LET US TALK IT OVER

NE OF the avid phases of modern madness is the blind willingness of the majority of people to punge into debt, publicly and privately. The commercial sharks of the world are briskly alive to the vast human weakness and are profiting by it enormously year by year as ◆ COOK WITH ELECTRICITY. ♦ the habit grows and the ways are opened for continuing the scheme. • That the debts, personal and civic, of mankind, exceed the coinage of • the earth and all its representatives, by ten thousand per cent, cuts no WASHINGTON, Dec. 2. - figure with the ordinary man or citizen. It is passed up and forgotten, ignored or justified on the flimslest and paltriest of excuses. irrespective of the fact that his taxes are heaping up year by year, that the cost of living is enormously advanced by the system that mankind to come, falls heir to the reckless and sinful waste we are piling up through our indifference; all of which betokens an infamous levelling of the fine standards of truth and honor and responsibility that once ruled among men but which are now repudiated as antiquated and inefficacious.

Cities and communities are worse even than individuals, because of the wide scope of responsibility and the indirection of the burden. The glut of interest paid incessantly, and forever, by the cities, states, counties, districts, etc., etc., is what the money shark thrives upon and perpetuates by every conceivable ruse he can devise; and we as a people are idiotically blind to the univercally concerted scheme to wreck us.

Marshfield, like all other cities, has piled up her share of these ruinous engagements; and is asked to utter more promises to pay big sums, part of which may be left to the payment of our children, and if we continue to heap up the obligations even to our children's children. We had better do all the thinking we are capable of before we commit ourselves to much more of the same killing processes, and know what we are getting and all it is to cost and how it is to benefit enfather, LeRoy Jones, at Bandon, plied for leave of absence. This is us and compensate the generations to come for the heart-breaking inand not been assigned to any work interpreted here as indicative of the heritance we are providing. The curse of debt is over us all.

The tax levy of Marshfield is going up year by year by leaps and bounds. On top of the many public improvements being made the he men could not be taken and un- the normal. The necessity of this at the present time is questionable. The Times believes in being progressive but there is a limit beyond which it is unwise and unsafe to go. Marshfield should take note of its finance for the present and the exercise of a more rigid economy in its city business will be appreciated by the taxpayers who must meet the burdens of increasing indebtedness.

School taxes have been creeping up Road tax has been growing so rapidly that they startle the conservative and even make the progressive pause in his advocacy of advancement. There is no question of the needs of these funds and features of our civilization but there must be the exercise of common sense and good judgment in the expenditure of public moneys. Coos Bay is just now entering on a new era of improvement and development that will mean an addition to the tax bur-Bound Found Hidden In New den of its citizens. It is one that is willingly assumed because it will add to the wealth of the community and in a sense be a source of profit and income and not a dead loss. Temporarily, it means increased sacrifices by the tax payers and for that reason effort should be made to curtail in other directions. Coos Bay and Coos county and Marshfield should follow the excellent suggestion of President Taft in national finances and that means a curtailment of expenses all along the line. High taxes drives away capital and discourages development of our resources. It is high time that city and county officials took cognizance of this fact and entered upon a new era of economy,
