(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

NEW YORK, N. Y., Jan. 7.—The Carnegie Trust Company was closed today by direction of the state superintendent of banks. It has a capital of $1,500,000 and deposits aggregating $10,000,000. The institution was in serious trouble during the panic of 1907 and has never fully recovered. Its late president, Dickinson, died last year under peculiar circumstances.

The institution was organized in 1897 and after the retirement of Leslie M. Shaw from the office of secretary of the treasury, he became president. His connection ceased after a few months because of differences with the other officers of the institution. The name Carnegie attracted to the institution a great deal of attention but the adoption of this name was without Carnegie's authority or approval.

STANDARD OIL CHANGES MEN

C. W. Montgomery of San Francisco, Appointed Agent For This Territory.

C. W. Montgomery has been appointed manager of the Standard Oil Company's agency in this territory, succeeding F. S. Dow and will assume charge of the business next Monday.

The rapid growth of the company's business in this section is responsible for the change. It has reached such proportions that the company insisted that the manager give it his undivided attention. This Mr. Dow was unable to do as his other business interests are too important and so he resigned the agency for the company which he has handled for a number of years on a commission basis and much of the growth is due to his business ability.

Mr. Montgomery has been with the San Francisco offices of the company. He brought his family here. His territory includes all of Coos and Curry counties and that part of Douglas adjacent to Gardiner and the coast.

HARBOR WORK TALKED OVER

Mass Meeting at Chamber of Commerce Plans to Hasten Improvements.

A motion that the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce accept and approve the bar dredge project, but urging that the government restore the north jetty was unanimously adopted at the public meeting of the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce last evening.

This action was taken after an informal discussion of the matter. The motion was made by Henry Sengstacken and seconded by Claude Nasburg.

The discussion was brought up by the reading of a written report of C. J. Mills who was delegated by the executive committee to take the matter up with Major Morrow at Washington. Mr. Mills' report was that he was of the opinion that it would be unwise at this time to do anything that would interfere with the plans for the bar dredge and thought that perhaps it would be well to allow a test of the dredge before again urging the jetty construction.

Vice-president McKnight, who presided said that while many others had concurred with the view expressed by Mr. Mills, the club had not given up hopes of securing an appropriation for the jetty now. He said that they proposed to go ahead with it but in such a way as to not antagonize the government engineers or the bar dredge matter.

Commerce Large.

H. C. Diers, who has been gathering data for the Port of Coos Bay commission read an article by the chief of the government engineers, showing that the policy of congress was only to appropriate money for projects recommended by the engineers and that the projects already approved by the engineers would require all the money that could be spent for many years. Further that the appropriations from now on are apportioned according to the demands of the commerce at particular points and also in accordance with what the communities themselves are doing. Also that the government engineers urged harbor cities to retain control of the waterfront.

Mr. Diers said that while his data for the commerce last year was not complete, it would show that over 350,000 tons had crossed the Coos Bay bar and that Coos Bay had done a large marine jobbing business, and that fully $275,000 worth of salmon had passed through this port last year.

Mr. Diers also suggested that the United States Navy Department be requested to correct its bulletin rela-

He produced all his original notes. WOOL TARIFF IS DEBATED

Fred Blume Wants Special Privilege Feature of Law Eliminated.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 6.—State Senator Fred H. Blume of Sheridan, Wyo., while not a member of the National Wool Growers Association was invited to take part in the tariff discussion this afternoon and even before his turn came, he became the center of interest because his views on the tariff do not coincide with those of a large proportion of the delegates.

Mr. Blume reduces his argument to a sentence as follows: "I contend that the tariff should be revised to eliminate special privileges, so that both the wool-worsted and the carded woolen manufacturers shall have equal advantages under the tariff." The election of officers will be held this afternoon. The indications are that Dr. J. M. Wilson of Douglas, Wyo., will be chosen president.

District Forester C. S. Chapman stated in the wool growers convention this morning that conservation of the grazing area of Oregon is being given special attention and that development of water on the desert lands will greatly increase grazing. The foresters, he said, now regulate the grazing in Oregon, Washington and Alaska on 164,000,000 acres and that 121,000 less sheep were grazed last year than 1909.
