Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. P. A. Hazard. No business of importance was brought up and the afternoon was spent at needle work and in conversation. Delicious refreshments were served. The club will meet next Thursday with Mrs. C. S. Kaiser at North Bend.

Wm. Ford and wife, formerly Miss Stella O'Connell, are planning to move to Portland from San Francisco. Mr. Ford has been figuring on a change in business that will take him to the Rose City to live.

The concert to be given by the Chaminade club at the Masonic Opera House next Tuesday evening is attracting much attention and promises to be largely attended. It marks the last day of the pre-Lenten season and consequently the last chance for six weeks for the local Lenten observers to appear in full dress costumes.

The club has been rehearsing frequently for the event and Mrs. Wm. Horsfall, the director, believes that the ability of the local musicians will be a revelation to Marshfield people.

The program is as follows:
 Lacome, Eadulantina. Chorus
 Mendelssohn, Scherzo, Op. 16, No. 2. Miss Edna Louise Larson
 Denza, A. Nocturne. Chorus
 Beach, b. The Year's at the Spring Chorus
 Foote, An Irish Folk Song, quartet—Mrs. Charles Stauff, Mrs. J. T. Hall, Miss Clara Myren, Miss Esther Johnson.

Parrots in a Fire.
 In all likelihood no fireman on duty is going to stand around with his hands in his pockets long enough to read the warning, nevertheless it is printed in large type above the bird fancier's desk:

"In case of fire save the parrots last. They are best able to take care of themselves."
 "Looks like hard luck for the parrots," remarked a visitor.
 "I have no grudge against them," said the bird man. "I am only trying to protect the smaller and more delicate birds. When a fire starts in a bird store most persons who join the rescue party make a grab for the parrots. First aid should be extended to the canaries. They and other small birds are mighty soon overcome by the smoke. The parrot is no phoenix, but unless he is actually reduced to ashes he can put up a pretty stiff fight against a fire and can hold his own until the rescuers make a second invasion."—New York Sun.

The Menu Card in Its First Form.
 In its old fashioned form the menu was usually written large on cards of such imposing dimensions that room for one only could be found at each end of the board. In the medieval dinner this aid to selection must have been an absolute necessity, for the medieval dinner was a mine of surprises. It was divided into courses, as are our own daily meals; but, whereas nowadays the diner has a general idea that fish will follow soup and that entree is succeeded by relve and can conceive generally the sort of demand that each course will make upon his appetite and digestion, there was no possible arguing as to what was going to happen at an early English dinner, and close study fails to reveal the existence of any principle of arrangement.

The Site of the White House.
 The site for the president's palace, as the first maps name it, was selected by President Washington and Major L'Enfant when they laid out the federal city in 1792. They purposed to have the president's house and the capitol reciprocally close to the long vista formed by Pennsylvania avenue, and they also laid out a parklike connection between the two great buildings. The plans for the house, selected by Washington and Jefferson as the result of a competition in which L'Enfant took part, were drawn by James Hoban, a native of Dublin and a medal man of the Society of Arts of that city.

The Music of the Nightingale.
 But the nightingale, another of my airy creatures, breathes such sweet loud music out of her little instrumental throat that it might make mankind to think miracles are not ceased. He that at midnight, when the very laborer sleeps securely, should hear, as I often have, the clear airs, the sweet descants, the natural rising and falling, the doubling and redoubling of her voice, might well be lifted above earth and say, Lord, what music hast thou provided for the spirits in heaven when thou affordest bad men such music on earth!—Walton's "The Complete Angler."

Rev. R. E. Browning will address the meeting.

Mrs. Anna Brown entertained the North Bend Presbyterian ladies at her home on Sherman avenue Thursday afternoon. Needlework and other diversions were enjoyed. Among the guests were Mrs. Geo. D. Mandigo, Mrs. Wm. Murr, Mrs. E. J. Kitting, Mrs. A. H. Imhoff, Mrs. C. A. Smith, Mrs. Ira D. Bartle, Mrs. R. J. Coke, Mrs. Geo. Hazer, Mrs. Wm. Vaughan, Mrs. Guernsey and Mrs. Harry O'Mara.

News comes from Coquille of the approaching marriage of Miss Jettie Watson and Harry Folsom, who will wed shortly. Mr. Folsom who is well-known in Coquille, is now identified with The Modern company of Marshfield.

