Meet Saturday.—The "Busy Bees" of the Lutheran church will meet tomorrow at the home of Mrs. John Hillstrom, Ferndale.

Anniversary of Disaster.—Today is the first anniversary of the Czarina disaster on the North Spit. While the Czarina went on the spit January 12, the last of the men were not lost until January 13.

Open Houseboat.—There was an informal opening of the new houseboat built by members of the C. A. Smith office force. The houseboat is now anchored near the retail yards and last night's affair was a "stag party."

Breaks Plate Glass.—The weight of the snow Wednesday night pulled down the awning at the Going & Harvey store in such a way that one of the rods completely smashed one of the plate glass windows, entailing a loss of about $40.

Goes East.—R. M. Jennings, general manager of the Oregon Power Company, left this week for Chicago where he will confer with the head officers of the H. M. Bylesby company, owners of the property, relative to improvements proposed.

Meet Saturday.—The annual meeting of the Coos Bay Fruit Growers association will be held at the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce tomorrow morning. It is likely that the question of securitizing a cannery will be brought up.

Magazines By Freight.—Warner Ogren is making arrangements to have the current magazines shipped in by steamer freight from San Francisco and Portland. They will come once a week and the change will considerably lighten the mail that has to be brought in by the old Coos Bay wagon road.

Body Not Found.—So far, no trace has been found of Billy Taylor, the mill hand who is thought to have been drowned in Isthmus Inlet a few nights ago. Owing to the strong ebb tide prevailing at the time, the body was likely carried far from the scene of drowning.

Wed Here.—Last evening, Judge John F. Hall officiated at the marriage of Allen Handleman of Coquille and Miss Mary McNamara of Marshfield. Both are well-known throughout this section and the marriage was a surprise to most of their friends who will wish them a long and happy future. They will make their home at Coquille.

Welcome Editor.—E. J. Antell, editor of the Finnish American, a paper published at New York, will deliver an address at the Knights of Finland hall in Marshfield Saturday evening. The local Finnish people are planning a big turnout to welcome Mr. Antell and following the lecture, there will be a program of musical numbers, recitations and then a banquet will be served.

Given Surprise.—Last evening, the members of the Marshfield fire department surprised Homer Mauzey, one of the members, who was married a few days ago. After the meeting, the firemen marched in a body to Mr. Mauzey's home, Homer having taken another route and not reaching there until after his guests did. The evening was spent in jollity and many cordial wishes were extended to the young couple.

NOTICE.
To all whom this may concern:—My wife, Ida Garland, has left my home, bed and board on the 6th day of January 1910. Thereby I refuse to pay debts incurred by her or contracted by any party or person in her name.
HENRY GARLAND,
Dated at Empire, Oregon, January 6, 1910.
