Daylight Window Displays at Night

"Yes, it's wonderful the way window displays can be made under the pure white rays of this new General Electric Mazda Lamp. Just notice how perfectly it accentuates every detail in fabrics. Matching goods under its white rays is easy, for it radiates a daylight effect. You will notice that progressive stores everywhere are using these G-E Mazda Lamps, for aside from their vastly superior quality of light they give nearly three times as much candle-power as the ordinary carbon incandescent lamps. And they cost no more to operate. This G-E Mazda is a most ingenious invention; it is simply revolutionizing lighting methods. Notice how greatly it improves the appearance of all the live stores along this street."

"Traffic is always determined by the way a street is lighted, and that's why the night window gazers (and next morning buyers) are irresistibly drawn to stores using these beaming G-E Mazda Lamps."

We want you to come in for a moment today and let us prove to your entire satisfaction that if you are not using electric light—and the wonderful G-E Mazda Lamp—you are losing money and denying yourself comfort and convenience. We can prove this to you.

SURPRISE "NEWLY-WEDS."

W. N. Ekblad and Bride Given Surprise Last Evening.

A most pleasant event took place last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will N. Ekblad where a number of the members of the Lutheran church and Young Peoples' society both of which Mr. Ekblad is a member together with other friends, called upon the young couple to extend congratulations, well-wishes and give them a "welcome back." Knowledge of the affair had been kept entirely secret from them and the event was therefore a complete surprise. In a brief but appropriate address, the Rev. J. Richard Olson, spoke in behalf of those present and presented many useful and highly appreciated gifts to the much esteemed young couple. Mr. Ekblad replied in fitting remarks, assuring all that though quite dumbfounded from the unexpectedness of the affair, he and Mrs. Ekblad appreciated to the full extent the kindness and true fellowship which was shown.

Their home was flung wide open to the disposal of the company and a royal entertainment followed. Refreshments were served, musical selections, vocal and instrumental, were rendered by members of the party and a general fine time was enjoyed.

Poor Pickings.

The new boarder had never been on a farm before. She was filled with interest and delight in everything she saw. On the morning after her arrival she saw Mrs. Howe apparently picking berries from some pretty green plants beyond the wall as she strolled in the road. "Those are charming little plants," she said, pausing, with her eyes fixed on a pall which hung on Mrs. Howe's arm. "What kind of berries grow on them? Does it take long to fill a pall like that?" Mrs. Howe looked down into the pall with a meditative air and answered the second question. "I should hope 'twould," she replied. "What kind of berries are they?" persisted the young woman. "I can't quite see. What are you picking?" "Tater bugs," said Mrs. Howe as she made another contribution to the depths of the pall.—Youth's Companion.

Public Speaking Explained.

The Japanese visitor to the city was asked to make an after dinner speech. He arose and began quaintly. "I often wonder," he said, "why it is you Americans will hinder your digestion by making these after dinner speeches. We Japanese rest after our meals. It is much better. I know that I traveled with a Japanese legation over the United States, and everywhere the Americans would make us dine, then ask us for speeches afterward. We would much rather have dined at our hotels and retired afterward to rest for the following day. I asked some one why it was, this universal after dinner speechmaking among the American men at public dinners, and he replied that the American man never had a chance to say anything at home and that was why."—New York Press.

Had a Good Reason.

Dan, a colored man, was employed as porter in a mercantile establishment in a town in Florida, and his duties required him to have the store swept by 7 o'clock in the morning. He had been late for many mornings, and on the sixteenth consecutive time his employer remonstrated with him thus: "Dan, why can't you get here on time?" "Well, Mr. L.," said Dan, "yer see, I live the other side of Mount Hermon cemetery and can't always get yere on time." "Why in the world do you live so far from your work?" said his employer. Without a moment's hesitation Dan responded. "Yer see, it's dis yere way, Mr. L.—I'll be honest wid yer—I wants a home beyond the grave."

It is expected the report will be made Monday, and that he will speak in advance of Senator Owen, who but for the Elkins death would have made a speech against Lorimer today.
