

SUNLIGHT BAD FOR TIRES.

Auto Drivers Warned Not to Stand Cars in Direct Rays of Sun. Sunlight has a deteriorating effect upon tires. Obviously it is impossible to avoid exposing them to the light when running the machine, but when standing it is the part of wisdom to favor them in any possible manner. To this end don't leave a car standing for hours where the hot sun will strike it—if you do you may find a flabby tire on your return, as an immediate result, with the ultimate ill effect not so easily overcome. It is far better to stop in the shade and walk a hundred feet to your destination.

And in the case of the car that is run mostly at night, it should be covered through the bright hours of the day when in the garage. The man with his private garage can obtain this protection by providing heavy shades for the windows. Sections of old carpet or rugs are excellent for this purpose.

GOOD EVENING

Justice is immortal, eternal and immutable, like God himself; and the development of law is only then a progress when it is directed towards those principles which, like him, are eternal.—Kossuth.

With sudden tears and winsome smile,
Witching May doth now beguile.
Lilac blossoms scent the air;
Vernal winds blow soft and fair;
Seed-time waits without the door,
Golden harvest lies before.
When in doubt keep pegging away.

MAY.

May speaks in the voices of busy brooks,
In the singing of wind in the grasses,
From her smiling skies, ever downward looks
On all her dainty bowered nooks
That the lazy bumble-bee passes.

May loves the little and helpless things—
She shelters each frail tiny fellow,
And hovers protecting mother wings
O'er every struggling life that sings
In her breezes gentle and mellow.

We welcome you blithely with loving arms,
And the earth her joy confesses;
You creep up daintily with your charms,
With lavish giving and upturned palms,
And healing in your caresses.
—Ethel Hallett.

April came in like a fool and only began to get wise the last two days.
If men run their business the way cities do there would be bankruptcy galore.

We are not disposed to criticize the New York woman who offered $10,000 for a husband, but it isn't enough.

THE HONEST GROCER.

I visited the grocer's store and met the owner at the door, and said: "Say Mr. Wheeze, I wish you'd tell me, straight and true, without evasion, whether you have got some first class cheese?" With great distress the grocer shrunk, and cried: "The cheese we have is punk, it fairly makes me cry; it's bilious in its tint, and coarse; I wouldn't feed it to a horse; go somewhere else and buy. Of course," the grocer said, "I must confess I'd like to get your dust, and hold your trade, forsooth; but when you ask me if my cheese is first rate goods and bound to please, I have to tell the truth." I clasped that grocer to my breast, and nearly squashed him on my vest, and wiped away his tears. "You'll have my trade," I gaily cried, "and that of all my friends besides, for forty thousand years." And then I went into his store, and bought a ton of flour or more, and mackerel in kegs, and canned tobacco, beans and peas, and axle grease and whiffletoes, and codfish, prunes and eggs. It took the largest village dray to haul my purchases away, and every time I pass I drop into that grocer's store and clasp him to my breast some more, and buy some garden sass.

WALT MASON.

One He looks a good deal like another.

The attention of Marshfield people is called to the commission form of government, a business proposition, which all cities need.

Owing to adverse weather conditions, only one branch of the corner loafers' union has been able to gather a quorum so far this month.

William Francis Barnard says "we are all mad." But since variety is the spice of life, let us be thankful that we are not all bughouse on the same subject.

Frank A. Venderlip, the Eastern financier who visited Portland a short time ago, in a recent preaching says we should be kind to our bankers and cultivate them. Yes, that's all right to talk about, but doing it is another matter. We've always been as nice as we could be ours, and cultivated him all we could, but he seems to be the only one who gets any profits out of the transaction.

THE FARMING FEVER.

Wearied and vexed at times with business cares J. Albert Matson sits in his office overlooking the bay and seeing the Coos River ranchers bringing their boats of produce across the sunlit waters he became possessed of a vague yearning to get out close to nature. As a preliminary preparation he first secured a copy of a book with the alluring title "A Little Land and a Living." And the other day he purchased Ivy Condron's launch the Shamrock. His farming is likely to continue in the land o' dreams and now and then takes on the poets yearning:

I wish I had a little farm, some acres by the shore;
The country has a deal of charm when spring returns once more.
I do not ask for high-priced land, such is beyond my reach;
And I'd be satisfied with sand, a strip along the beach.

I do not care for too much toil; I wouldn't farm for dough,
I think I'd like a sandy soil; it is n't hard to hoe,
I'd gaily harrow up the dunes and clear away the trash,
And sow some pieplant or some prunes or else some succotash.

HOW IT HAPPENS ACCORDING TO HOWE

Ever notice, when a dog follows a woman, how she stamps, her foot angrily and says "Go home, sir!" And the dog pays no more attention than do her husband and boys.

In looking back over his past, everyman must admit that the sun was often bright when he made no hay.

Do you remember any particular saying of your father's? My father was always saying "That abominable boy," meaning me.

Ever notice, when a man is hurt who carries an accident policy, how long he is hurt?

The world is full of men who want better jobs, who are not willing to do better work.

To Open Trail.—Petitions to raise $75 or $100 to open up the old trail from Marshfield to Empire, almost straight across the peninsula, are being circulated. Major Tower of Empire is one of the promoters of the plan. While the trail cannot be made suitable for wagon or auto road without the expenditure of considerably more money it is thought it would be well worth the cost. The trail passes near the old Indian mounds and through a natural park.

Scares Dix.—R. M. Jennings got a good one on Dr. Dix the other night, evidently getting even for a fright that Dix had sometime caused him with an auto. Mr. Jennings was driving a team down the street at a good clip. Dr. Dix was crossing just ahead of him but sufficiently to be in the clear. Jennings saw it and swerved his team in close behind Dix and gave an awful yell for him to get out of the way. Parties who saw it declare that Dr. Dix jumped higher than anyone who has been scared by an auto.

Sails South.—The Nann Smith sailed late Saturday for Bay Point with a big cargo of lumber from the Smith mill. Capt. Olson having resumed command after his short vacation. Capt. Olson reports that as soon as the dredge Oregon completes its work on the Lone Tree shoal, making an eighteen-foot channel from the mill to the sea that he will be able to take out considerably larger cargoes and says that then he can take out vessels like the Hazel Dollar with a cargo of over 3,000,000 feet of lumber.
