INDICT MANY AT ROSEBURG

Former Saloon Man Heads Grand Jury That Holds Booze Dispensers.

ROSEBURG, Ore., May 16. — Not a near-beer dealer in the city of Roseburg escaped indictment by the grand jury. There are nine of them in all. Everyone was arraigned and took time to enter plea. The defendants are J. F. Graham, Ed. Irwin, L. Lewis, Al and Ben North jointly, Ben North individually, Joe Bartholomay, R. B. Mathews, Max Weiss and G. W. Sparks (as an employe), Frank G. Micelli and R. W. Marsters are attorneys for Graham and Irwin, Attorney Elbert B. Hermann representing all of the others.

Five of the defendants are charged with selling real beer, one is accused of selling whisky and the three others are charged with selling both. Each indictment names Deputy Sheriff Sam W. Starmer as the prosecuting witness. Starmer has been conducting a quiet investigation of all of the local near-beer establishments for a month past, and from each of them he secured liquor that will appear as evidence for the state in case of trials. Such real beer as he has in his possession, in bottled form, bears the mutilated labels of the Mt. Hood Brewing Company and the North Pacific Brewing Company, both of Portland.

Prominent among the accused men is Max Weiss, one of the operators of the Roseburg Cold Storage Company's plant. He was convicted of selling intoxicating liquor at the January term of court and was heavily fined and sentenced to jail for four months. His case is now pending on appeal to the Supreme Court. Two other indictments from the January term still hang over his head, both relating to the alleged presence of minors in his place of business. The charge filed against Weiss Friday evening was that he sold a dozen bottles of real beer to H. P. Cochran, a reputed "spotter," who has been employed as a cook in local restaurants. J. R. Gilham, the foreman of the indicting grand jury, kept a saloon in Roseburg twenty years ago. He is now a prosperous farmer of Galesville. "Mr. Gilham is an honest anti-prohibitionist," said District Attorney Brown. "He believes, as he, himself has done, in selling whisky, but he is opposed just as emphatically to selling it in violation of law."

GROOM SKIPS; WEDS BROTHER

Iowa Girl Wooded and Won While Waiting at the Altar.

HAMBURG, Iowa, May 16.—A little thing like the failure of a bridegroom to be on hand at the appointed time did not prevent the marriage of Miss Hilda Baldwin, though it delayed the ceremony for two hours, while the wedding dinner grew cold.

Simeon Sloan had long been the acknowledged suitor for the hand of Miss Baldwin. The wedding day had been fixed, the guests had been invited, the wedding feast had been prepared and everything was in readiness. Miss Baldwin was in her room on the second floor of the family farm house, awaiting the arrival of Sloan. The clergyman who was to perform the ceremony had arrived, but Sloan failed to put in an appearance, though his brother and parents were among the guests. An hour passed, and as the bridegroom did not come Harry Sloan, the brother, announced:

"I'll jump into my automobile and drive back home to see what has become of Simeon. He was dressed before I started and ought to have been here some time ago."

Bridegroom Changes Mind.
Away Harry Sloan went, and when he arrived at his home, two miles away, on the table, written and signed by his brother Simeon, he found a note, saying:

"I have changed my mind and don't think I will get married just yet. I have gone away and will not be back. Don't look for me. It is Hilda can find some other person for a husband I hope she will. I release her from the contract."

Sloan read and reread the note, and to himself said:

I like Hilda and I believe she will take me. I'll try it at any rate."
He drove back to the office of the clerk and obtained a license authorizing him to wed Miss Hilda Baldwin. Then hurrying back to the Baldwin residence he told the young woman of the disappearance of his brother and asked her to marry him, remarking that the company "is all here and it would be a shame to disappoint the guests."

Always Liked Him Best.
Miss Baldwin studied a moment, and as the smiles chased away the tears she said:

"Harry, I always did like you, and if you had been the one to ask me first I would have chosen you instead of your brother. Now he has gone and the way is perfectly clear, and if you want me you can take me."

An embrace and kisses sealed the bargain, after which Sloan called Mr. and Mrs. John Baldwin, father and mother of the young woman. They went upstairs, where Harry told them of the departure of Simeon, and that after a 15-minute courtship he and their daughter had become engaged and that "now, after an engagement of five minutes we are ready to be married, provided you give your consent."

The consent was given, and, going back downstairs, John Baldwin announced that the bridegroom had arrived and that the wedding party would immediately make its appearance. To strains of the wedding march Harry Sloan and Miss Baldwin marched downstairs and took their positions in the parlor, where the Rev. James Howe read the lines, while the guests looked on in astonishment.

PLEA IS MADE FOR OLD SOUTH

St. Louis Confederate Veteran Says Civil War Was Due to Lincoln.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 16. — Before thousands of confederate veterans of the war between the states and a great throng of their sons, R. C. Cave of St. Louis declared in the course of his address, "I hold that the responsibility for the civil war with all the blood and treasure it cost, all the desolation ruin it wrought, justly rests on Abraham Lincoln and his advisers." Cave asserted he spoke not in bitterness, that he simply was discussing the facts of history and that he accepted the changed conditions brought about by the war.

"Nevertheless," exclaimed the St. Louis veteran, "when the confederacy fell, the republic as it was formed by our fathers perished. The states were robbed of their independence and became subject provinces of a centralized national authority. They tell us this is best. It may be so."

Speaking of the accord that has developed between the north and the south, Cave said, "I want the people of both sections ruled by the spirit of fraternity and harmoniously working together for the welfare of our common country, but I do not think the men of the south should be asked or expected to sacrifice the truth of history and go down to posterity as rebels and traitors to secure that end."

When Your Children ROMP and PLAY

HEALTHY children are hard on shoes. But shoes are cheaper than doctors' bills. But we started to tell you about these new "Tess and Ted" School Shoes. These shoes for boys and girls are something new in the history of shoemaking. Heretofore children's shoes have been mostly heavy, clumsy affairs. They were made that way to resist wear. The lighter weight "dress" shoes wore out in a hurry—couldn't stand the wear to which they would be subjected by a good healthy young American.

Folks never thought of the ill-comfort—sometimes suffering—they caused the young folks by cramping their feet in ill-fitting, clumsy shoes. And few of us knew until lately that nearly all the foot troubles in later life were due to just such shoes worn in youth.

Put Their Feet in Comfortable "TESS and TED" Shoes

These new school shoes are the result of years of experiments. They are not clumsy—they are light, pretty, even dainty, yet they wear longer than the out-of-date clumsy things. That's first of all because they are made of honest materials, and because the men who make them know how to so equally divide the strain that each pair will give the greatest possible amount of service.

We tell you they are up-to-date, scientific school shoes. There are cheaper shoes, we know, but if you'll buy "Tess and Ted" School Shoes for all your children for a whole year we know you'll decrease your shoe bill. Let us prove it to you. Prices range according to size from
