how the aviator scheme of the Salt Lake man can succeed that leaves off its line such an important place as Coos Bay and the attention of Railway Booster J. W. Bennett is directed thereto.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

GOOD EVENING.

One cannot always be a hero, but one can always be a man.— Goethe.

IT PAYS TO SMILE.

Smile, a little, smile a little, As you go along; Not alone when life is pleasant, But when things go wrong. Care delights to see you frowning, Loves to hear you sigh; Turn a smiling face upon her, Quick the dame will fly.

Smile a little, smile a little All along the road, Every life must have its burden, Every heart its load, Why sit down in gloom and darkness With your grief to sup? As you drink fate's bitter tonic, Smile across the cup.

Smile upon the troubled pilgrim Whom you pass or meet. Frowns are thorns and smiles are blossoms, Off for weary feet. Do not make the way seem harder By a sullen face. Smile a little, smile a little, Brighten up the place.

Smile upon your undone labor; Not for one who grieves O'er his task, waits wealth and glory, He who smiles achieves. Though you meet with loss and sorrow, In the passing years, Smile a little, smile a little, Even through your tears.

One touch of scandal makes the whole town "chin."

Ignorance and intolerance are the handmaidens of hate.

The band leader frequently puts on more airs than the band can play. This trying to put rubbers on over web feet is not the quibbish, easy job that it is cracked up to be, dum it all!

It is estimated by the head of the chewing gum statistical bureau that fully 3,000,000,000 sticks of gum will be masticated by Yankees the coming season. When it is taken into consideration that all this is in addition to the countless numbers who will chew the rag the figures are little short of appalling.

SERVES HIM RIGHT.

A Sumner bachelor contributes the following tale of woe to The Times. If his wooing is as punk as his poetry, it is not at all strange that he is still single. He says:

I'm sitting alone by the fireside
Dressed just as I came from the dance,
And a feeling of awe comes o'er me,
When I think of my circumstance.

As through the field each day I trod,
Behind my weary team,
My thoughts recall the happy days,
When my heart with joy did beam.

Alas! I am a bachelor now,
And vainly do I strive
To capture for myself a frau.
But folks forget that I really am alive.

When to my shack of solitude,
From my toff I serenely glide,
There's no one there to welcome me,
No one in whom to confide.

So I calmly put the meat
In the pan to fry;
The coffee boils, the beans are done,
Dinner's ready for Me, Myself and I.

Important Change In Depot For Supplies On Coos Bay.

The Pioneer Hardware Co. have purchased the Ship Chandlery stock of the Coos Bay Oil & Supply Co. and have moved same to their store building No. 330 North Front St., Marshfield, Ore.

The stock is complete and consists of a full line of Yacht and Launch Supplies; Manila, Hemp and Cotton Cordage; Marine Lamps and Search Lights; Tents, Camp Furniture and Hammocks; Nets, Twines and Fishing Tackle; Paints, Oils, Varnishes and Hardware; Ship Chandlery and Naval Stores; Flags of every description.

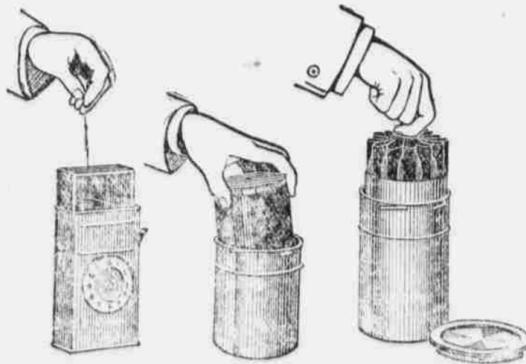

They also carry a complete stock of the celebrated VALVOLINE and HAVOLINE Gas Engine Oils and Greases.

It is their object to handle the above lines on the same business principles as they have handled the general hardware business in the past, making the prices as low as possible, quality considered and treating each and every one the same.

In speaking of the change Manager Hague said this morning that it was his purpose to merit and secure such a large measure of public support as would warrant carrying a stock of these goods so large that every want may be supplied here as well as in the large cities of the coast.
