WIND STOPS FLIGHT.

Weather Makes Trouble For Aviators in Switzerland.
 (By Associated Press.)
 BRIG, Switzerland, Sept. 20.—Though the weather was unpropitious for the bold undertaking, Weymann, an American, and George Shavz, a Peruvian, attempted to cross the Alps in an aeroplane. Both failed but not until they had given pretty exhibitions of high flying that promised better success in fair weather. Shavz reached an altitude of 7,456 feet when caught by a violent wind and came down. Weymann went up 1,700 feet and descended owing to the wind.

A Queer Ornament.

Some years ago we found in a secret drawer of a pearl embroidered work-box three locks of hair fastened to small enamel heart shaped mounts, with silver eyelets. Two were inscribed "R. C. Oct. 16th April 1864," "R. C. 1864." The third had no inscription at all. In this box I now keep an engraving of a portrait of Elizabeth, queen of Bohemia, which plainly shows the curl of hair in her left ear, attached to a pearl earring. The painting by Gerard Honthorst, was engraved by G. Vertue.

When I showed these hair earrings to a gentleman of some considerable learning he informed me that an uncle of Anne, wife of King James I., was afflicted by a malady, still prevalent in Poland and some parts of Russia, which consists of a growth of hair and flesh pendant from the ear, on which it is dangerous to operate owing to the profuse hemorrhage which ensues. He added that in consequence of this royal infirmity a fashion arose in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries of wearing locks of hair pendant from the left ears. I believe there is a portrait of a Stuart lady still at Ham House so adorned.—London Notes and Queries.

RICHARD WATSON GILDER.

(Died Nov. 18, 1864.)
 The summer birds have gone without adieu. The air gave back no sound of speeding wing. We saw not when they passed. We only knew the groves were silent where they used to sing. Radiant the morning, yet we sighed and said: "The birds have flown. The summer's joy is dead."

A SINGING soul has passed to clearer light. In some serene land, we know not where. Singing he soared, with strong, exultant flight. And still the music lingers in the air. Each tuneful cadence of the singer fled. Throbs in the hearts that cannot count him dead.
 —Emily Huntington Miller.
