GIVE US MEN.

Give us men!
Men from every rank,
Fresh and free and frank;
Men of thought and reading,
Men of light and leading,
Men of loyal breeding,
The Nation's welfare speeding;
Men of faith and not of fiction,
Men of lofty aim in action;
Give us men—I say again,
Give us men!

Give us men!
Strong and stalwart ones;
Men whom highest hopes inspires,
Men whom purest honor fires,
Men who trample Self beneath them,
Men who make their country wreathe them
As her noble sons,
Worthy of their sires,
Men who never shame their mothers,
Men who never fall their brothers,
True, however false are others!
Give us men—I say again,
Give us men!

Give us men!
Men who, when the tempest gathers,
Grasp the standard of their fathers
In the thickest fight;
Men who strike for home and altar,
Let the coward cringe and falter,
God defend the right!
True as truth though lorn and lonely
Tender, as the brave are only;
Men who tread where saints have trod,
Men for Country, Home and God;
Give us men—I say again,
Give us such men!
—Bishop of Exeter.

THE OLD OREGON TRAIL.

Hundreds of men who left homes in the East, and even in Europe, on their way to the gold fields, passed over the old trail, never to be heard of again by waiting relatives or sweethearts. Of the thousands who followed it many hundreds made record of their journey on a big sandstone bluff which begins two miles west of Fort Laramie and runs three miles or more along the trail. This wall, sometimes rising to a height of fifty feet, at others dropping to a dozen, presents to-day a singular appearance. Scratched over almost its entire length are the names of the argonauts and westward-bound travelers. Some were cut with a knife, while others, almost weathered off, were made with the point of a nail, or daubed on with a mixture of axle grease and ashes. Most of the latter except where an overhanging wall has prevented weathering by the storms of more than half a century, are already gone; but the incised names remain like hieroglyphics of the aborigines in various parts of the west. Of the host that passed over the old Oregon trail, a considerable proportion carved their names on the sandstone rock, where at least 5,000 names are legible to-day. Very few recent cuttings are discernible. The present day trail passes a hundred yards from the part of the wall containing the signatures. An enterprising modern artist has gone to great pains and risked much danger in carving, thirty feet up the face of the cliff, an excellent figure of a horse.—Patnam's Magazine.

Said the Mistress to Her Maid:

"You have no idea, Jennie, what a snap it is to do the ironing with an electrical flatiron. It's twice as easy and twice as quick as using the old fashioned stove irons. You need no fire, never have to change your iron, save all the footsteps between board and stove, and there is no soot whatever to soil the clothes."

We have the General Electric flatiron for users of electric light to connect to lamp sockets already in the house. Let us send you one on trial.
