THE DYNAMITERS.

THE detectives engaged in the solving of the Los Angeles Times outrage of October 1st, last, claim to have captured the leaders and the responsible criminals. This has been accomplished after months of fine and dogged work by the best men in the business in this country, and it is to be hoped they have a case which will stand the test of final and fierce analysis; for it will be attacked by every known expedient of technical subterfuge and legal barrier.

It is unfortunate that the first act of the detectives and representatives of the majesty of the law should be a technical violation of the statutes under which their duties are performed. If the suspected ones are guilty and the proof is forthcoming there was nothing to be lost by a legal and orderly procedure.

Alexander Hamilton truly says: "It is the highest degree of iniquity to try men by ex post facto law, nor indeed in any other manner than by the letter of the law, formally made and sufficiently promulgated."

Detectives have blundered time and again; and justice has faltered and fallen for the want of great and pertinent facts impregnable proven; but the country is justified in the hope that this time no mistake has been made and that the spell of implacable corroboration will not be broken until the sum of proof and the uttermost measure of penalty have been evoked.

The issue is one of tremendous import; and nothing short of conclusive work in and out of court, will satisfy the American people in its final disposition. They are not asking the life or liberty of anybody; they want no mistakes, no faults, no wrongs, in the prosecution of these people; but they do want retributive justice to fall where it belongs and the weight of their rebuke to fall upon the utter egards who resorted to this the most cowardly course ever taken by man in the adjustment of man's issues.

There is something significant in the fact that one of the highest labor officials of the country is bagged with the others under suspicion. We had hoped to see this element cleared of all such reproach, and especially in this case. Labor has enough to bear without the shame and paralyzing effect of such a foul thing as this. But the matter is yet susceptible of proof in open court and we must wait the event at bar. Every man is innocent until he shall have been proven guilty, and it is up to the detectives to make their case and make it stick.

Why do the Mexicans come so close to the American line to fight when they have such a large country of their own. Is it possible both sides would like to have Uncle Sam interfere? They are like two men who are sparring away and both trusting that the police or someone else will soon arrive to stop them.

WITH THE TOAST AND TEA

GOOD EVENING.

"Truth is a thing immoral and perpetual, and it gives to us a beauty that fades not away in time, nor does it take away the freedom of speech which proceeds from justice; but it gives to us the knowledge of what is just and lawful, separating from them the unjust and refuting them."—Epietetus.

WHY?

Just because you're gentle. Just because you're true Just because you're 18 months old Explains why I love you.

Just because you're merry Just because you play I love you little lady More and more each day.

There are many reasons Why I love you so, Just because with sunshine You are all aglow Just because you're tiny Just because you're sweet Just because, dear lady You make my life complete.

What's the use of talking Everything you do Serves to heap the measure Of my love for you Just because you're playful Just because you're fine And I love you baby Just because you're mine.

THE SOUND SLEEP OF GOOD HEALTH.

Can not be over estimated and any ailment that prevents it is a menace to health. J. L. Souther, Eaa Claire, Wis., says: "I have been unable to sleep soundly nights, because of pains across my back and soreness of my kidneys. My appetite was very poor and my general condition was much run down. I have been taking Foley Kidney Pills but a short time and now sleep as sound as a rock, my general condition is greatly improved, and I know that Foley Kidney Pills have cured me." HOBBLE SKIRT IS HIDEOUS

Dressmaker Worth of Paris Denounces the New Fashion. WEAREM'S ADDRESS.

Stand! The pants are yours, my braves; Just as whiskers are, or shaves. Have you heard how fashion raves Of the harem skirt? Mrs. Bloomer aimed at you; Doctor Mary Walker, too— Do ye roar? Or do ye coo? Then your rights assert.

Who now wears your coat and hat? Wears your collar, your cravat? Wears your cuffs, and all of that? Need I ask again? Shoes and socks and cigars— Highballs, too—and making bets! Will ye lose the garb which lets Folk know ye are men?

Weaklings, put on petticoats And cast suffragettish votes, But, O, but, retain your goats Let in woe ye weep! Flee your sisters and your aunts, Fend them off with warlike chants— Brothers, hang on to your pants! Wear them while you sleep!

In the strength of trousers trust; Die ye may—and lie ye must. But die shouting: "Pants or bust!" And this shame avert. Arouse ye, men of every left! Still we have our trousers left; Shall we of them be bereft By the harem skirt?

PARIS, France April 26.—Jean Worth, the fashionable dressmaker of Paris, thinks the new fashion of women's dress are hideous. "But had as they are," she said, "I prefer the harem gown to the hobble skirt. In both instances the good name of French taste is at stake."

He thinks the change is greatly due to the taste of the dressmakers and that they should direct the flow of public opinion to the style of the day. To satisfy the feminine craving for change, he says, if not for originality, some dressmakers make blind innovations. Without reasoning they step in where an angel fears to tread. Elegant fashions are dead. A dressmaker should dress his fair customer as an artist paints a picture.

"My American customers frequently delight me because they say, 'make a dress to suit me.'" Mr. Worth contends that the color of the cloth should suit the complexion of the wearer and the make should correspond to the build of the wearer.

WHOLE DAM FAMILY ARRIVES.

Thirteen Members Come from Albasserdam in Steamer Ryndam on Their Way to Iowa Farms. NEW YORK, N. Y., April 26.—More than 200 Dutch agriculturists arrived by the steamship Ryndam from Rotterdam. They included the Dam family from Albasserdam, made up of thirteen persons. The Dams are bound for Pella, Ia.

To quote the words of Fritz Dam, the oldest of half a dozen boys, as explained by an interpreter, "We had a damfine trip over."

This family of Dams is not fiction, like the popular creation of the well known artist, but is a real, living ambitious bunch of sturdy emigrants, going to till a fortune out of the Dam quarter section, which lies a few miles out of Pella, Iowa.

There is no U. B. Dam nor I. B. Dam in the family. They have plain Dutch stock handles. There is Katrine and Willemijn and Gretchen and Eleschen, and Willem and Klaus and Fritz, and some smaller ones, all jolly Germans, and happy to land, but not a one could see a chance for a laugh in their name.

The Dams created more excitement among the seaboard reporters of the New York newspapers than any arrivals that have made quarantine in months. Pictures of the whole Dam family appeared in half a dozen newspapers.

The youngsters were made much of and Father Dam was approached often by reporters trying to get a front name hooked up so it would fit nicely with the hind name, but he wouldn't stand for it.

According to the Dams, Pella is a Mecca for emigrants from Holland and Germany. It is reported a factory there makes nothing but wooden shoes.

Needless to say, the population of Iowa has been increased by thirteen Dams.