C. R. Peck and wife entertained a Washington Birthday party at their home in South Marshfield Thursday evening. The decorations, favors score cards and refreshments reflected the "Father of his country" throughout. Miss Charlotte Murch assisted Mrs. Peck in serving. At cards, Mrs. Heath and Dr. Houseworth won the ladies and gentlemen's first prizes and Mrs. J. W. Ingram and G. W. Kaufman the second prizes. Mrs. G. W. Kaufman won the "cut" prize. Among those invited were Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Kaufman, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Smeaton, Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Matson, Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Gettins, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. F. Murch, Mrs. Heath, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Houseworth, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Coke, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Bliven, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. E. Crosthwait and Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Ingram, Miss Charlotte Murch and Mr. and Mrs. Charles.

Last Friday, February 17, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sinclair entertained in honor of Miss May Stauff of Marshfield. Five hundred was the diversion of the evening. Mrs. Dollar received the ladies first prize, which was a beautiful gold lined spoon. Mr. Geo. E. Peoples received the men's first prize, a leather bound volume of poems. Delicious refreshments were served, the hostess being assisted by Mrs. Dollar and Mrs. Will Lyons. One of the special features of the evening was a vocal solo rendered by Mr. Ballinger of Marshfield. He was accompanied by Miss May Stauff.

Those present were:
 Mr. and Mrs. Dollar, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Gage, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sherwood, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Liljeqvist, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lyons, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Slagle, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Lamb, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Peoples, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Mohl, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Slagle, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Evland, Mrs. Owens, Mr. Ballinger, Misses Esther Johnson, Clara Sherwood, May Stauff; Messrs. C. W. Knudcotti, James Watson, L. D. Hoekett, Geo. Gage.—Coquille Herald.

Mrs. J. W. Hildenbrand entertained the members of the Ladies Art club on Friday, February 17. As usual, the greater portion of the afternoon was spent in sewing, after which the hostess, assisted by the club's guest, Mrs. J. G. Kinney, served refreshments.

A notable feature of the meeting was the interchange of valentines among the members, each receiving some hand-sewed article reflecting the skill of some fellow member of the club.

At the close of the meeting the club adjourned to meet Friday, March 3, at the home of Mrs. L. Lang.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Smeaton entertained at their home in South Marshfield on Washington's Birthday, in honor of Miss Edna Stanley, who is soon to sever her connection with the C. A. Smith Co., and return to her home in Portland. The decorations reflected the national anniversary. Cards, games and music were followed by delicious refreshments. At cards, the first prizes were won by Miss Nellie Tower and Ansgar Lagerstrom and the consolation prizes by J. Dunning Meece and Miss Daisy Rush. Vocal numbers by Mr. and Mrs. Smeaton were features of the impromptu musical program. Among those invited were Judge and Mrs. John S. Coke, Misses Jessie Chase, Charlotte Murch, Nellie Tower, Laura Kruse, Bertha Kruse, Daisy Rush, Genevieve Sengstacken, Clara Myren and Evelyn Anderson and Messrs. F. W. Payne, J. Dunning Meece, Ansgar Lagerstrom, Victor Johnson, Cornell Lagerstrom, Hugo Quist, Geo. Murch, W. J. Conrad, G. A. Brown, Tom Bennett and Mr. Bleaker.

Dr. and Mrs. Wm. Horsfall entertained a few friends informally at cards and music at their home last evening.

A most enjoyable afternoon was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. White at 684 Tenth street South, when twenty-six little girls helped celebrate the third birthday of Francis E. White, Wednesday, February 22. The time was spent in various games and other amusements. Refreshments were served. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Tom Juza and Miss Julia Holm. Some very nice and useful presents were received. The children on departing for home wished Frances a good many more such happy birthdays. Those presents were: Grace Farrin, May Metlin, Anna Downs, Vera Albrecht, Elsie Thomas, Edith Ayres, Myrtle Isaacson, Frances Lang, Bessie Sandquist, Ruth Sandquist, Isabelle Ferguson, Clara Ferguson, Marion Kar-dell, Florence Kardell, Edna Rees, Helen Rees, Madge Stutsman, Maude Stutsman, Leota Smith, Phoebe Smith, Helen Colgan, Alice Denning, Josephine Savage, Stella Haglund, Virginia Gosney, Margaret Lund and Frances E. White.

Miss Lucy Powers is entertaining a number of her young friends at sewing this afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Powers, in South Marshfield. Among those invited are Misses Anna Russell, Frieda Holm, Frances Golden, Evelyn Flanagan, May Myren, Myrtle Cowan, Ruth Horton, Zetta Mitchell, Marie Seaman, Mabel Smith, Mary Kruse, Adelaide Clarke and Joan Fitzgerald.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sterling entertained at a Washington birthday party on Wednesday evening at their home. Everything was in keeping for the occasion, the house being prettily decorated in colonial style, flags and bunting being used. Score cards for the occasion also were used in shape of small hatchets. Mrs. Folsom won the first prize for ladies, a large picture of George and Martha Washington. Dr. Endicott carried off the first prize for gentlemen, being George's hatchet. Mrs. Fred True and E. W. Lorenz won consolation prizes. Those present were:
 Mr. and Mrs. B. Folsom, Mr. and Mrs. Jones, Mrs. and Mrs. Liljeqvist, Mr. and Mrs. Laird, Mr. and Mrs. True, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Lorenz, Mr. and Mrs. Mehl, Effie Collier, Clara Sherwood, Esther Johnson, Mabel Wilson, Jas. Watson, F. Greenough, Dr. Endicott.—Coquille Herald.

