

ANTI-ASSEMBLY CAMPAIGN HAS BEEN WELL CONDUCTED

Says Senator Jonathan Bourne, Jr., in a Statement To-Day.

ORGANIZATION WAS ENTIRELY LACKING.

Greater Part of Work Has Fallen Upon Progressive Newspapers.

PORTLAND, Sept. 20.—"Notwithstanding the entire lack of organization the anti-Assembly campaign has been admirably conducted," said Senator Jonathan Bourne, Jr., to-day in a statement issued to the press.

"Unfortunately some of the Assembly candidates have been so ashamed of their position and so dishonest in their methods as to pose as friends of the direct primary, hence it has fallen largely to the newspapers to show their real attitude and expose the deception. The courage, patriotism and loyalty to principle displayed by progressive newspapers in this work merits the highest commendation.

"Efforts have been made by dishonest newspapers and public speakers to frighten advocates of the direct primary and Statement Number One by assertions that I am using a 'shush sheet' for the purchase of newspaper influence. So far as I am personally concerned, this, like all other falsehoods about me, would go unanswered. I deem it but justice to the progressive newspapers and progressive workers generally, however, to make this declaration:

"I have not paid, promised or caused a dollar directly or indirectly to any newspaper, candidate or public speaker during this campaign, except for my usual subscriptions to five daily papers and the purchase of fifty extra copies of one issue of an evening paper. I do not own a dollar's interest in any newspaper."

"On my return to Oregon last Fall I quickly realized that an effort would be made through the Assembly plan to restore under a new name the old shush-sheet game of politics for the personal benefit of disgruntled politicians and special interests. On October 15, 1909, I issued an address to the people of Oregon exposing the efforts and methods of the assembly plan. At an expense of less than $1,000 I had printed and mailed about 100,000 copies of that address to as many citizens of Oregon. I urged, and still urge, the defeat of all candidates who sought or accepted an assembly nomination. Retention of a great fundamental principle is of more importance to society than any individual or party.

"I donated a thousand dollars to an officer of the Peoples' Power League to print and circulate my argument and defray expenses incident to the circulation of petitions to substitute under the initiative my bill enlarging the present scope of the primary and providing for direct election of choice of party candidates for President and Vice-President, direct election of delegates to national conventions and direct nominations of candidates for Presidential electors.

"On the fifth day of last May I delivered an address in the United States Senate showing how Oregon, through her initiative and referendum, direct primary, corrupt prac-

MORE EVIDENCE IS UNCOVERED

Bank Books and Articles Belonging to Perkins Found in Garrison's Cabin.

More evidence against Frank Garrison has been discovered by Marshal Carter, who has been working effectively on the case. At his cabin at Jordan's Cove, where he was arrested, there has been found bank books and other articles belonging to Perkins, the murdered man. W. Gallaway and his son, Hans Gallaway, were looking around the cabin and under a rafter they found a package which had been concealed. The package contained two bank books, one showing that Perkins had an account of $36 at North Bend and another showing that he had $55 in a Marshfield bank. There was also found a note book, some keys, a pair of glasses and some other small articles.

Frank Garrison Will Not Be Tried Until Adjourned Term Nov. 14.

The trial of Frank Garrison, charged with the murder of Roy Perkins, has been continued to the adjourned term of the Circuit Court, which will convene on Nov. 14th. The arguments on the motion for a continuance were heard by Judge Coke last evening. Attorneys C. A. Schilbrede, Tom Hall and R. O. Graves appeared for the defendant. They argued that they needed time in which to prepare their case and look up evidence which they wanted to find. The court granted the continuance and the case will come up for trial at the time stated. The prisoner will, of course, be held without bail until the trial.

"USE COMMON SENSE," SAYS HILL

Empire Builder Gives Some Opinions on the Present Conditions of Business Affairs in This Country.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 20.—James J. Hill, the "empire builder," the "father of the Northwest," cannot see why the business men of the country should at present fear to engage in new enterprises, nor can he see any reason whatever for the semi-paralysis which is gradually creeping over the United States.

"It's just like a flock of sheep. If one starts to run, every sheep in the flock will follow, even if they die for it."

"Use Common Sense." "During the big national conservation congress we talked about conserving water and conserving land; conserving coal and conserving iron; it's too bad somebody didn't say a word about conserving common sense."

"No Reason For Fear." "I can see no reason for the fears which seem to possess our business men. I have preached a 'return to the farm' policy for years and expect to continue to do so; but that's no reason for fear on the part of business men."

"Money and business are, of course, very careful and it is right that they should be, but not to the extent of cutting off their noses to spite their faces. Especially when it is so unnecessary and they need the noses, too."

broken, but we may not deny that it is less cohesive than it should be or than conditions warrant. Financially, the country is stronger than ever before in its history. Recovery from a panic so severe as that of three years ago was never before so prompt and comparatively complete. The masses are practically free from debt. Money is held by the banks in abundance and rates are low.

