WITH TEA AND TOAST

GOOD EVENING. go away on a visit without tying him to a bedpost. The need we all have is some one to make us do what we can. EMERSON.

GROWING BETTER. More lovely grows the earth as we grow old, More tenderness is in each dawning spring; More bronze upon the blackbird's burnished wing; In deeper blue the violets unfold; More lavish is the autumn's spread of gold.

And with half-conscious joy each living thing For very love its treasure seems to bring, Entreating us with beauty to behold. Or is it that with years we grow more wise, And reverent to the mystery profound— Withheld from hasty or indifferent eyes— That broods in simple things the world around

And breaks to loveliness that glories And makes of common pathways holy ground? —Helen A. Saxon.

Helen Rowland says that man is an atom and woman is an atomizer. Lots of men have married strong-minded women, but they seldom tell who did the courting.

A girl has about as much use for a timid lover as she has for a pair of wooden curling tongs.

Many women are spoiled before marriage, but few after. We all mix a great deal of medicine we refuse to take ourselves.

Very little comes to people without effort. The best looking collars for the men are the hardest to button.

It is becoming harder and harder to convince a girl worth $25 a week that a thirty-dollar man can support two.

AS IT HAPPENS ACCORDING TO HOWE. Lots of things go on that you don't know about.

A strain of worthless blood will not run out in ten generations, while a strain of good blood is liable to run out in a single generation.

Nothing makes a man so mad as hints from his wife that she can't

Read What An Expert Says Wanamaker's Advice

If there is one enterprise on earth that a "quitter" should leave severely alone, it is advertising. To make a success of advertising one must be prepared to stick like a barnacle on a boat's bottom. He should know before he begins it that he must spend money—lots of it. Somebody must tell him that he cannot hope to reap results commensurate with his expenditure early in the game. Store advertising does not jerk; it pulls. It begins very gently at first, but the pull is steady. It increases day by day and year by year, until it exerts an irresistible power. — John Wanamaker.

7. March, "Guard of Honor" . . . . . Lehnhardt

ry probably is about the cheapest thing on earth.

Of the many varieties of conceit, the man who imagines the women are crazy about him has unearthed the worst kind.

There is such a thing as acquiring a reputation for great wisdom simply by keeping still about the things you don't know.

A woman never really admires a man unless she thinks secretly that he is a devil of a fellow.

PARADOXICAL. The names with which we designate Some things are merely silly. The hottest thing I ever ate Has been misnomered chilli. A. T. HAINES.

MAN IS NO RABBIT. A drop of nicotine, they say, Will surely kill a rabbit. And thus they argue death to all Who trifle with the habit. But harken to the gentle fact And promise not to blab it. The query is—who's frightened of A foolish little rabbit? C. F. McGEORGE.

One of the meanest things you can say about a person is that he "means well."

It is said a certain woman is so cold that she rusts the pins in her clothes.

Some people are thrifty and others are shiftless. There does not seem to be any help for it.

The following poem is dedicated to the Coos Bay fishermen of the 1911 season: A sportsman his fishing rod took, And soon had a trout on his hook. Said he, "You're too small, Why, you won't do at all: I'll chuck you back into the brook."

Then the fisherman suddenly thought "I might lengthen this fish I have caught

In the brook I'll not fling her, I'll go get a wringer; With that I can stretch her a lot."

In the wringer the troutlet heptached, And cries, "'Tis the greatest of clutches." It is true she looks flat, But I don't care for that. For by Jingo she measures sixty-six inches."

WHAT WILL BE THE USE? Men will never look When high winds flirt When every skirt's A harem skirt.

This high cost of living thing will probably result in a bumper crop of June weddings. What?

You don't hear so much of that talk about two being able to live as cheaply as one as you used to. Wonder why?
