THE FUN OF VICTORY.
There's a heap of satisfaction
In a trouble if you grin,
If you keep your nerve in action
And you wear a lifted chin.
There's a joy in doing something
That you've never done before,
So don't be a deaf and dumb thing,
Chance is knocking at your door.

Down and out, there's fun in rising,
Fun in facing heavy odds,
Doing deeds that are surprising,
And the happy fellow plods.
Plods along and hums a ditty
As he journeys down the street
Of the busy-gold-mad city,
Till he's back upon his feet.

It's in overcoming trouble
That a fellow gets his fun;
It's in shattering the bubble
That is labeled "can't be done."
It's in striving night and day time
When the problem hopeless seems,
Man appreciates his playtime
When he's realized his dreams.

There's a heap of satisfaction
In a trouble if you grin,
Difficulties have attraction
If you keep a lifted chin.
And the harder that your fight is
Then the greater is your fun,
And the finer your delight is
As you view the things you've done.

SELECTED.

SINCE time immemorial, Hallowe'en has been celebrated in some form or other. At first, so far as history relates, it was a great festival of the Druids. Later it came to have a religious significance. In its modern version it is a time to have fun and frolic; of signs and symbols, and of absurd practices. It is one of the days we celebrate just for fun, and the most popular way of celebrating is to have a hallowe'en party, where ancient superstitions are revived; fate is tested and folly, in her cap and bells, is queen. The popularity of Hallowe'en parties increases as Hallowe'en grows in age, and while its diversions are founded upon ancient customs, "age cannot wither, nor custom stale" their merry-making qualities.

What to do at Hallowe'en parties is an old, old story that is yearly told and probably will be yearly told for enlightenment of generations yet unborn. A little nonsense now and then is good for everyone, lest we grow too doleful and make of life a dark and dismal swamp of woe.

Having made these few remarks we will now turn our attention to the aforesaid diversions, suitable to the aforesaid Hallowe'en parties. If you do not expect to give a Hallowe'en party it may be you will enjoy reading about the things you might do if you were going to give such a party, or, if you are intending to thus entertain, it may be you shall find a few helpful hints for the coming celebration. In either case, here's hoping this writing may be honored with a small bit of approval.

Above all else, hearts are trumps at Hallowe'en, and most of the games are planned with intent to peer into the matrimonial future. Here are quite a number of things to do, from which you may take your choice:

Tassels from corn ears are named by the girls, placed over the door of the room in which the fun is going on, and the first man to pass under the one bearing his name is supposed to be the life partner of the girl who named it.

The candle fortune is another way. Place lighted candles in an open window, and the one which burns the longest is the one who will remain faithful to the end. The candles are silently named before being lighted. None need tell the name.

widower. If she touches the empty dish, she will be an old maid. After each test is made, the order of the bowls must be changed, to prevent those who watch from knowing which is which. Unmarried men may come into this game, as well as the maids, only, of course, it cannot be expected that any man will ever become a spinster.

At supper, more mirth and laughter may be occasioned by having a large cake in the centre of the table with as many candles of a different color. When the cake is passed, each guest chooses the candle that pleases her fancy. While this is going on, the hostess reads:
She who takes the candle blue
Will find her sweetheart ever true,
The pink, the sweetest of them all,
Will wed a fellow six feet tall.
Alas! for yellow, bright to see,
Your lover e'er will jealous be.
Happy she who orange takes—
Quickly prepare your wedding cakes.
Joyless, houseless maiden she
If the candle white should be
Crown her blest this very night
Who has chosen crimson bright.
She whose choice inclines to red
Her heart's love will surely wed.

A Mystery cake affords opportunity for mirth and laughter. Its "mystery" is this: The cake is cut by lot, it being considered an honor to cut the first slice. Inside the cake are tiny white bags, inserted before baking or icing. One bag contains flour, which indicates a rich marriage, another holds sugar, signifying a love match; a third is filled with corn meal, which indicates that its recipient will have to work for a living. Three empty bags, foretelling singleblessedness for the next year.

For decorations, branches of oak trees, autumn leaves, evergreens and jack-o'-lanterns in candle-lighted rooms are most appropriate. An open fire is a delightful part of the evening. Red is the color most used at Hallowe'en parties, and a red cover looks joyful on the supper table. From Burns and Shakespeare may be found suitable quotations.

These things and more, which have not been told, are Hallowe'en diversions and accompaniments. It is a time for merriment and good temper, and to remember, when the children run a little wild, that you were once young yourself.

The marriage of Lawrence A. Liljeqvist and Miss Emma Sherwood, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sherwood, which took place at the home of the bride's parents in Coquille, Wednesday night, was a social event of much interest. Aside from this it was one of exceptional beauty.

