BOLD THUGS ROB JEWELRY STORE IN SPOKANE TODAY

Make Get Away With $5,000 Worth of Jewels and Leave No Clue.

PROPRIETOR WAGNER IS NEARLY KILLED

Crime Pulled Off at 8 o'clock This Morning in Business Section.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

SPOKANE, Wash., Mar. 30. — The jewelry store of R. B. Wagner, in the heart of the downtown district, was robbed shortly after eight o'clock this morning by two armed men who looted the show case and safe of jewels valued at $5,000 after dealing the proprietor a murderous blow, knocking him unconscious to the floor.

Wagner was preparing his stock for the day's business when a well-dressed man asked to be shown some collar buttons. Wagner turned to reach the tray when he was ordered to hold his "hands up" and was confronted with a revolver.

At the same time a second man entered the store latching the door.

Wagner was slow obeying and a shot was fired shattering the show case. The proprietor then was led to the rear of the store and hit over the head with a file until he became unconscious. He recovered ten minutes later and attracted attention of passersby by beating on the door. He was removed to the hospital. There is no clue.

BADLY HURT AT ROYAL THEATER

Mrs. Francis Hatton Struck By Swinging Curtain Weight Last Night.

Mrs. Francis Hatton, one of the members of the Hollingsworth show troupe, last night sustained very serious injuries by being struck by a curtain weight during a performance at the Royal theatre. It is impossible yet to tell how serious her injuries may prove, Dr. Horsfall saying it will probably be a few days before they will be fully known. Three of her teeth were broken, her skull fractured, her head and face badly lacerated and her hand severely cut. She has been unconscious a good share of the time since the accident.

Mrs. Hatton is being tenderly cared for by Mrs. Sullivan of the Lloyd hotel where she has been making her home. It seems that there are no guides on the weight rope of one of the inner curtains allowing the heavy weights to swing. Mrs. Hatton was just getting ready to appear when the curtain went up and the weight swinging as it lowered struck her with much force.

"This is the third or fourth accident that has resulted from the carelessness of the managers in not fixing the weight," said Mrs. Sullivan who was nearly tired out today as a result of the strain of caring for Mrs. Hatton last night and today. "Last summer, Mr. Dodge narrowly escaped serious injuries from it during a home talent performance and recently Dixie Loftin had a narrow escape."

Harry Hollingsworth and other members of the troupe are doing everything possible for their injured associate.

It is feared that brain fever is liable to develop from the injuries. A sister of the injured woman has been employed at Stafford's for some time.

BUCKET SHOPS WIN ONE SUIT

Measure Governing Them Held Unconstitutional In Washington.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 30. — The amendment to the so-called "bucketshop law" which defines "bucketting," was declared unconstitutional by Justice Wright in the district of Columbia supreme court today in that it deprived citizens of the liberty to contract. The demurrer of Edward Altemus, Angelo Cella and Louis A. Cella was sustained. They were indicted last April. The government will appeal.

"Bucket shopping" in the District of Columbia will be a lawful occupation according to the decision of Justice Wright and as a result the widespread crusade wanted by the department of Justice to end the practice in a half score of cities threatens come naught.

HOT TIME IN STATE SENATE

Colorado Legislators Pass Ugly Words and Threaten to Fight.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

DENVER, Colo., Mar. 30. — Short ugly words were passed and coats jerked off during a debate in the State senate today over the resolution to adjourn sine die, April 22. Senator Blakey applied the word to Senator Hecker, who forthwith told his colleague he "could lick him either here or outside of chamber doors." Hecker did not follow. Friends succeeded in bringing their respective members back to the chamber. Hecker stated he would apologize for his language but Blakey refused to retract.

HANGING IS RELIEF TO HIM

Pennsylvanian Gives Remarkable Exhibition of Nerve On Gallows.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Mar. 30. — Joseph Christrock, who was hanged here today, gave a remarkable exhibition of nerve. When summoned to go to the gallows he walked smiling from his cell, ran lightly up the steps, put the noose over his own head, bade a happy farewell to 150 people and dropped to death. He confessed to the murder of Mrs. Ana Richards, whom he shot when she detected him attempting to mistreat her daughter. He confessed to a number of other less serious crimes.

