OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY OF MARSHFIELD.

COMFORTABLE COOS BAY.

THE TRAGEDIES of the hot wave from all over the land, came pouring in upon us here at Coos Bay and we are not able to realize what they mean. We wish the sufferers were of us or that we might dispense some of the superlative summer weather which is our heritage, with them. The only thing is to join us before another deadly season. That would be fine for us and finer for them.

The man who thinks success in life may be attained by trickery very seldom turns the trick.

THE HONORABLE COURSE.

IN OPENING his campaign for the Republican nomination for Governor Judge Grant B. Dimick said:

"I feel that the course I am pursuing as candidates for the Republican nomination for Governor is the most dignified, open and honorable method of securing the endorsement of Republican voters in the several counties of this State."

Judge Dimick is right in this matter. He is taking the open and honorable course. He is going straight to the people for the nomination. If he is nominated and elected he will owe his office to the endorsement of the people—not to the support of any clique or the aid given him by any special interest. He will have no strings upon him and will be in position to do his duty by all the people.

This very thing constitutes the beauty of the direct primary. It does away with bossism and with machine control. When a candidate seeks an office he does not go to any political boss with whom he makes a secret deal which may interfere with the honest discharge of his duty in the event of his election. He gets his nomination from the people and so is free to serve them properly. If an executive he will enforce the law alike against great railroad systems as well as against the humblest individual. If a judge he will interpret the law alike to the rich and the poor. If a lawmaker, he will be free to enact laws for the common good. Labor using corporations will have no greater pull with him than will labor unionists. To the man who has secured office by going straight to the people for endorsement all men and all interests look alike. He owes his nomination and election to the votes of the people—not to any closed chamber compact with a boss having the power to manipulate a convention and not to the special interests that are always back of every political boss.

The man who lets the bosses alone and goes direct to the people of support takes the upright and the honorable course. He is entitled to the respect and the support of the people. The candidate who refuses to do this should be viewed with suspicion.

The success of marriage often depends upon the solvency of the paying teller.

"LOOKING THIS WAY."
Railway Rumors Continue to Head Toward Coos Bay.

CONSTRUCTION WORK SOON.
(From Eugene Guard.)
The Lane County Asset Company is rapidly getting its affairs in shape for the beginning of construction work, and it is more than likely that a good start will be made on a railroad to the coast before the fall season is over.

WILL BE BUILT.
(From Roseburg News.)
Frank E. Alley has returned from Portland, where he spent several days looking after business matters connected with the Coos Bay Traction Company, which corporation contemplates the construction of an electric railroad between Roseburg and the coast. Mr. Alley says that the road will be built, but is not in a position to divulge the minute plans of the company at this time.

WITH THE TOAST AND TEA

GOOD EVENING.
To the good I would be good; to the not good I would also be good, in order to make them good.—Lao-Tzu.

THE ADVISER.
(Mr. Roosevelt will assume the role of an advisory publicist. — Current Guess.)
Teddy will tell us the things we should do, The things we should drink and the things we should chew; He'll tell us the way We should preach and should pray And the reason our hens are refusing to lay.

And the time to cut corn and the time to make hay, And just who has the shuffle And who has the deal, The place for a ruffle And how to roast veal. And how to build bridges, and how to make bread, And how to remember the things we have read, And how to write headings, And what kind of pants Are worn at noon weddings, And how to kill ants, And how to peel onions and what's good for bunions, And how to can berries and care for canaries,

And how to make fences, And how to set hens, And what are the tenases, And how to fix dens, And how to raise babies, And how to make kites, And how to cure rabies, And how to run fights, And how to run trolleys and cook hot tamales, And what to feed collies, And how to stuff pillows and when to trim willows and what causes billows, And how to keep cool, Cure balks in a mule, Store eggs so they'll keep, House cattle and sheep, Heal burrs on the hand, Make chests to expand, Embroider a monogram, repaint a chair, Retrim an old bonnet, and what will grow hair— Oh, Teddy will tell us the things we should know, Just as he's been telling since long, long ago. —Harper's Weekly.

THE BATHING GIRL.
I said she looked like Venus, rising from the sea, But when I told her of it, she much was vexed at me. Not that she was so modest, as she observed, but, shoot! It seemed I hadn't noticed her stylish bathing suit!
