MASSACHUSETTS OFFICIAL SAYS WORKMEN SHOULD LEARN TO SPEND WISELY.

BOSTON, Mass., May 1.—Magnus Alexander, Massachusetts' commissioner on workmen's compensation, said recently the average man can decently support a family of five on $600 yearly, and that if he cannot he is either ignorant or wasteful.

Mr. Alexander further said that to increase the wages of workmen by one or two dollars a week would only increase their economic wastefulness. "From my own investigation I venture to state that the greatest cause of poverty and suffering that may exist among working people is their absolute ignorance of how to live and spend wisely.

Should Learn to Spend Wisely. "If we could teach them how to spend wisely and make their present dollar go farther we should build up certain characteristics of thrift.

"Ten thousand persons employed at the General Electric works at Lynn I found living comfortably and decently on from $10.00 to $12.15 a week as an average wage. Of this, $3 and $5 a week went for rent, 65 cents for heat and light and from $4.25 to $5 for food. It seems hard to understand how it is done, but the facts remain: those folks live decently and bring up their children decently.

Some Don't Pay Enough. "We can coincide, then, with John Mitchell, that $600 is an average living wage. From a study of 102 manufacturing industries in Massachusetts, made by myself personally, I have found that the head of the family is receiving in many cases more than $600.