INSANE RANCHER SLAYS THREE INNOCENT PASSERSBY TODAY

FUNERAL TO BE HELD FRIDAY

Last Services for Mrs. J. Richard Olson Here Tomorrow Afternoon.

The funeral of Mrs. J. Richard Olson, wife of the pastor of the Marshfield Swedish Lutheran church who died last Friday of typhoid fever, will be held tomorrow (Friday) afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Swedish Lutheran church on Commercial avenue west. Rev. B. F. Bengtson will conduct funeral services in Swedish and Rev. Rasmussen in English while special music will be rendered by the choir. The funeral will be largely attended, owing to the high regard in which the deceased and her family is held.

Few women have encircled themselves with more close friends than had Mrs. Olson. Her thoughtfulness of her friends was shown by the fact that one of her last acts was to indite a letter accompanying a birthday present to one of them.

Lydia Elvira Anderson was born at Red Wing, Minn., July 25, 1883, and was the only child of Judge and Mrs. O. D. Anderson who were with her at her death. Her girlhood days were spent in Red Wing and she completed the public school course there, graduating from the Red Wing High school in 1902. Then she took a year's course in art, domestic science and music at the Lutheran Ladies Seminary in Red Wing. She continued her art and vocal and instrumental music course at the Augustana College Conservatory at Rock Island, Ill., where she was prominent in the Seminary art and music clubs.

June 16, 1909, she was united in marriage to the Rev. J. Richard Olson, who survives her. Soon after their marriage they came to Coos Bay to begin pastoral duties here. She was very active in assisting her husband in the church work, being a teacher in the Marshfield and North Bend Sunday schools, secretary of the Ladies' Aid Society, organist in the church, member of the choir, and leader of the "Busy Bees," an organization of the younger girls of the church.

Mrs. Olson was baptized and confirmed in the Swedish Lutheran church at Red Wing in 1898.

Despite the vast amount of time these duties took up, she kept up her art work and reached a high standard in it. She had quite a large collection of her own works, her best probably being a large painting of Christ. She was very versatile in art, doing pen and ink sketches, crayon work, water colors and oil paintings. Character sketches and pastoral scenery were her delight and forte.

Every sympathy and mark of sorrow that hosts of friends could show have been shown the bereaved family. The body will be taken to Portland on the Breakwater Saturday for burial, the members of the family accompanying it.

POSSE IN PURSUIT OF MURDERER NOW

Made Getaway On Horseback and Is Armed and Further Violence Feared.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

BURLINGTON, Wash., Mar. 30. — William Weagin, a rancher of South Prairie became violently insane today and taking a large caliber rifle went out into the county road and shot and killed the first three passersby who were John Ranke, William Ranke and John Ware. All were of Burlington.

After the shooting, Weagin mounted a horse and rode away with a rifle. It is feared he will do further killing and a posse has gone in pursuit. Burlington is in Skagit county, twenty miles south of Bellingham.

A Bellingham report says the dead men are residents of Darrington, Suhomish county, and adds that the killing occurred in the eastern part of Skagit county, in the foothills of the Cascade mountains midway between Darrington and Sauk. The scene is remote from telegraph or telephone communication. Sauk and Darrington are the nearest points.

SPOKANE HAS STUDENT STRIKE

Pupils of Washington State College Resent Raid on Girls' Dormitory.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

SPOKANE, Wash., Mar. 30. — A student's strike is on at Washington State College. The students are indignant over a raid alleged to have been made on the girls' dormitory Tuesday morning by boys of the college. Pickets at the entrance of all buildings notified pupils of a decision of 1,200 students of the college, including every girl at the institution, to remain away from classes till the perpetrators are apprehended by the faculty and expelled from the college. A meeting of the students last night decided on this action. The students are gathered on the campus denouncing the affair.

Hardly a class-room was occupied today. The students today removed the big bell from the auditorium of the building used to call the classes. More than sixty students were called before the faculty for investigations. Evidence is said to be strong against half a dozen prominent students. Several girls suffered physical injuries.
