A SOBER PROGRESSIVE.

LAST week the people of Oregon had the good fortune of hearing at first hand from one of the truly big men of the day and a man who is regarded by many as being directly in line for the presidency. He is now touring the country—not especially to advance his candidacy—but in a dignified way to show the people what he is and what he stands for so they may judge intelligently of his fitness for the high office to which he aspires.

Woodrow Wilson is a most admirable type. He is a scholar but one who combines the ideal with the actual. He is a master of political science and of logic. But he knows that government in a republic such as ours is not an exact science and that sometimes good sense and logic may be at variance.

Governor Wilson is a democrat in the big sense of the word. He believes in the people and in the rule of the people. He has faith in the public and opposes the rule of the patricians. The anarchy which he fears is the anarchy of the rich and not of the poor.

Naturally the people of this state wished to know what Wilson thinks of the Oregon system. He told them. He upholds the Oregon system for he knows that it looks to restoring the sovereignty of the people and that some agency is needed to revive popular government in this republic.

But while endorsing our reformative methods he also sees the faults of the system and he pointed them out. But he did so with a friendliness and sincerity that took the sting of criticism away.

It is his sober judgment coupled with his progressive tendencies that makes Governor Wilson such a formidable candidate for president. He is the sort of man who should fill the presidency. He is no standpatter, but he is glad there are standpatters. He knows that a ship with sails but lacking ballast is unsafe.

Notice to Farmers!

A meeting of the Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union of America, Marshfield Local, will be held at the Chamber of Commerce, Marshfield, Saturday, May 27th, 1911, at 10:30 A. M., for the purpose of electing officers, and arranging to establish a farmers' market at Marshfield.

WITH THE TOAST AND TEA

GOOD EVENING.

Let your writings inspire hope instead of fear; faith instead of doubt; smiles instead of tears; songs instead of sighs; love instead of hate; charity instead of selfishness.—New Era.

OLD AND YOUNG.

They soon grow old who grope for gold In marts where all is bought and sold; Who live for self, and on some shelf In darkened vaults hoard up their pelf.

They ne'er grow old who gather gold

Where spring awakes and flowers unfold; Where suns arise in joyous skies, And fill the soul within their eyes.

Every woman exaggerates compliments about herself.

Love is a gilded cage into which any woman can entice the bird; but matrimony is the door which only the cleverest among us succeed in shutting behind him.

If you have a good friend you can prove anything by him.

You may exaggerate occasionally, but you won't be accused of it as often as the gas meter is.

There may be grouches who get a good deal of fun out of the sour way, but they don't amuse other people.

The man who never hesitates to say what he thinks, is not as a rule, a member in good standing of the Sunshine club.

There are a number of excuses for the booze habit, but none are warranted to hold a job for the man who has it.

SEASONABLE ANTICIPATIONS

The maidens now Have much distress Deciding how They ought to dress.

I rather think They'll soon be due To trip about In peek-a-boo.

Unless the weather moderates No peek-a-boo for hers. The maiden of my fancy Will tramp about in furs.

Fresh Fruits and Vegetables

To come on steamer Excelsior and Breakwater. Everything to please the vegetarian. We realize this is the hardest season of the year on account of the weather, to satisfy the housewife with fresh fruit and vegetables.