"Why then does capital pause upon the threshold of investment? The answer we believe to be plain. It awaits adjustment of the relations of government to business. Such, at any rate, is the plea, and pressure is constantly brought to bear upon executives and courts to make haste—haste which, in our judgment, would result in less speed. Great complications growing out of mightily changed conditions call for the most serious consideration. To settle a grave question offhand is only to invite disaster. Better not settle it at all until a reasonable certainty can be felt that it can be settled right. Stability is ever capital's primary requirement. But the adjustment which it now demands cannot be effected in a month or a year and never can or should be complete. Elasticity is the prime requisite of changes essential to development."

"But capital is notoriously timid. In the present instance, too, it is absolutely foolish. No decision of any court can permanently impair any so-called vested interest. Confiscation is undreamed of, as compared with only a few years ago. The disintegration of properties does not involve their destruction. Moreover, the sharp revolt against all combinations—those that achieve great good no less than those that work injury—is clearly yielding to study and reason. No sane person now maintains that business—especially manufacturing—can or should be done as it was done half a century ago. In a broad sense, the day of the individual competitor is past, but the opportunity of the individual remains even wider within the corporation. The sole problem consists of determining how government can maintain an even balance between aggregations of interest on the one hand, and the whole people on the other, protecting the latter against extortion and saving the former from assaults."

"The solution is not easy to find for the simple reason that the situation is without precedent. But is not progress being made along sane and cautious lines? Surely no menace to property or to human rights lies in the striving for such a solution. Both will be safe guarded by its certain finding."

BUSINESS MAN IS CONVERTED

Business Men of Marshfield Need Jesus Christ, Says Mr. Lyon.

(By Rev. G. LeRoy Hall.) TABERNACLE PROGRAM. TO-NIGHT. 7.45, "The Power of Choice." WEDNESDAY. 10 A. M., Neighborhood Meetings. 3 P. M., Special Address to Women. 7.45 P. M., Evening Service. Thursday has been set apart as a special day for prayer. There will be meetings in the Methodist and Baptist Churches at 10 A. M.

For a rainy Monday night, the interest at the Tabernacle last evening was good. The sermon was up to Mr. Lyon's average and bore some visible results. Men who are thoughtful and considerate are thinking and acting. At the close of the service last night two men decided for Christ. It might be worth noticing to say that the majority of the converts during this meeting has been men. The meeting began at 7.30 and closed earlier than usual.

Mr. Lyon spoke on "A Business Man's Conversion," using the scripture which tells of the conversion of Zacchaeus. He said that this was a time of special opportunity. Christ was passing through the city and many were desirous of seeing Him. But this tax gatherer was determined to see Him. In his desire he found the exact street which the Lord was to pass through and there he waited. "Zacchaeus put himself in the way of a blessing," said Mr. Lyon. "There is an old saying, 'If you want your stream to turn the wheel put your wheel into the stream.' So many today are avoiding the blessing of God. They are hiding from Him. God speaks to us through conscience and calls to us through our joys and our successes. He also speaks to us through our sorrows. Our prosperity has been a blessing to us. My friend, God has been good to you; now I want to ask you frankly, are you going to hide from Him or will you put yourself in the way to receive a blessing, even the blessing of salvation?"

"When the Master saw Zacchaeus He did not scold him for his meanness, but He said, 'Zacchaeus, make haste and come down,' and he did. I say to my friends, hurry up and come down from your doubts and your pride and your stubbornness. You will never meet Christ if you stay up in that high tree of self-righteousness."

The speaker then explained very clearly the twofold principle of conversion saying that "When a seeking sinner meets a seeking Saviour the result is always conversion." It cannot be otherwise. Spiritual birth is a matter of a moment, but spiritual growth is a matter of eternity. And, friends, you know that success in anything consists in taking advantage of the opportunity. I urge you to accept this, the greatest opportunity that ever came to man."

The manner in which the tax collector received Christ, Mr. Lyon said, was "gladly." He then described a supposed visit of one of his hearers to his wheaton, Ill., home, and he himself would only look out from within his residence, being unwilling to open the door. He then put the pointed question to his hearers, "How would you feel to be thus treated by me?" But is not this the way many of the business men of Marshfield are doing with Jesus Christ?

Itual consists in taking advantage of opportunity. "Give God a chance in your life. Put yourself in the way of receiving a blessing."

"The elect are the whosoever wills, and the non-elect are the whosoever wents."

"Wherever you have a seeking sinner and a seeking Saviour you always have but one result, the conversion of the sinner."

"Don't wait for the hand of sorrow to be laid heavily upon you, answer the call of Christ now."

"Firmness and stubbornness are opposites. Firmness is persisting in a course when you know you are right, but stubbornness when you know you are wrong."

"If you are ever going to be a Christian, make haste. Your heart beats are all numbered. You are nearer heaven or hell to-night than you ever were before."