STANDARD APPLE BOX
 One Adopted by Legislature Larger Than Present One.
 SALEM, Ore., Feb. 25.—"This standard apple box prescribed in the bill that has passed the legislature is the standard now for British Columbia, Washington, Idaho, Montana and Oregon," said Representative Westerlund, introducer of the measure.

"This is the box desired by the growers, as against the box described in the Lafean bill, which was defeated in Congress. The Lafean box is the one desired in the East. These men object to our box because they say that it does not contain quite a bushel. But, as a matter of fact, our box contains as near a bushel as is feasible in making the fine apple pack that has made Oregon famous. That pack has largely made our apple industry the success that it is and the growers insist on having a standard size box which will also keep the pack up to the standard.

"Oregon has been behind the rest of the Northwest states in this respect and our bill now puts us on the same plane.

"The special box provided is somewhat larger and may be used by the growers who prefer it, and that amendment was perfectly satisfactory to us, as added in the Senate."

Representative Westerlund said that growers had given virtually unanimous approval to the standard box, as incorporated in the bill. Governor West has not yet determined his action as to the Westerlund bill.

FOR BETTER ROADS.

There is a growing belief in this section of the county that it would be found profitable to tax payers as well as to teamsters to have a force of men and teams working the roads during the winter months. Very frequently an entire summer's work is ruined in a few weeks of travel during the winter months, when if men were on the road a few shovelful of rock would stop the cutting of a hole that might be axle deep and rods in length before the rainy season passes. It has been demonstrated that when rock is put on a dirt surface in the summer time, the rains will soften the dirt and allow the rock to disappear or be sloughed out of the track. If rock was put on in the winter time it would at once go down in ruts to a permanent foundation and the basis for a permanent roadway would be laid. Besides men and teams could undoubtedly be suered more cheaply in the winter months than in the summer when all kinds of work is rushing. Certainly some work should be done to prevent the cutting of ruts and to prevent water standing anywhere in the roadbed during the winter season.—Myrtle Point Enterprise.

SPANKING CAUSES BLOOD POISON

WHITE SALMON, Wash., Feb. 25.—"It was all because I tried to spank my boy," said Albert Darting as he placed his arm under the x-ray and then submitted to an operation which laid open his wrist to the bone. As he swung on the lad, the boy instinctively threw his hand behind for protection, and an indelible pencil he held penetrated the father's wrist. The point broke off, starting blood poison in a few days, which may necessitate amputation.

TOUCHING A FEW OF THE ESSENTIALS IN POULTRY CULTURE.

Editor Times:
 According to promise I shall endeavor in this short article to mention briefly a few of the essential features necessary to success in poultry culture, not that I shall launch some great secret, not hitherto well-known to experienced poultry breeders, but may reach through your widely circulating publication some points of interest not generally understood by beginners.
 I wish to say first that few localities are well adapted to all the various breeds of fowls, this, of course, can best be decided by actual experimental demonstrations, with the raising of several breeds of different characteristics, i. e., the Mediterranean; the American and Asiatics, bred under conditions peculiar to the location. This experimental work is generally expensive and seldom profitable if at all satisfactory, especially to the beginner unless he has the ambition to carefully and persistently work out the solution on a truly scientific basis.

Secondly profits in this as in all other lines of business are obtained only through the strict observance of scientific methods in placing the products on the market in such a manner that customers are pleased. This can best be done by a careful study of the needs and demands of the consumer. "Good goods quickly advertise the merits of the producer. Thirdly, the volume of business always measures the success of the superior article, placed on the market in neat packages or parcels carries with it a double attraction, but it should be borne in mind that appearance should not in any instance supersede the real merits of the article, especially in this true of all food stuffs. Fourthly, the poultry business is today one of, if not the largest industry of our nation, and the current prices evidences the almost limitless demand, which although phenomenal in magnitude, is yet in its infancy.

In concluding this little article, I desire to congratulate your poultry raisers on the excellent display they made at your poultry and pet stock show and although it was your first show of this kind I certainly marked your county as an admirable locality for this most pleasant and profitable industry.
