Young Boys Succumb In Great Agony After Eating Purchased Food.

CORONER DECIDES TO PERFORM AN AUTOPSY.

Mrs. C. Goodwin, the Mother, Says It Only Tasted Some of It.

(Postal Telegrams to Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 23—After an all-night struggle to save two little children from death, the coroner has decided to perform an autopsy on the bodies of the boys who were killed when they ate food which had been purchased at a neighborhood stall.

The boys, Paul and John, aged seven and five respectively, died while being taken to the hospital to receive medical attendance.

The coroner says that the boys were given some food on the 22nd, but that it was not purchased at a stall as they claim.

The coroner said that the boys had taken the food from a food stall, but that he has not made a final decision on the matter.

The mother, Mrs. C. Goodwin, said that the boys were only tasted some of it.

The boys were taken from the stall and were given medical treatment, but they died in the hospital.
