INSURGENTS HAVE NOT EMBARRASSED THE PRESIDENT.

A FAIRLY determined effort is being made to fasten a very serious contempt on the so-called insurgents of Congress and the impression is most industriously circulated that men like Polndexter, Bristow, Beveridge and Cummins are regarded as hostile to the President and embarrassing to the administration program.

This sort of talk comes from men of the Aldrich-Cannon type, never from the President himself. Far from feeling resentment toward the so-called insurgents, Mr. Taft has taken grateful occasion to acknowledge their aid.

In the great tariff debate what section of Congress held out most resolutely for a literal fulfillment of the party pledges? The insurgents.

In the present railroad debate what specific act has proved of the greatest practical value? The elimination of the sections which would have eliminated railroads from the operation of the Sherman anti-trust law. This elimination was insisted on by the insurgents.

What members of Congress have most strenuously opposed any relaxation of prosecutions against the criminal trusts? The insurgents.

Mr. Roosevelt himself is the original insurgent. Mr. Taft is a Roosevelt disciple. The insurgents of Congress are doing their utmost to carry out the policies of the administration. The men who are embarrassing Mr. Taft are not the insurgents, but the men who are accusing the insurgents of bad faith.

The menace of the nation to-day is not the insurgent, but the reactionary.

The man who wants to conduct politics and government a certain way, the man who wants to conduct politics as it was twenty years ago.

Said the Mistress to Her Maid:

"You have no idea, Jennie, what a snap it is to do the ironing with an electrical flatiron. It's twice as easy and twice as quick as using the old fashioned stove irons. You need no fire, never have to change your iron, save all the footsteps between board and stove, and there is no soot whatever to soil the clothes."

We have the General Electric flatiron for users of electric light to connect to lamp sockets already in the house. Let us send you one on trial.
