GOOD EVENING.

It is the peculiar quality and character of an undisciplined man and a man of the world, to expect no advantage and to apprehend no mischief from himself, but all from objects without him. Whereas the philosopher, quite contrary, looks only inward, and apprehends no good or evil can happen to him, but from himself alone.—Epicurus.

GIVING

"Freely have ye received, freely give."

IF THERE were to be taken out of any man's life that which others have put into it, there would be very little left.

In the beginning, a man gets his life from others, and along with life he gets qualities of mind and body and soul which have come down from a long line of ancestors, and which make him distinctively what he is.

Then in the days of his childhood and through the days of his youth he gets his food, his clothing, his care, his training and his education from others, and the influences that mould his character in these days are the influences set in action by others.

And when he goes out from his home in his young manhood, he goes into a world where others still continue to give to him. He takes up work as others have made his work possible; he takes up his pleasures as others have made them possible; whatever he does, wherever he goes, the lives of new generations and present generations alike affect his life and give something of it.

By the time he has reached a full manhood, he is largely the product of the sacrifices and efforts of others, extending back through countless ages to his most remote ancestors. In a sense, all time and all events, from the original chaos to the present, have transpired so that he might be what he is today. He is but one individual, but he is making an endless number of individuals have given something.

What does this man, who is every man, owe for what he has gotten from others?

Does he not owe service to others? Does he not owe sacrifice to others? Is it not clearly his duty to preserve the stream of service and sacrifice which has come out of the past into his life and let it flow out of his life again into the lives of others? Should it not be the most joyous thing in the world for him to give to others so generously as he has received?

Freely every man receives; let him as freely give. Out of it may come every good thing.

Happy indeed, even in a physical point of view, is that man on whom heaven has bestowed a contented and serene mind, or who by improving and cultivating his moral faculties, has been able to procure that blessing. He has within himself the noblest and purest balsam of life.

Christian Endeavor of the North Bend United Brethren church met in a business session at the church. After the usual business a short program was enjoyed. During the evening the members gave the pastor, Rev. Albrecht, and his wife a shower of fruit and groceries.

Mrs. J. W. Ingram will entertain the Progress Club at her home next Monday.

A. E. Pollexfen and wife and baby left today for San Francisco where they will spend the winter with Mr. Pollexfen's parents.

C. R. Peck and wife leave today for Portland and Seattle where they will spend Thanksgiving week with relatives and friends.

Miss Genevieve Sengstacken, who has been visiting friends in Portland the past three weeks, is expected home on the next Breakwater.

A. E. Adelsperger and wife and baby leave next Saturday for Indiana where they will spend a few weeks visiting at the homes of the two.

The Evergreen Whist Club is being entertained this afternoon by Mrs. Lando at her home on Nob Hill. Last Saturday the club met with Mrs. A. T. Haines and was delightfully entertained. Mrs. Lando won the prize last Saturday.

Mrs. L. J. Simpson and C. M. Byler of North Bend, are planning to issue invitations for next Saturday afternoon at the Simpson home.

The Minnie-Wis Club will hold its first meeting of the season after a long summer vacation at the home of Mrs. Kelly next Friday afternoon when the hostesses will be Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. D. A. Jones. The annual election of officers will be held and plans made for the coming season.

The Chaminade Club at its meeting Friday with Mrs. Chas. Stauff decided to give its first concert of the season December 14, and selected Mrs. May Dearborne-Schwab, the Portland lyric soprano, as the soloist. Mrs. Schwab has appeared here before under the auspices of the Chaminade Club and her return will be welcomed by the many friends she made here then. The club has been preparing for the concert for sometime and it is believed that they will eclipse all previous efforts. At Friday's meeting, Mrs. Stauff read a paper on "Oratorio" and Miss May Stauff read a paper on "Bach."

Miss Maude Paluter and Thayer Grimes will entertain the Tuesday Night Whist Club at the home of Mrs. Paluter on South Broadway next Tuesday evening.

Formal announcements of the engagement of two well-known Coos Bay young couples are expected in the near future. A few friends already know but the formal announcement has not been made.

