

OPTIONS TAKEN AT ROSEBURG

People There Jubilant Over Prospect of Railroad Starting Soon.

Roseburg is feeling jubilant over the prospects for the early beginning of construction on the Coos Bay and Oregon Central Railway, the new name of the old Coos Bay, Oregon and Idaho project. Concerning the status of the road there, the Roseburg News says:

"At the time the survey for the proposed Coos Bay, Oregon & Idaho Railroad was completed to this city about three months ago, F. A. Haines, for many years locating engineer for the Northwestern railroad system arrived in town, and after conferences with local capitalists, secured options on property in Kinney's Addition to the city of Roseburg valued at many thousand dollars. This land is located almost in the center of what is known as North Roseburg, and is over a mile in length. It varies in width, tapering from 440 feet at the east end to 230 feet at the western termination. When the options were secured Mr. Haines explained that it would be necessary to have the additional land at the east end of the tract to allow the construction of a round house and other terminal facilities. Like other interests of the proposed Coos Bay, Oregon & Idaho Railroad Company, the options have been transferred to the new company and are now being held by them in trust. This incident, alone, has caused a general good feeling among the residents in this locality, many of whom expect to see actual construction work commenced early in the spring.

"Upon the completion of the survey to this city the tools, tents and other paraphernalia used, were stored on the proposed terminal site, and are being held awaiting instructions of F. A. Haines, who in a recent letter to Al Creason, owner of the ground, stated that he would arrive here about April 1. All bills contracted by Haines and his surveyors have been paid promptly, and the general opinion of local capitalists close in touch with the situation, is that Haines is backed by the Northwestern Railroad.

"This theory was strengthened somewhat when it became known that Haines received many letters from the local postoffice bearing the return of the Northwestern Company, and that the surveyors also cashed checks at a country store near this city bearing the signature of Northwestern officials. The options on terminal ground in this city were given for a period of about six months, and will expire about July 1.

"Although somewhat skeptical about talking for publication Al Creason, a prominent local capitalist who owns the ground upon which options were secured, says that he is almost sure the proposed line will be built. His information is alleged to have come from a reliable source and to be authentic in every particular."

SAYS PROSPECT HERE IS GOOD

R. A. Graham, Builder of Local Railway, Enthuses Over Coos Bay's Future.

R. A. Graham, builder of the Marshfield-Myrtle Point railway line arrived here last evening from San Francisco to be present at the trial of his action against the Southern Pacific Company, John D. Spreckels' Brothers Company et al over the ownership of the line. The suits involve about $1,000,000, Graham charging the Spreckels Brothers company and others with fraud in the sale of the railway over his head to the Southern Pacific. The cases will be tried before Judge Harris at Coquille next week.

This is Mr. Graham's first visit here in years. He came via Roseburg. He is looking well and says he is feeling fine. He is being warmly welcomed by his old friends on the Bay.

He declared that Coos Bay and its prospects never looked as good to him as now. He declared that it is on the verge of realizing the great development he anticipated when he started the local road.

He said that the only reason why he was unable to carry out his plans then for building to Roseburg and probably eastward from there was that he was a little ahead of the times.

However, he declared that at present he knew of no place in all his travels or experiences that he would rather do than to Coos Bay. He declared that it is bound to be the coming section and all that it needs to bring the great development that has marked the Puget Sound country is the same thing that developed that region—railroads.

He intimated that if he was successful in his suit here that he might again resume his railroad building on Coos Bay.

This afternoon, he and J. W. Bennett made a trip to Kittyville to visit with Eugene O'Connell.

Tom Minot, Mr. Graham's lawyer, will be here soon.

ARE INVITED TO SEE BOUT

The Prosecuting Attorney and Grand Jurors Fear They Can't Accept Invitation

Tommy Smith who with John Horton is promoting the Neill-Day boxing bout to be pulled off at the skating rink here has returned from Coquille where he was called with others by Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Liljeqvist to explain whether or not they were violating the Oregon law prohibiting prize fighting.

Smith says that after explaining to the best of his ability the difference between a prize fight and the boxing exhibitions as conducted in Coos county, he invited Mr. Liljeqvist and the members of the grand jury to be present and view the scientific exhibition of the manly art, by Al Neill and Jess Day in Marshfield. Furthermore, he offered them the courtesies of the club by offering complimentary tickets. He said that he explained that by personally viewing the exhibition, the differences between a prize fight and scientific exhibition could be demonstrated. However, he says, Mr. Liljeqvist explained that owing to the rush of court business, he feared that he would be unable to accept the invitation. It is not known whether any members of the grand jury will be able to come.

It is stated that the grand jury after hearing details of the boxing charges decided that they were not in violation of the law and will not make any report on the matter.

T. F. Crawford, known as "Gumbat Kelly," was haled into the Prosecuting Attorney's office to explain about the shooting serape at the Cold Tea Saloon here a few months ago which resulted in Mr. Crawford having to retire as proprietor of the place. The man whom Crawford shot at or shot to scare as he says has disappeared and it is understood that the matter will be dropped by the grand jury.

The grand jury also refused to take any action relative to the "Restricted District" in Marshfield, the majority of the members expressing the belief that the places are a necessary evil. F. W. Reeder brought the matter up before them.

LITTLE TALKS ABOUT TOWN

A GRIST OF COOS BAY GOS-SIP GATHERED HERE AND THERE ABOUT THINGS OF PASSING INTEREST.

Wants dogs an ordinance required Kept Tied Up ing owners of dogs to keep them tied up and to lead them by a chain when they are on the street. The dogs are constantly running through a fellow's garden, killing young plants or flowers, are constantly getting into anything that is left outside and in general causing everybody lots of bother.

"Residents of St. Paul and Minneapolis and other sections of Minnesota are becoming intensely interested in this section since the Hill lines have entered Oregon," remarked Pat Tully yesterday. "I have just had a letter from a friend in St. Paul and he says everybody there is asking where Coos Bay is and what there is to it. He says the St. Paul and Minneapolis papers have been printing a great deal about the Hill lines in Oregon and all of them have ventured the opinion that Hill will strike the coast at Coos Bay. He says the people there are confident that where ever the Hill lines strike the coast, a big city will spring up within a few years."

LeRoy Whitford, of Stow, New York, a cousin of Rev. G. LeRoy Hall of the Baptist church, is making a visit in Oregon, and while he has not reached Coos Bay he has been doing some effective Coos County Coos Bay Crops He wrote a letter from Pendleton to his father and the larger part of it is devoted to this section. The letter is published in the Jamestown, New York Daily Journal and nearly a column is given over to a copy of the report of the Oregon State Board of Horticulture on H. B. Stewart's strawberry patch at Myrtle Point and which has been published previously in The Times. The story of realizing $1600 per acre on strawberries, potatoes, that yield 500 bushels per acre, oats 125 bushels per acre and barley 145 bushels per acre sounds so big to the easterners that nothing but an official report would convince them. These facts are so well known here that they excite no comment, but new comers are sometimes surprised. "It was news to me," remarked Rev. Hall, "but I know the people back there will be a bit skeptical." There is plenty of evidence of the truth of the statements which can be verified by several ranchers in the Coquille Valley who raise these crops every year.
