INTEREST IN LOCAL CASE

Judge Hall Hands Down Important Decision Regarding Foreign Corporations.

Judge John F. Hall, of the Coos County Court has just handed down a decision in the case of the Gray-Holt Company vs. F. S. Dow for $350 in which he held for the defendant.

The decision has aroused much comment among the local attorneys owing to an important point of law involved, regarding the liabilities and restrictions on a foreign corporation.

The principal defense made in the case was made upon the ground that the foreign corporation had not complied with the laws of Oregon at the time of making the contract. The act of the State Legislature of 1903 provides that "Every foreign corporation, before transacting business within the State of Oregon, shall file its declaration to do business and pay its entrance fee and license fee to the State and shall execute and acknowledge a power of attorney designating a citizen and resident of Oregon as agent of the foreign corporation upon whom service of summons may be made in any case in the courts of Oregon and shall file same with the Secretary of State and shall have issued to such foreign corporation a certificate of the Secretary of State authorizing such foreign corporation to do business in the State. The Supreme Court of Oregon in the case of Bank of British Columbia vs. Page, construes this language to be the equivalent of saying, "That a foreign corporation shall not transact business in Oregon before it shall have complied with these requirements," and that such contract, being in violation of the provision of law, is void.

The ruling of Judge Hall is based upon the theory that a foreign corporation may comply with this law after making the contract and thereby make the contract valid.

"This in effect means," said an attorney to-day, "that a foreign corporation may make contracts within this State without complying with the requirements of our laws and if a citizen suffers any loss, or damage, or is placed in a position where it becomes necessary to enforce a right in the courts, that such citizen cannot maintain an action in our courts, but must go to the State wherein the corporation is located and bring his action in the courts of that State; but that if the corporation desires to enforce its claims against a citizen of our State it may, after making the contract, comply with the laws mentioned and thereafter enforce its contracts against our citizens in our own courts, but the citizen of our State would be precluded from enforcing his rights in our courts unless such foreign corporation should wish to comply with such laws and place itself in a position to be sued in our courts."

The case will be carried to the higher courts.

(By Associated Press.) COLFAX, Wash., August 20.—James Roberts, son of a well known rancher, was arrested yesterday for the murder of Dell McConnell. Roberts admits that he did the killing, but claims self-defense and claims that he did not do the killing until after McConnell had beaten him severely and was apparently about to shoot. Roberts was astounded when arrested. He doubtless thought that he was secure on the belief that the boasts of the "freckled face man," who claimed to have killed McConnell, had deceived the authorities.

HAD LIVED AT ABERDEEN

Insane Sailor Off the Omega Had Formerly Conducted Dance Hall.

It was thought that Jacobson, the insane sailor taken off the schooner Omega, might be wanted at Aberdeen. The city marshal at North Bend learned that Jacobson had at one time conducted a dance hall at Aberdeen. A man who is now on the bay identified Jacobson as the same man who was in partnership with Gohl, who was recently sent to the penitentiary for life on a charge of murdering a sailor. It was believed at the time that Gohl was guilty of the murder of many sailors who disappeared. The fact that Jacobson had been a partner of Gohl, it was believed that possibly he was wanted at Aberdeen. A telegram was sent to the Aberdeen city marshal, who replied that Jacobson was not wanted. Jacobson will be sent to the asylum. An inquisition as to his sanity was held to-day.

CRUISER SOUTH DAKOTA RAMS TUG AND CAUSES DAMAGE

BAD FRUIT IS IN BAD REPUTE

Inspector P. M. Hall-Lewis Hot On Trail of Violators of Law.

P. M. Hall-Lewis, deputy fruit inspector for Coos county, is hot on the trail of fruit growers and dealers who are not complying with the State law which prohibits the selling or shipping of diseased fruit. He has made the rounds pretty thoroughly and served notice on the dealers and growers as to what the requirements of the law are so that they will have an opportunity to escape prosecution by complying and is now keeping close tabs to see that the law is lived up to.

Yesterday he landed a number of boxes of apples that were bad in the eyes of the law and he gave them the "coal oil" treatment. One box of fruit he found on the dock. It was a shipment to John W. Snover by a friend up the river who thought to give the Marshfield man a luscious bit of fruit for his home. Mr. Snover was all anticipation when he started for the wharf and one can imagine his regret when instead of the tempting box of fruit he found a box suffering from the "coal oil" treatment and a notice from the inspector that they had been condemned as being diseased.

"There is a big improvement in the quality of fruit that is being put on the market," said Mr. Lewis yesterday. "However, some of the growers are not complying as well as they should. We have simply got to wipe out the diseases which are ruining our orchards and the only way is to stamp it out. Of course, it is bound to pinch someone in doing this, but the temporary damage will be repaid a hundred times within a few years by the improved crop. The law recognizes only two kinds of fruit—clean and diseased. Gradually I am going to enforce the Oregon restrictions to the letter and am giving all a fair notice to escape trouble."

"Some growers are apparently not aware that the Oregon law provides that each package or box of fruit they ship or market must bear their name and postoffice address. Others who do know it are apparently trying to evade the law by using bags and crates that do not look as though they had fruit in them. Of course, nearly all the deceptive packages contain diseased fruit and whenever I find it, I am going to destroy it and if I am convinced that a willful evasion of the law was attempted, I will prosecute the guilty parties and require them to pay a heavy fine."
