Give Ball.—The Millicoma club will give a ball at the club rooms Saturday night for the members and their wives and lady friends.

Was Canard.—The report that a dead man had been found yesterday on the mud flats proved to be a canard. Marshal Carter has not ascertained who started the story.

Undergoes Operation.—Miss Elizabeth Donnelly, who underwent an operation at Mercy hospital recently, is reported getting along fine which will be most welcome news to her many friends.

Is Insured.—Otto Schetter, who had the misfortune to lose a foot in a hunting accident this week, was lucky enough to have an accident policy that will prove of benefit now. It provides for the payment of $25 per week while he is laid up and for the payment of $2,500 for the loss of his foot.

Oil Stove Explodes.—An oil stove in A. H. Stutsman's office got out of kilter shortly after noon today and caused quite a fire scare. The stove either leaked or the fire got into the small oil tank and it blazed up and threatened to spread to the office fixtures. Someone rushed in and picked up the blazing stove and carried it down into the street where it soon was extinguished. The damage was slight and the threatened blaze was extinguished before the fire department arrived.

GOOD EVENING.
Cultivate the friendly spirit. If one would have friends he must be worthy of them. It is in vain for one to say, I want friends; I will go seek them. Go within rather, and establish yourself in friendly sympathy with your fellow-men; learn to love; get the helpful spirit, and above all the responsive temper and friends will come to you as birds fly to their beautiful singing mates.—T. T. Munger.

OBSERVATIONS

The will has no sense as Schopenhauer and Edward von Hartmann tell us. That it, when you dig down to where an act of the will starts, you will find not logic and reason, but dumb desire.

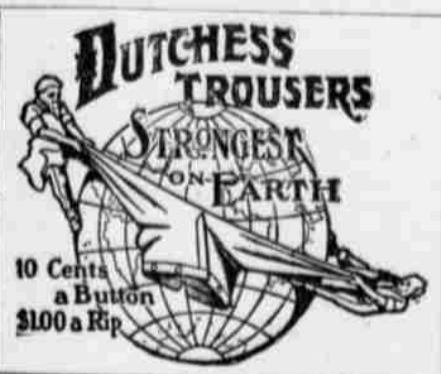

Our desires are wholly unintelligent. They have absolute disregard for cause and effect, which is the very essence of intelligence. For instance: I want to be rich, but not to do the work that causes riches; I want to be warm, but not to wear my overcoat; the child wants both to eat overmuch candy and to feel good; the want power in us is utterly unintelligent.

Our desires are also nonmoral. We want things without reference to whether they are good or bad, decent or shameful, helpful or injurious. Not that we really do immoral things, but we all want to do them, at some time or other, and our moral sense is something that comes later and suppresses or allows the desires.

Now it is precisely these desires that constitute character. These are what we are. They can be trained and changed, but it is a long and difficult task. And this task is the whole of culture, the whole of education and of religion. A man is never free and cultured and good until he automatically and subconsciously wants the good, the true and the beautiful. It is not enough to will these things and to do them. They must get rooted in our instincts.

Beautiful INDIAN BASKET made by the Polo Indian of Lake county, California, are on display at Mrs. Donaldson's Millinery Store at 119 Front street. They will make nice New Year presents.

A Tug-of-War Between the Strongest Men in the World would be worth looking at, especially if they use DUTCHESS TROUSERS, which are noted for the way they resist strain of every kind.

DUTCHESS TROUSERS stand all manner of tests as to strength and durability. They are made with such care and thoroughness that the manufacturers put a money warranty on every pair, offering $1 if they rip and 10 cents for every button that comes off.

We know of no other trousers that give you so much value for the money. We have a full line of the season's patterns and color in all sizes, attractively priced at $2.00 to $6.00.

BANDON DAILY CHANGES.

Commencing with today this paper will be issued three times a week instead of six times as heretofore. Under the circumstances we think this the only sensible course to pursue, so until such a time as the advertising shall warrant, the Eagle will be issued every Monday, Wednesday and Friday.—Bandon Eagle.

ALONG THE WATERFRONT.

The Roscoe brought in a cargo of salmon from the Siuslaw Sunday for reshipment from here.

The Alliance sailed from Eureka at 10 o'clock today for Coos Bay and should reach here early in the morning. She probably will sail for Portland on the noon tide tomorrow.

As yet, the snag boat that has been operated by the government on Coos River, has not been taken to the Coquille, the tugs apparently not desiring to take it around now. Unless a tug can be secured to take it over soon, the crew will be laid off until the boat is moved to the Coquille for operations there.