The elegant Sherwood home was handsomely decorated, ferns, white roses and chrysanthemums predominating in the flower scheme. Promptly at 8 o'clock, the young couple took their place underneath the large cosmos bell. The bride was given away by her father, A. J. Sherwood, and the Archdeacon Horsfall officiated with the impressive Episcopal ring service. The wedding march was played by Miss Esther Johnson, while Della Sherwood, sister of the bride, was ring bearer.

The bride wore a white satin princess with overskirt with cream trimmings. She also wore a beautiful cross and carried a prayer book and bouquet of orange blossoms.

Miss Clara Sherwood, sister of the bride and maid of honor, wore pink satin hobble-skirt gown with basementerie trimmings and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Mr. Liljeqvist wore the conventional black as did the groomsmen, Chas. F. McKnight of Marshfield.

Following the ceremonies, an elaborate supper was served which made the occasion of happy felicitations. Among the impromptu toasts responded to were "The bride" by Lou H. Hazard, "The Groom" by John D. Goss and "Their families" by John Leneve.

The young couple received a large number of handsome presents.

Mr. Liljeqvist and his bride are among the most popular young people in Coos county. The bride was born and reared in this county and through her winsome graces and accomplishments has endeared herself with hosts of ardent friends. Mr. Liljeqvist is a leading member of the Coos County bar and is deputy prosecuting attorney for this district. They will reside at Coquille, occupying a home just completed by the groom.

Among those invited to the happy nuptials were:
Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Rogers, Mr.

Liljeqvist, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hirtze, Mrs. John Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Liljeqvist, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Liljeqvist.

A pretty wedding took place Monday, October 24, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Larson, on Larson's Inlet, when their daughter, Boletta G. Larson, became the bride of Willis H. Kennedy, Rev. Father Moran officiating. The date also marked the anniversary of the birth of the bride's father. The ceremony was performed under a bower of Oregon grapes, maiden hair fern, and white roses, and festoons of ivy hung from ceiling and chandeliers. After the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served, the color scheme of the dining room being pink and white. The bride was gowned in white marquisette over white mousseline with pearl and silver trimmings, and wore a veil held in place with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of white roses with streamers of tulle. After a honeymoon spent in Portland and other northern points, they will return to Marshfield where they will reside and where the best wishes of the host of friends of the popular young couple will follow them.

The Chambrade Club was entertained last Wednesday by Mrs. J. V. Smeaton at her home in South Marshfield. The rehearsal was followed by an instructive paper on "Clavier and Clavichord" by Mrs. B. B. Ostlund. The next meeting of the club will also be with Mrs. Smeaton.

Mrs. F. A. Golden will entertain at her home in Ferndale next Saturday afternoon, November 5.

Miss Alice Butler returned this week from an extended stay at various California points.

Last Monday, Mrs. C. J. Mills was hostess at a picnic party at Cooston. The trip there and return was made in her private launch, the Beaver. The weather was delightful and the outing a most enjoyable one. Among her guests were Mrs. L. W. Traver, Mrs. Chas. Curtis, Mrs. A. H. Powers, Mrs. J. T. McCormac, Mrs. F. S. Dow, Mrs. S. H. Harper, Mrs. C. R. Peck, Mrs. C. W. Tower, Miss Nellie Tower, Mrs. L. A. Whereat, Mrs. E. H. Morrissey, Mrs. C. K. Perry, Mrs. D. Y. Stafford, Mrs. C. A. Schlbrede, Mrs. J. W. Mrs. Christina Ohman of Bandon, has been the guest of Mrs. Reed in Marshfield for the past week.

Mrs. J. H. Flanagan and Mrs. E. G. Flanagan are hostesses at Bridge at the J. H. Flanagan home this afternoon.

C. R. Peck and wife will leave this week for a short stay in San Francisco and other California points.

At one of the most delightful parties of the season, Mrs. W. T. Merchant was hostess at bridge complimentary to Mrs. W. S. Chandler. The house was beautifully decorated, the Hallowe'en effect being carried out all through. In the general decorations yellow chrysanthemums, autumn leaves with real corn were used freely with pumpkins, jack-o'-lanterns, etc. The lights were shaded yellow and the yellow color scheme was carried out in the refreshments. Black cats were presented as souvenirs. In serving, Mrs. Merchant was assisted by Mrs. W. S. Turpen, Miss Genevieve Sengstacken, Miss Mabel McGann, Miss Grace Kruse and Miss Helen Merchant. At cards, first prize was won by Mrs. C. M. Byler, second prize by Mrs. Geo. F. Murch and the guessing prize was won by Mrs. E. W. Kammerer.

Among those invited were: Mrs. Rose Arrington, Mrs. J. W. Bennett, Mrs. E. S. Bargelt, Mrs. J. S. Coke, Mrs. W. S. Chandler, Mrs. Ward Blake, Mrs. M. H. Bilven, Mrs. E. G. Flanagan, Mrs. J. H.
