Mrs. A. T. Haines gave an informal luncheon to-day to a few of her friends.

Last night the Mizpah Bible Class gave a very entertaining play at the Eckhoff Hall, North Bend. The curtain rose to disclose a typical down Eastern country store and postoffice, the occurrences in which especially during the great sale proved a constant amusement. Marion Reynolds as Bill Hunkers, the Yankee store-keeper, filled his part to perfection; while Lyle Chappell, as his negro servant, seemed a genuine "cullud pus-sun."

Melvin Jackson was fine as Rail Jackson, the loafer and general nuisance, and Archie Taylor as the old farmer kept the crowd laughing. The ladies' parts were exceptionally well filled. Caroline Fry by Anna Watson, and Jane Johnson by Ida Mitchell, representing different types of Yankee spinsters, and Ellen Anderson and Edith Alger were the young ladies which interested Robert Sinclair, the city young man. The fire scene was especially exciting. The Mizpah band closed the program and were called back to repeat their selection. It was an entertainment of which the class may well be proud.

Mrs. J. W. Ingram, who has been spending the summer with relatives at Spokane, has been ill for a short time and is now in a private sanitarium there taking treatment. She is doing nicely and it is expected that she will be able to return home in the course of about three weeks.

Judge and Mrs. Sehlbrede entertained friends last night at their home in Plat B in honor of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reed of Alaska. Mr. Reed gave some stereopticon views and moving pictures and supper was served. The guests were F. K. Gettins, Dorsey Kreitzer; Dr. A. L. Houseworth, Dr. J. L. Houseworth, C. R. Peck and W. A. Reed and their wives and Mrs. William Grimes and Arthur Peck.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pike are at North Bend visiting Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Simpson. They arrived to-day on the steamer M. F. Plant from San Francisco. Mrs. Pike was formerly Miss Edith Simpson and was recently married to Mr. Pike at San Francisco. They will make an indefinite stay on the bay.

Mrs. E. F. Morrisey gave a noon luncheon Thursday in honor of Mrs. J. L. Houseworth. The guests were ladies whose husbands were away on a hunting trip. They were Mrs. William Grimes, Mrs. J. L. Houseworth, Mrs. A. L. Houseworth and Mrs. William Warwick. The only guest not of the fair sex was little Lehman Houseworth, aged three years, and the only prize awarded at the party was given to him on the grounds of good behavior.

The wedding of William Ford of San Francisco and Miss Stella O'Connell will take place to-morrow afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pike of San Francisco arrived to-day on the steamer Plant. They will be guests of Mayor and Mrs. L. J. Simpson. Mrs. Pike was formerly Miss Edith Simpson and was married recently.

BURNED LARGE AREA.

But Fire at Dora Did Little Damage to Timber.

Dr. Golden and Robert Swanton have returned from Dora, where they went on a hunting trip. The fire in that neighborhood evidently scared the deer away and the hunters did not have very good luck. They only saw one deer. Dr. Golden says that the fire at Dora spread over quite a large area but that there was scarcely any valuable timber damaged. In fact, the fire was a benefit to the timber and it ran through and consumed all the under brush and left the big trees uninjured. He says that the trees stand clear of any under brush.

MILLINERY OPENING.
