"THE VOLUNTEER"

(By C. P. McDonald.)

The Bugville team was surely up against a rocky game: The chances were they'd win defeat and not undying fame: Three men were hurt and two were benched, the score stood 6 to 4. They had to make three hard earned runs in just two innings more.

"It can't be done," the captain said, a pallor on his face: "I've got two pitchers in the field, a mutt on second base; And should another man get spiked or crippled in some way The team would sure be down and out with eight men left to play.

"We're up against it anyhow, as far as I can see; My boys ain't hitting as they should, and that's what worries me. The luck is with the other side, no pennant will we win; It's mighty tough, but we must take our medicine and grin!"

The eighth round opened; one, two, three, the enemy went down: The Bugville boys went out the same—the captain wore a frown The first half of the ninth came round, two men had been put out.

A deathly silence settled o'er the crowd assembled there. Defeat would be allotted them, they felt it in the air; With only eight men in the field, 'twould be a gruesome fray, Small wonder that the captain cursed the day he learned to play.

"Lend me a man to finish with!" he begged the other team. "Lend you a man?" the foe replied: "my boy, you're in a dream; We want to win the pennant, too, that's what we're doing here; There's only one thing you can do: Call for a volunteer!"

The captain stood and pondered in listless sort of way. He never was a quitter, and he would not be today. "I there within the grand stand here," his voice rang loud and clear,

"A man who has the sporting blood to be a volunteer?"

the multitude; Was there a man among them with such recklessness imbued? The captain stood with cap in hand, while hopeless was his glance; And then a short and stocky man cried out: "I'll take a chance!"

Into the field he bounded with a step both firm and light. "Give me the mask and mitt," he said, "let's finish up the fight! The game is now beyond recall, I'm last at least a round; Although I'm ancient, you will find me muscular and sound!"

His hair was sprinkled here and there with little streaks of gray; Around his eyes and on his brow a bunch of wrinkles lay. The captain smiled despairingly and slowly turned away. When "He's all right!" one rooster yelled; another, "Let him play!"

"All right, go on!" the captain sighed. The stranger turned around, took off his coat and collar, too, and threw them on the ground. The humor of the situation seemed to hit them all. And as he donned the mask and mitt the umpire called, "Play ball!"

Three balls the pitcher at him heaved, three balls of lightning speed. The stranger caught them all with ease, and did not seem to heed; Each ball had been pronounced a strike, the side had been put out.

And as he ambled toward the bench he heard the rooters shout. One Bugville boy went out on strikes and one was killed at first; The captain saw them fall to hit and gnashed his teeth and cursed. The third man smashed a double and the fourth man swatted clear. Then, in a thunder of applause, up came the volunteer.

His feet were planted in the earth, he swung a warlike club; The captain saw his awkward pose and softly whispered "Dub!" The pitcher looked at him and grinned, then heaved a mighty ball— The echo of that fearful swat still lingers with us all!

High, fast, and far the spheroid flew, it sailed and sailed away; It ne'er was found, so it's supposed it still floats on today. Three runs came in, the pennant would be Bugville's for a year; The fans and players gathered round to cheer the volunteer.

"What is your name?" the captain asked. "Tell us your name!" cried all. As down his cheeks great tears of joy were seen to run and fall. For one brief moment he was still, then murmured soft and low: "I'm Mighty Casey who struck out just twenty years ago!"

COOS WILL GET GOOD PUBLICITY

Field Museum Representative Gathers Specimens In This Section.

Huron H. Smith of the department of Dendrology, of the Field Museum, Chicago, has about concluded some important work for that institution in Coos and Curry counties. Mr. Smith has been making a collection of specimens of trees that are indigenous to this section for exhibition purposes in the museum. These specimens include a section of the trunk of the tree, a cross section and two slabs, together with a complete description. The whole is mounted in a frame and labelled as a product of Coos Bay. It is accompanied with photographs of the tree and landscape scenes in the section where it is secured. In this instance it includes some fine interior and exterior views of the C. A. Smith mill and all its labor saving devices and new economic departures in handling lumber on the coast including views of the big lumber carriers, the Nann Smith and the Hazel Dollar. He has secured also some fine views of the Coquille Valley section and around Bandon. Mr. Smith's work is entirely educational but will be of much value in the matter of publicity as it will place views, and news and information of this section in one of the leading institutions of its kind in the world. He has been engaged in his work in this section for nearly three months and expects to have it completed within the next couple of weeks when he will leave for California. Mr. Smith discovered sixteen varieties indigenous to this locality that are found no where else in the country and specimens of which he will forward to the museum together with his photographic views, many of which are very fine.

HOW TO TELL WOMAN'S AGE.

This Plan Will Trap Her Unless She is Suspicious.
Every man seems to be born with a desire to know the age of ladies with whom he comes in contact. Women also appear to have an innate curiosity concerning the number of "summers" which have passed over the heads of their female friends. But there is nothing more difficult to discover than the exact age of a woman who wishes to keep the fact a secret.

Now, here is a little scheme which a mathematician has just discovered to find out the age of any person. Having engaged that person in pleasant conversation, you proceed something after the following manner, speaking very innocently, of course: "There is a very simple problem in arithmetic which very few people are able to see through, yet it is as easy as possible. I wonder if you can do it."

"This sets the woman on her dignity, and she wants to do it at once. "Think of a number corresponding to the numerical order of the month in which you were born. Oh, no, you needn't tell me."

"To make the explanation clear we will assume that the figure is 2, standing for February, and that the age is thirty.

"Now, multiply that figure by 2," you continue, "and add 5. Done that? Well, multiply that by 50 and add your own age. From the total subtract 365 and to the result add 115. Now, what figure have you got?"

"Two hundred and thirty," replies the person addressed. "Isn't that correct?"

"Exact!" you exclaim. "You are one of the very few persons who have managed it."

And you turn away to hide your smile of satisfaction at having discovered that your victim was born in February and that she is thirty years of age. You have arrived at this result by separating the figures 230 in 2 (February) and 30. And you can do this with everybody's age. Try it on your sweetheart.

A Real Surprise.
Mamma—And you say your Uncle Titowad gave you a penny, Tommie? Tommie—Yes, ma'am. Mamma—And what did you say? Tommie—I was so surprised I couldn't say anything. mamma.—Yonkers Statesman.
