OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY OF MARSHFIELD.

THE CHEMISTS' FUTURE CITY.

"Coal heats our homes and offices, drives our machines—and also covers the city with the foulest soot and grime. But in the future city, and the beautiful suburbs all around, the rumbling, clattering coal truck will be replaced by a modest unobtrusive wire running underground. Through this wire will pass from some huge central dynamo plant, an electric current—power. This power will heat our homes, light our homes, clean our homes, cook our food, black our boots, carrying us upstairs, slave for us in a hundred ways. Every machine in the city will be run by the same tamed giant. In this city today there is a law that no man may keep hogs in his backyard or in his house. In the years before us, the same law will apply to coal, which is worse than forty hogs. And the cities of the future will have not so much as a wreath of smoke between them and the heavens.

"I spoke of cooking food. What of the food itself? Meat we have already recovered. But what of fruits and vegetables? 'I agree,' you may say, 'to artificial meat. The idea of tearing eggs to pieces, and isn't nice. But peaches and lettuce made by machine are somewhat more than I can bear.' Very good. Have 'em made by machine and mud, is that process seems more dainty. The point I want to make, is that you can make 'em cheap.

"The science of market gardening has only just begun, but, even in these first few years, the chemists in this line have shown us hints of astounding possibilities. And in the famous gardens that circle the city of Paris, the amount of fruits and vegetables, green vegetables, produced on a small three-acre lot outdoors straight through the winter months (150,000 heads of lettuce, for example, on one three-acre plot from Christmas to the first of June) gives you some little hint of what the future has in store.

"Crude as yet, and the produce at fancy prices still, because transportation is slow, the gardens must keep close to Paris, and there the rents are high. But, give by the means I have mentioned, swift and cheap communication between a city and the country for hundreds of miles around, and give the horticultural chemists fifty years more to find what can really be done with artificial earth, earth made by machinery—and there is left not the shadow of a doubt that the future people of cities, whether they live in town or in some beautiful suburb a hundred miles away, will have fruits and fresh green vegetables at prices next to nothing, winter and summer alike.

"So much for my dream," concluded the chemist.—Everybody's Magazine.

MARRIED AT EASTSIDE.

James N. McIntosh and Miss Nellie Major Are Wedded. James N. McIntosh of Coos river and Miss Nellie N. Major were married at noon Wednesday at the home of the bride's father, D. E. Major, in Eastside. Only the relatives and a few intimate friends were present. Few intimate friends were present at the residence. The ceremony, beautiful in its simplicity, was performed by Rev. H. I. Rutledge of the Marshfield Methodist church. The attendants were Miss Edna McIntosh and William McIntosh. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served.

The bride is a well known young lady of Eastside. The groom's home is on Coos river but the couple will make their home in Marshfield, where the groom has accepted a position as engineer on the tow-boat Powers. He and his bride went to Coquille for a visit and will return home Saturday.

NEW ABBOTT BLESSED.

Imposing Religious Ceremony at Mount Angel, Oregon. (Special to the Times.)

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 6.—A notable gathering of church dignitaries and heads of orders of the church throughout the northwest was that at Mount Angel, Ore., when occurred the ceremony of the blessing of the new abbot of St. Benedict's Abbey yesterday, the Rt. Rev. Placidus Fuerst, O. S. B. Bishops and members of the Catholic clergy from all over the west attended and participated in the imposing ceremonies. The new abbot was chosen by canonical election on August 30 to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rt. Rev. Abbott Thomas, O. S. B. The ceremony of the blessing was performed by His Grace, Archbishop Christie, and Bishop McDonald, of Vancouver, B. C., one of the most learned of the Canadian hierarchy, will preach the sermon. At night, the huge electric cross surmounting the monastery, which is lighted only on rare occasions such as this, was ablaze, illuminating the surrounding country for miles.

ROSE WILL BEGIN CAMPAIGN.

Prohibition Losing Ground, Says Milwaukee ex-Mayor.

David S. Rose, ex-mayor of Milwaukee, arrived in Portland yesterday morning to begin his campaign of sneaking in the state on behalf of the Greater Oregonian Home-Rule association, says the Portland Oregonian. For nearly two years Mr. Rose has been delivering lectures and addresses on temperance as against prohibition. He has spoken in all parts of the United States where the liquor question was an issue and will deliver 25 addresses in Oregon. "I have spoken in 149 communities where the liquor question was before the people," said Mr. Rose "and only four out of that number voted dry. They were South Farmington and Plymouth, Mass., Davenport, Wash., and Lincoln, Neb. That alone speaks for the sentiment of the public against prohibition.

"Prohibition became effective in Alabama January 1, 1909, and on November 29 of the same year constitutional prohibition was defeated by an overwhelming majority of 27,000 votes. Besides that, Emmett O'Neill, who led the fight, was nominated for Governor. "Georgia has tried prohibition three years, and Hoke Smith, nominated for governor, who signed the bill, announces that it has been such a failure that he will gladly sanction its repeal, which has been assured by 115 out of 185 members of the house, and 32 out of 44 members of the state senate.

"We won back Worcester, Mass., which had been pointed to with pride by the prohibitionists as a model prohibition city, and also New Bedford, another supposed stronghold of the prohibitionists. And so the campaign has gone on in all parts of the country. The tide is flowing back, experience has been a good teacher, and it will not be long until this agitation will be replaced with a campaign of education on temperance." ALL MY PIMPLES GONE

Girl Tells How a Blotchy Skin Was Cleansed by a Simple Wash. "I was ashamed of my face," writes Miss Minnie Pickard of Altamahaw, N. C. "It was all full of pimples and scars, but after using D. D. D. Prescription I can say that now there is no sign of that Eczema, and that was three years ago."

D. D. D. has become so famous as a cure and instant relief in Eczema and all other serious skin diseases, that its value is sometimes overlooked in clearing up rash, pimples, blackheads, and all other minor forms of skin impurities.

The fact is, that while D. D.