The North Bend W. C. T. U. held a Mothers' meeting Wednesday afternoon and also their regular business meeting. The scripture was read by Mrs. Wm. Neilson with invocation by Mrs. Wm. Jones. The discussion was led by Mrs. Geo. Witte, the subject being "Parents having and holding the Confidence of their Children." Those taking part were Mrs. W. Jones, Mrs. Geo. Hazer, Mrs. Robt. McCann, Mrs. W.

Chapelle, Mrs. J. V. Hodson and Mrs. Wm. Neilson. Mrs. Maud Watkins gave a very interesting talk on "Medal Contest Work." The meeting closed with the W. C. T. U. benediction.

Next Wednesday evening, the ladies of St. Monica's Catholic church in Marshfield will give a Thanksgiving Whist party at the Odd Fellows hall. Whist will be played from 8 to 10 o'clock and ten prizes will be awarded, five for high scores and five for low scores. From 10 to 12, dancing will be enjoyed and the evening will close with a sumptuous supper.

The upper rooms of the hall will be utilized for card playing, the regular hall for dancing. The prizes which were donated by local business men are very handsome ones.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Harrigan entertained a few friends informally at their home Thursday evening.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Potter at Flagstaff, when their daughter, Mable Grace, was united in marriage with Mr. Francis H. Wooley. The house was very prettily decorated. At nine o'clock, the bride entered on the arm of her father, dressed in white silk and carrying a bouquet of white carnations. The impressive ring ceremony was performed by Rev. H. I. Rutledge, Little Crafford Annin acted as ring bearer. After the ceremony delightful refreshments were served. About twenty-five friends and relatives were present.

The young couple departed the same evening en route by Drain for Nebraska where they will make their future home. Mr. and Mrs. Wooley are well-known members of the Methodist Episcopal church of this city and have many friends who wish them prosperity and happiness.

Mrs. A. T. Haines was hostess at a most delightful dinner party last evening complimentary to Miss Ada McConnell of Guthrie, Okla., who arrived here this week to spend the winter at the Haines home. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion, flags of all nations, shaded candles and chrysanthemums being used effectively. The dinner was a most elaborate one, Mrs. Haines being assisted in serving by Mrs. F. A. Haines and Mrs. Dorsey Kreitzer.

Those invited were Mesdames R. K. Booth, Effie Farringer, M. C. Maloney, and Wm. Grimes and Misses Elizabeth Kaufman, Mamie Mahoney, Daisy Dean Rush, Marie Maloney, Charlotte Murch, Nellie Tower, Maude Painter, Agnes Hutcheson, Louise Blatt, Jessie Chase and Violet Henderson.

Last Saturday evening, Miss Elizabeth Kaufman entertained a few friends at sewing.

Mrs. J. T. McCormac entertained the Bridge Quartette at a bridge luncheon at her home Friday. Her guests were Mrs. I. S. Kaufman, Mrs. Eugene O'Connell and Mrs. C. K. Perry.

Mrs. W. S. McFarland and daughter, Miss Elma, left today to spend Thanksgiving with friends and relatives at Portland and Cottage Grove.

Mrs. Matt. Kjellman of North Bend, entertained a number of friends at dinner last Wednesday.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Swedish Lutheran church of North Bend, held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Anna Strang last Wednesday afternoon. A larger number was in attendance than at any previous meeting. Aside from the usual program of work, it was decided to hold an auction in the church parlors on the last Saturday evening of this month, November 26. A short program will also be rendered. A committee was elected to take charge of the preparatory work. That this event will be even bigger than previous ones is quite certain. A large number of unique, ornamental and useful articles have also been donated by Mrs. Olivia Edman of Marshfield.

The ladies of the Marshfield Baptist church have arranged for G. LeRoy Hall to give "An Evening With Riley," Friday, November 25, at the church. Some of the best musical talent of the city will assist with the evening's program. Those who heard Mr. Hall a year ago will be delighted to have the privilege of hearing him again.

Mrs. Wm. Curtis entertained the Ladies Art Club at her home Friday afternoon. There was a large attendance of members, Mrs. W. H. Kennedy being the only guest of the club. Delicious refreshments were served. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. G. W. Shelly at North Bend the first Friday afternoon in December.
