The Oregon Library Commission has just issued two interesting book lists, one on Domestic Economy and one on Agriculture in all its phases. These lists may be seen at the library, and any book in the lists may be obtained for the use of any resident of the state by the payment of transportation both ways, on application through your home library. The state owns a large general collection of books for free lending, which should be more generally known.

To Return Soon.—Hugh McLain is expected home soon from Lebanon, Oregon, where he was one of the bidders on a $70,000 sewage system contract. He was one of the two low bidders but finally the other low bidder was awarded the contract. He is also figuring on some other big contracts near Portland. His son, Leo, who has been attending school in Portland the past year, will probably return with him.

FINE RECORD OF THE BOSTON

Cruiser to Be Naval Reserve Training Ship Was In Battle of Manila.

Regarding the cruiser Boston which is to become a training ship for the Oregon Naval Reserves, and which is to be stationed at Coos Bay part of the time, a Portland paper says:

"In charge of the Oregon Naval Militia, with Captain Jacob Speler in command, the United States cruiser Boston will be brought from Bremerton Navyyard into Portland harbor next Tuesday or Wednesday, and henceforth will be the proud possession of the state, provided the War Department is satisfied with the use made of the famous fighting machine.

Shortly after she reaches port the Boston will sail on a 19 days' cruise, the annual marine trip of the Naval Militia, carrying practically all members of the organization. From here she will proceed to Marshfield, where two divisions of the militia will be picked up. After steaming about on the Pacific for several days the Marshfield divisions will be returned to that port and the vessel brought to Portland. For the time being she will be anchored in the stream between the Morrison and Burnside bridges.

Forty or more members of the naval militia will leave Portland for the Sound next Monday evening, and the Boston probably will be turned over to them as soon as they arrive at the navy-yard. On the trip back the navigation of the boat will be in charge of Lieutenant-Commander J. J. Reynolds, navigating officer of the militia. Among the other officers aboard will be Lieutenant-Commander William D. Edwards, chief engineer; Lieutenant G. H. Plumberg, acting executive officer; Lieutenant Fred W. L. Humphreys, and Lieutenant Staron, junior grade.

The Boston fired the first shot at the Battle of Manila Bay, and was the cruiser chosen to come out from Manila to greet the United States transports carrying troops to that port during the Spanish War. The Oregon militia were aboard these transports. She is the largest war vessel turned over to the naval militia of any state by the War Department, her length being 277 feet at the lead water line, her extreme beam 42 feet and her displacement 3000 tons. She has 4,300 indicated horsepower and a speed of 15.6 knots. The Boston was built by John Roach & Sons at Chester, Pa., in 1883.

MUSICIAN TO LOCATE HERE

Prof. Henrik Gjerdrum, Gifted Young Artist, to Locate on Coos Bay As Instructor and Concert Director.

Prof. Henrik Gjerdrum, who has for some time been located at Mexico, Mo., is expected to arrive on Coos Bay early in June to locate and engage in teaching music and in concert work. His coming is eagerly awaited by local musicians who have heard of him and his work as they realize his presence will do much for the advancement of the art on Coos Bay.

Prof. Henrik Gjerdrum is a young gifted musician whose career as an artist has been extremely successful. He has received his education from the best teachers of Norway and from Court-pianist Vienna de Motta in Berlin. He has devoted his time to teaching as well as concert work and has for the last year been Professor at the Hardin conservatory of music, Mexico, Mo. Mr. Gjerdrum is also a splendid vocalist, being in possession of a rich baritone voice highly cultivated.

Some Press Notices and Testimonials. Dr. Hindley, Sup. of Devil's Lake Chautauqua Aug. 29, 1910, writes: "Miss Christie and Prof. Gjerdrum vocal and instrumental soloists filled a week's engagement with the Devil's Lake Chautauqua association. Their work was pleasing, enjoyable and appreciated by all lovers of good music, where the performers show great natural and acquired proficiency.

Prof. A. E. Guerne, director of the Hardin Conservatory of Music, writes: "Mr. Henrik Gjerdrum is not only an able pianist but also possesses a strong and sympathetic voice which his excellent musicianship qualifies him to use with real musical understanding and good taste in the rendering of songs of the best composers. The Fargo Forum says: "Prof. Henrik Gjerdrum of Valley City, represented the music club of that city. His playing at the reception given by the Bay View Study Club showed him to be an artist of ability and experience."

The Valley City Times Record said: "Prof. Henrik Gjerdrum is becoming a favorite of the music loving people of Valley City. His solos were executed with understanding and artistic finish."

The Valley City said: "The concert given last evening at the normal hall in the lecture course, drew a large crowd. The door receipts were large last evening than for any other number on the summer course so far. The work of Prof. Gjerdrum is too well known to need any comment. It can be said with all truthfulness that the number exceeded in merit any of the numbers of the course."

The Mexico Ledger, Mexico, Mo., Sept. 24, 1910, said: "The recital given by the new members of the faculty of Hardin College Conservatory was unusually well attended. Prof. Gjerdrum was heard in two very interesting selections, the first and closing numbers of the program. The first, a Chopin Polonaise (No. 1, opus 4), was played with musical understanding and a very good technique. It was, however, in his second number, "Tempel Dance" by Grieg, that Prof. Gjerdrum scored his greatest success. His evident familiarity and sympathetic understanding of the composition of his great countryman enabled him to give the selection a fine reading. The audience was very enthusiastic, calling the pianist to the stage a number of times."
