WE ARE THE MUSIC MAKERS.

We are the music makers, And we are the dreamers of dreams, Wandering by lone sea breakers And sitting by desolate streams, World losers and world forsakers, On whom the pale moon gleams, Yet we are the movers and shakers Of the world forever, it seems.

With wonderful deathless ditties We build up the world's great cities, And out of a fabulous story We fashion an empire's glory. One man with a dream at pleasure Shall go forth and conquer a crown, And three with a new song's measure Can trample a kingdom down.

We, in the ages lying In the buried past of the earth, Built Nineveh with our sighing, And Babel itself in our mirth, And o'erthrew them with prophesying, To the old of the new world's worth, For each age is a dream that is dying Or one that is coming to birth. —Arthur O'Shaughnessy.

MY REALM.

I AM owner of the sphere, Of the seven stars and the solar year, Of Caesar's hand and Plato's brain, Of Lord Christ's heart and Shakespeare's strain. —Emerson.

So rich, so great a lord art thou, Heir of the ages, prince and now? Yet, Emerson, a realm more wide, Is mine—all thine and thee beside! —Linda S. Hibner.

THE FORERUNNER.

I'VE talked awhile with the engineer, The chap who's doin' my old time tricks, Except that he runs on a track that's clear. While I drove the Overland coach and six— A coach and six—across that plain That now flies past in the window pane.

This chap has a throttle in his hand, And there's never a ticklish turn to steer. I held the ribbons, understand, And a shotgun always roared near. No headlight gleamed on the faint rough trail When I was the one who carried mail.

The engineer sits as warm as toast As he perches high on his iron hoos, But many's the time I've looked the ghost When the norther swept the plains across— That endless, pitiless, frozen plain That whizzes past through the window pane. —Arthur Chapman.

THE GOSSIPERS.

IN his hour of pain and shame, In his prison house of flame, When revenge the devil sought Little tongues of fire he wrought; Tongues to lie and twist and turn, Tongues to scorch and sear and burn, Tongues to slay the high and holy, Tongues to slay the poor and lowly; Then to earth the tongues he sent, There to work his fell intent, To whisper, hint and smirch and sneer, And to fill the world with fear, Foul with gossip that can kill Evermore to work his will.

The little tongues of hell Still serve the devil well. —Peter McArthur.

WAVE YOUR HAND TO CARE.

GET out into the morning And breathe the blessed air, Light up your soul with sunshine And wave your hand to care!

GO where the streams are singing, Stand where the skies are fair, God's bells of joy are ringing— So wave your hand to care. —Frank L. Stanton.

OTHELLO'S DYING SPEECH.

S OFT, you; a word or two before you go, I have done the state some service, and they know't; No more of that, I pray you in your letters, When you shall these unlucky deeds relate, Speak of me as I am; nothing extenuate, Nor set down aught in malice; then must you speak Of one that loved not wisely, but too well; Of one not easily jealous, but, being wrought, Perplexed in the extreme; of one, whose hand Like base Indian, threw a pearl away, Richer than all his tribe; of one whose subdued eyes, Albeit unused to the melting mood, Drop tears as fast as the Arabian trees Their medicinal gum. Set you down this; And say besides—that in Aleppo once, Where a malignant and a turbanned Turk Beat a Venetian and traduced the state, I took by the throat the circumcised dog And smote him—thus. (Stabs himself.) —William Shakespeare.

FOOTBALL.

HE made a run around the end, Was tackled from the rear, The right guard sat upon his neck, The fullback on his ear.

THE center sat upon his legs, Two ends sat on his chest, The quarter and the halfback then Sat down on him to rest.

THE left guard sat upon his head, A tackle on his face, The coroner was next called in To sit upon his case. —Edgar A. Guest.

Inherited.

"Where did Phlyem get his propensity for ballooning?" "I don't know, but his grandfather died in the air." "Above the trees?" "No; under one."—New York Journal.

The Greatest Financier.

"Who was the greatest financier ever known?" "Noah, because he floated his stock when the whole world was in liquidation."

Think of your wonderful immunity from harm if you mind your own business.—Loomis.

MYRTLE POINT POINTERS.

News of Upper Coquille Valley As Told By The Enterprise.

Frank J. Schmitt of Creswell and Miss Anna Roberts of Myrtle Point were married recently at Eugene. The bride formerly taught school here and in Curry county.

At the annual meeting of the Coquille Valley Fruit Growers' association held in this city Wednesday, the old officers and directors were re-elected, with the exception of Treasurer D. R. Lewis. Members of the association who attended the meeting have not been discouraged by the results of their efforts, but enter the new year with a determination to try for better results. A general meeting is to be held in March for the purpose of formulating plans for the ensuing season.

At the session of the M. E. Sunday school held last Sunday, the following officers were elected for the present year: Superintendent, Arthur Brown; assistant superintendent, E. A. Dodge; secretary, Miss Nellie Barton; librarian, Miss Gertrude Arrington.

At the Hermann Bazar is a window display of fully developed tomatoes, ripe red raspberries, roses, pansies, nasturtiums and California poppies that speak louder than a megaphone of Coos county's ideal winter climate. They have been gathered this year and from unprotected gardens.

INSTALL NEW OFFICERS.

COOS COUNTY SEED.

H. L. Stephens, the Fishtrap model farmer, returned from Portland recently, having been to the metropolis for the purpose of contracting his coming year's seed crop of grain, etc., which was accomplished without difficulty. So thorough is Mr. Stephens in his farming methods, and the soil and climatic conditions of Coos county are so excellent that the grain and seed he raises have become so well known as to create a demand for them far in excess of his ability to supply.

His principal crops are garden peas, oats, barley and wheat. Last season from 40 acres of garden peas he sold about $4,000 worth of seed. In 1909 38 acres of oats averaged 131 bushels to the acre. This past season, which was an unusually dry one, his oats and barley averaged 118 bushels per acre.—Coquille Herald.
