J. W. DAVIS.

CLARKE SAYS OUTLOOK GOOD

vales) and the mountains and streams were pictured there, and as I looked it suddenly developed that they also had a line of railroad, marked the Coos Bay-Boise stretching from Roseburg to Marshfield. And Coos Bay was there in the distance with great ships sailing into it.

I certainly think that, in a few weeks now, Coos Bay must make, through its Chambers of Commerce, better efforts to get only advertise, but to reach the thousands of people who come to Portland and who think that Portland and Oregon are synonymous terms. I am quite sure that new Oregon and new Portland are taking a different view of Coos Bay than formerly and I think it entirely unnecessary to look on Portland as our enemy. Over a hundred thousand of the new population of Portland have come from places like Chicago and its tributary cities and they have the Chicago idea of building up the whole state and making as many good cities with their capital as possible.

"As for the Coos Bay-Boise Railroad, I have only to say that it will be built. The people of this locality have been lead to suppose that it is only necessary to think about a railroad and in a few days after to commence construction. This incorrect view has made them suspicious of delays, but I want to assure them that the Coos Bay-Boise proposition is not a mere real estate deal and that it is a real railroad and will materialize as such just as soon as all the necessary detail work has been completed and when that has been done it will be pushed to completion. If the people had known nothing more about the inception of this road than they knew of the Hill lines, they would probably never suspect that it had taken a long time to get ready. It is stated that the Hills were three years getting ready to build the Deschutes line, but the people thought Hill only had to think a few days and then the shovels went to work. The funny thing about capitalists is that they are usually very hard headed men and insist on protecting themselves and their investments all along the line. Things have to be RIGHT before they spend their money. Another thing, if anybody thinks that the railroad projectors should take the public into their confidence, even when the public is interested, they are mightily mistaken. For instance, I was requested to write to a prominent contractor on Coos Bay—and ask him what he could take the contract for furnishing a certain material necessary in railroad building for and put the same in place. In his answer the price of this material and labor was put at one third higher price than it has ever been done for on the Bay before. He also said that these prices would not hold" as prices would go skyward the moment it was definitely known that the railroad was to commence construction." Of course if that is the attitude of the people of this section delays may continue and I can not help it. You see the capitalist who has accumulated money enough to build a railroad is not what we call a tenderfoot. He will not submit to be held up. His bonding list provides for just so much money to do the work on a reasonable basis and if the prices go up beyond the estimates, the railroad has to wait till they come down. I hope the people will keep this in mind and remember that they can easily injure good prospects on the very eve of complete success. In these matters there must be cooperation until the road is completed and a locomotive actually makes the trip from Coos Bay to the other destination. It would be unwise for me to make a definite statement now, but I will say that while this project cannot be hurried, it is being worked out physically and financially, along scientific lines."

WED. AT GARDINER.

A quiet wedding occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Graham, near Gardiner, on March 18, when G. R. Chambers and Miss Ella V. Schilling were united in marriage. Rev. J. S. Green officiating. The happy couple are well known in the northern part of the county where they have resided for some time. They will make their future home near Gardiner.—Roseburg News.

During the prohibition campaign in Texas every slight earth tremor may be taken as evidence that some more of the early settlers down there are turning over in their graves.

CLEVER BOUT ON SATURDAY

West and Lee Ready for Boxing Match—Special Train and Boat Service.

What will be the best boxing exhibition ever pulled off here takes place Saturday night, March 25, in the skating rink, between Guy Lee and Gene West. Lee has been boxing around San Francisco this winter making good, outpointing such men as Abe Label who fought Abe Attell a ten round draw and boxed a no-decision with Danny O'Brien, Bob Evans, Bud Anderson and the best lightweight of Portland. On the other hand Gene West beat O'Brien, Bob Evans, and got a draw with Roscoe Taylor, Jockey Bennett, and a no-decision with Jimmy Carroll. Figuring the dope both men should put up a very clever exhibition and will have to extend themselves to outpoint each other.

The management announces that this contest will be pulled off to the utmost satisfaction of the sports, and admission refunded if contest is not up to expectations.

Of the special event between Al Fish and Pud Nosler, it is needless to mention the boys' merit as they have boxed three times (2 draws and Nosler breaking his hand and having to stop) and it is a well-known fact they have put up the fastest exhibitions ever seen on the Bay. Both boys are in the pink of condition and both feel confident of outpointing the other.

This bout should be well attended as a club offering such exhibitions should have the support of every admirer of the game.

The club will run a special train from Myrtle Point stopping at all flag stations, returning after contest, also special boat from Allegany leaving a 7 p. m. and returning at 12:30 the same evening. They have spared no expense to make this exhibition a grand success.

Don't forget, Saturday, March 25, at 9:30 p. m.

State Gazetteer and Business Directory.

Just issued for 1911-12 is the most complete work of the kind published. It contains an accurate business directory of every city, town and village in Oregon and Washington, and the names and addresses of country merchants and professional men, lumbermen, etc., who are located adjacent to villages; also lists of government and county officers, commissioners of deeds, state boards, statutory provisions, terms of courts names of the postmasters, postoffices, express, telephone and telegraph offices, justices of the peace, hotels, daily and weekly newspapers; besides much other information useful to all classes of business and professional men. A descriptive sketch of each place is given, embracing various items of interest, such as the location, population, distances to different points, the most convenient shipping stations, the products that are marketed, stage communication, trade statistics, the nearest bank location, mineral interests, churches, schools, libraries and societies. An important feature is the classified directory, giving every business arranged under its special heading, thus enabling subscribers to obtain at a glance a list of all houses manufacturing or dealing in any particular line of goods. The work generally is compiled to deserve their liberal patronage.
