The Famous Rayo

Gives the Best Light at Any Price

When you pay more than the Rayo price for a lamp, you are paying for extra decorations that cannot add to the quality of the light. You can't pay for a better light, because there is none. An oil light has the least effect on the human eye, and the Rayo Lamp is the best oil lamp made, though low in price. You can pay $5, $10, or $20 for some other lamp, and although you get a more costly lamp, you can't get a better light than the white, mellow, diffused, unflinching light of the low-priced Rayo.

Has a strong, durable shade-holder. This season's burner adds to the strength and appearance. Made of solid brass, nickel-plated, and easily polished.

Are Your Coat Pockets

Like This?

Or This?

YOU never have sagging, disreputable coat pockets to be ashamed of, when you wear Clothcraft Clothes. The non-sagging pocket is one of the details that give Clothcraft Clothes their peerless perfection.

The same difference between Clothcraft and ordinary clothes is found in the non-breakable coat front—the linings—the trimmings—the snug fitting collar—in every point of clothes merit.

Pure All-Wool absolutely guaranteed by the maker, and by us—in the fashionable shades and weaves—$10 to $25. Wool lasts. Wool keeps its style and shape as long as you wear the suit. You never had all these things guaranteed to you before. Why should you look any farther?

BIRD MEN IN DARING FLIGHT

After First View the Sight of Flying Men Is Common Place.

J. R. Smith of North Bend, who is something of a literateur himself, sort of first cousin to the guild, is in receipt of a personal letter from C. A. Van Loan, the well-known sporting writer, in which he gives a description of the great aviation meet in New York. Mr. Van Loan was formerly chief sporting writer for the Hearst syndicate of papers. He reported the Jeffries-Johnson fight and later the world's championship ball games for the Hearst papers. At present he is doing short stories for one of the popular magazines. In this work he is making a name and promises to become a worthy successor of O. Henry. He is the only American writer who can approach the graphic Henry style with all its dramatic qualities.

In describing the bird men Mr. Van Loan says:

Went out to see the aviators yesterday. It was a nice day and we saw one bird up 6,505 feet in the air, several others up as high as 3,000 feet and the infield was full of them. Aubrun in a Demoiselle, Lathan, Moissant and DeLesseps in their Bleriot. Lathan again in an Antoinette which looks exactly like a gigantic blue bottle and flies as steadily. Graham-White in a Farman biplane and a Bleriot, Drexel in a Bleriot. Aubrun and Garros in little machines not much bigger than a parasol but flying like a shot for a mile or so and then coming down with a bump. Hoxsey, Johnstone and Parmaloss in Wright biplanes. McCurdy, Brookins and Willard in Curtiss machines and a flock of fool foreigners in unclassified things. It was a great sight, but Jeab, once you have seen 'em up there in the air, droning along making a noise like a saw mill, the bloom of the peach is gone in a minute. It doesn't seem in the least strange and your only real curiosity is to see one get off the ground or come down to it. Toward the close of the day the Wright brothers trotted out their racer, built to win the speed championship. It is only about half as big as the other Wright machines but it has engines twice as powerful and two propellers of immense size. The old boy went humming down past the grandstand at a mile a minute and even then he didn't have her let out to the limit. They saw she can do eighty miles an hour on a quiet day without wind. The other machines which have speed are the Curtis racer, one of the Bleriot and Garros' Demoiselle. The Demoiselle is such a tiny little monoplane that you wonder how she can lift her engines and carry a human being but once she gets to going, wuh! There was a fool Frenchman humping around the course yesterday in a Demoiselle and once he flew right down the middle of the race track, so close to the crowd that you could have seen the whites of his eyes. Just z-o-o-o-o-m like that and he was gone! Just think. All these fellows have been flying here for ten days and as yet nobody has been hurt. Getting to be a safer proposition than an automobile. One fellow's motor stopped on him when he was over a mile in the air and he just canted his planes and came swooping down like a bird, just as easy. It looks nice but I wouldn't

TWO INJURED AT FIRE.

Mother and Son Fatally Hurt Jumping From Boston Hotel.
(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—In a wild scramble to escape the flames that destroyed Young's Hotel at Winthrop Beach early today, a mother and son leaped from the windows and were so badly injured that neither can recover. None of the other 35 guests were injured. The loss is in excess of fifty thousand dollars.

TERRIFIC FLOOD LOSS.

SAIGON, French Indo-China, Nov. 24.—One thousand persons were drowned and 490 barks lost in floods in the province of Quangai in Annam.

SHORTS $1.25 at HAINES.
