Enjoy Picnic.—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Marshfield Methodist Church went to Millington to-day to enjoy a picnic. About eighteen were in the party.

Play North Bend.—The Marshfield baseball team is arranging for a game with North Bend Sunday. Whether it will be on the Marshfield fair grounds or in North Bend has not been announced.

Boy Hurt.—Ernest Grant, a young boy, is reported to have been severely hurt by Ti-Ti, a half-breed Chinese boy, last evening in a street fight, and is confined to his home to-day. The Ti-Ti boy is considerably larger than the other.

Leave To-Day.—Among those leaving on the Roseburg-Marshfield stage for Roseburg this morning were C. A. Henningson, E. E. Owen and wife, H. Weber, Will Ryan, F. M. Larsen, Chas. Lindsey and F. Zimmerman.

Leave on Stage.—To-day all the seats on the Coos Bay-Roseburg stage for to-morrow had been reserved. Among those who will go are Will Kolm and wife, A. Jacobson, G. Fjeld, L. S. Richards, A. Landberg, D. Delashmatt and A. E. Fiske.

Meet Friday.—The mothers' meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in the M. E. Church, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with Mrs. G. LeRoy Hall as leader. The president, Mrs. McCann, and other ladies of North Bend will be here, and also the ladies of Eastside. A full attendance of the Marshfield ladies is requested, especially all who are interested in this department of the W. C. T. U. work.

TO SEEK OIL ALONG COAST

Government Expert to Make Investigation of Prospects in Coos County.

The government has ordered an examination of the oil prospects of the coast range of Oregon, including Coos county. This is the same belt of mountains that contains the great oil fields of California, which in the last ten years have enriched that state over $100,000,000, without materially affecting the total supply of oil in the ground. The Coalinga fields alone produced oil valued at $9,000,000 in 1909. Yet at the same rate of exhaustion, the field will last over 200 years, according to the published estimates of the government geologist. There have been many indications of oil in parts of the Oregon coast range mountains, especially about Nehalem and in the Coos country near the coal deposits. But no boring of moment has been tried by private interests. Some capital has been wasted on operations that produced no results. That the judgment of the best experts may be had to guide private researches, the Geological Survey will conduct the reconnaissance.

The government investigation is in charge of Chester W. Washburne, of the United States Geological Survey, Washington, D. C. Mr. Washburne is a former resident of Oregon and has already made preliminary studies in nearly every county in the State. He will soon examine this coast as far south as Coos county, and all persons knowing of oil seeps, asphaltum, gas, salt and sulphur water, and related phenomena, are urged to write a full description of the occurrence, including its location, and mail it to Mr. Washburne, whose address is now Astoria.

This work is being done by the government primarily for the benefit of the people. The conclusions reached by the disinterested scientists of the geological survey will be impartial and unbiased. In order that this community may receive maximum benefit from the investigation, full co-operation is desirable between the residents of the county and the government geologist.

The escape of oil and gas at the surface of the ground rarely marks the spot at which commercial quantities have gathered underground, the location of oil pools being determined mainly by the structure and porosity of the rocks. Nevertheless, all indications are valuable in the estimation of the oil bearing character of a region, and it is therefore important that Mr. Washburne be informed of every indication. He is willing to examine as many indications as possible, and since the work is done for the government, there will be no charge for this service.
