JUAREZ FALLS BEFORE HEAVY ONSLAUGHTS OF REBELS TODAY

Mexican City Across From El Paso Captured After Heavy Loss of Life.

DYNAMITE, FIRE AND SHOT RUIN BUILDINGS

General Madero's Force Struggles Fiercely Against Barricades.

HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE.

(By Associated Press.)

EL PASO, Tex., May 10.—The Rebel victory at Juarez was secured at the cost of a terrible loss of life on the American side of the line as well as on the battlefield. The death list may reach eighty while nearly 150 were wounded. Many fatally. Four Americans were killed and sixteen were wounded. Scores of physicians are treating both the Federals and Insurrectos wounded.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

EL PASO, Tex., May 10. — The white flag was hoisted over the barracks at 12:35 o'clock and the capture of Juarez by the Rebel force is practically complete. There was still some firing in the outskirts of the town but great clouds of dust and smoke made it difficult to ascertain the situation of the Federal force.

At noon the Insurrectos placed a cannon in position to bombard the barracks. The first shot from the Insurrectos' cannon was a telling one and three or four more shots tore great holes in the barracks and finally when resistance no longer counted, the token of surrender was run up.

The main street of Juarez is in ruins. Some of the houses are riddled with bullets while others were demolished by dynamite bombs and shells. Store windows are broken and while some of the stores are guarded by the Rebels, there has been considerable looting. American members of the Insurrecto force are reported to have been the chief offenders in this work.

General Madero has started for the town to establish his headquarters there. The Rebels are swarming into the streets and the residents of the town, apparently satisfied that the fighting is over, are coming out from their shelter and shouts of victory can be heard on the American side. The sun is burning fiercely and the revolutionists who have been fighting for hours without food or water are being given refreshments by the residents of the town among whom there are many Insurrecto sympathizers.

Dr. Wilson, the Insurrecto field surgeon, declared the total wounded on both sides numbered over one hundred. He added that he knew positively that three Americans of the Insurrecto army had been killed. Dr. Kuniga, in charge of the Federal hospital for the last three days, said he had treated over one hundred Federal wounded and around the Customs House, church and jail between 35 and 40 Federal dead are lying in the streets, he said.

Colonel Talmar, commander of a part of the Juarez garrison, whose taunts to the Insurrectos were largely responsible for the attack, is reported killed.

EARLY STORY OF THE BATTLE

Juarez Presents Pitiful Evidence of Struggle Between Armies.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

EL PASO, Tex., May 10.—Juarez, the objective point of the Mexican revolutionists for many months, because it is the port of entry to the United States, fell into the hands of General Francisco I. Madero, Jr., early today.

Though General Navarro, with a small command long held out in the barracks near the center of town, the rebels had taken most of his cannons and since noon directed their fire at the last Federal stronghold.

Just before noon, Raout Madero, one of the youngest Insurrecto leaders, who galloped past the Santa Fe bridge on his way to General Madero, reported that General Navarro had been located within the barracks and was surrounded by Rebel forces.

General Navarro, the Federal commander at Juarez, continued his desperate resistance to the onslaughts of the Rebels under Francisco I. Madero, Jr., early today. The engagement was resumed in earnest at 8:25 o'clock this morning.

Throughout the smoking town which was swept by flames last night, the Federals made desperate stands behind their barricades. The Rebels pushed the fighting.

The Federals, who had found refuge in the church and at the Customs House were driven from both these buildings after terrific fighting. The Rebels used dynamite bombs and both sides used machine guns.

It was largely street fighting, each side taking advantage of the protection of the buildings.

General Navarro said last night he would fight to death. He then expected reinforcements but later reports showed his succor to be more distant than a week's march.

The Rebels expected reinforcements of 300 men this afternoon.

was standing on the American side, was wounded in the shoulder.

The dynamite bombs, shells, bullets and fire that raged for hours last night and early today transformed Juarez from its usual tranquil, peaceful state into a mass of ruins. Numerous abode houses have been razed and other buildings practically ruined. As soon as the white flag was hoisted over the barracks and the surrender of the Federals complete, Mexican flags were unfurled on house tops and church bells were rung in celebration.

It seems that a man, alleged to be Whitney went to the Pointer Livery in Coquille about a week ago and hired a horse for two days. Neither he or the horse returned.

Now it is claimed that he took the horse to some place in Curry county and sold it.

Whitney when arrested had a new suit of clothes and other new wearing apparel, and a new revolver. He denied his guilt.

BANDON HOPES TO WIN AGAIN

Has Strong Team for County High School Field Meet Here Friday.

According to advices from the Coquille valley, the Bandon, Coquille and Myrtle Point High school track teams will be accompanied here next Friday by large contingents of "rooters" for the Coos County Field meet which will be pulled off at the Marshfield Fair Grounds Friday afternoon. North Bend will also send a big delegation. All of the teams are pretty well matched but Bandon, according to local "dopesters" has the best prospects of winning the meet. Concerning its prospects, the following statement was made today: "In Bandon hope is running high, and the indications are that the other teams in the county will have to go some to prevent them from repeating last year's victory. "The team, with a few exceptions, will be the same as last year and every one is showing better form. The sprinters and distance men have been clawing the cinders for wheels. The jumpers and the weight men are fully as good if not better than last year's and the relay team will hold its own."

Was National Figure In Memorable Struggle Between Hayes and Tilden.

HE TRIED TO AID TILDEN WIN CONTEST

Electoral Votes From This State Decided Presidency of United States.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

PORTLAND, Ore., May 10.—Lafayette Grover, the fourth governor of Oregon, died suddenly at his home in this city today. He was born in Maine in 1823, and was governor of Oregon from 1870 to 1877. He was a democrat. He became a national figure in the Hayes-Tilden presidential contest. It was when the republican party was confronted with defeat in the effort to elect Hayes that the national issue was placed in the hands of the governor of Oregon. The votes of the electors of this state decided to contest. Three electors were chosen. It was found that one of their number was Joseph Watts, postmaster at Lafayette, and the democrats produced a constitutional provision that forbade any man holding a lucrative office being chosen as elector. They maintained that Watts was ineligible because of this fact. Grover issued a certificate of election to a man named Cronin, a Portland democrat who had received the highest democratic vote, in the stead of Watts. Whether Cronin or Watts should be recognized hung the fate of issue. The two republicans refused to recognize Cronin and Watts resigned his office and these three republicans cast the vote which put Hayes in office. And then after that Watts was again given his postoffice.
