GOOD EVENING.

Do not let your head run upon that which is none of your own, but pick out some of the best of your circumstances and consider how eagerly you would wish for them were they not in your possession.—Marcus Aurelius.

REGISTER NOW.

IF YOU do not register you cannot vote in the primary election without securing six freeholders to testify as to your qualifications. If you do not register you cannot sign nominating petitions. Unless you are registered you will not receive from the Secretary of State literature regarding men and measures to be voted for at the November election, or the circular letters sent out by the various candidates.

REGISTER NOW and avoid the rush during the last few days.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

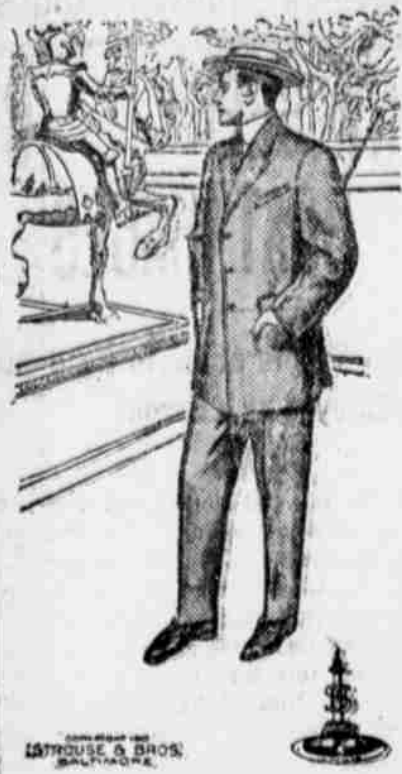

The meanest neighbor in the world is the one who keeps an accurate account of everything you borrow from her.

The man who says he can be a good Christian without going to church isn't always able to shoulder the burden of proof.

There will be no shortage of candidates in this man's land this fall. The woods, the beaches, the roads, the streets, are full of them, and there are some pretty good fellows among them, and some others.
