O love, if life should be Merely the golden key
To love more vast—
Where spirits can embrace
And kisses last.

THE impetuous youth always craves that which is denied. Many a girl has lost a lover because of a too freely given kiss.

The young man may pout and hint about never calling again, but in his own heart he cannot but help admire a girl who denied him a kiss, when there was no engagement between them, says Laura Jean Libbey.

He is the kind who will stand long on the sidewalk after he has left her, watch the light in her window, and the reflection of tumbled curls on her curtain until the light goes out.

No girl ever lost a lover by being chary with her kisses; it matters not how much he may plead for them. He may tacitly infer that the rest of the girls would accord him all the kisses he wants. She must not believe that.

A kiss is love's first awakening. But girls should remember:

When first we love, alas! we seldom wed.

Time rules us all. And life, indeed, is not

The thing we planned it out, 'ere hope was dead.

And then we women cannot choose our lot.

Many an attractive girl has wondered why a young man whom she earnestly hoped to win as a husband failed to call at last. At first he was so eager for her invitation that he could scarcely wait for the evening when he should see her. She had his own word for it. She laid his waning indifference to everything but the right cause.

"I have lost him!" she cries, as she listens in vain for the footsteps that have ceased to come.

Could she have said any little word that offended him?

Did he think she did not care for him?

How strange that a girl will seldom ask her father or elder brother for advice upon this one subject of all others.

Was there ever a man the whole world over that would not set a foot angrily down upon it, regarding a young girl of their own household and heart? Even the most blasé man reveres the woman who holds her kisses in leash. There is another viewpoint as to kisses, which are called the "nectar of the gods."

The young wife may receive them as freely as the maiden must deny to complain against their nondelivery. They patch up all the differences of them. Indeed, the wife has a right the wedded couple and make life worth the living to both.

If they were held from her many a wife might follow the example of one wife, who appealed to the law for her rights in this respect. He was a wise as well as a gallant judge and he decided that the husband who would retain her affection must pay love's interest with not less than one kiss a day, suggesting that as many more be thrown in as was mutually agreeable.

It is not only the jolly girl whom the lover is wont to sue for kisses, but the bashful maid, whom he also takes delight in teasing that way. The kiss of a man who is not betrothed to a girl has no significance in love's vocabulary.

A man is too wise to offend her whom he really cares for, and he is clever enough to turn it off as a joke if she is serious over it. The girl who denies a kiss is more apt to receive a proposal, then and there, than she who thoughtlessly encourages.

"I do not quite understand him," some girls say. "We do not agree about kisses." A woman's unerring instinct should warn her to be chary of the fruit of the lip. Certainly no young man expects a kiss, even while he sues for it, but rather a smart tap of punishment instead from the fan she holds in her hand. Her value goes up a thousand per cent in his estimation. She is the kind of a girl he is looking for as a wife.

Miss Elizabeth Kaufman entertained a few friends at cards last Saturday afternoon. The rooms were beautifully decorated in roses. Miss Charlotte Murch won the first prize. Mrs. C. K. Perry the cut prize, and Miss Mamie Mahoney the consolation. During the afternoon the engagement of the hostess to Mr. Thomas Baldwin Brown of Chicago was announced in a novel way. The guests were given pieces of cardboard and were asked to match them. The whole represented a painting in water colors, and upon close observation, the names of the bride-and-bridegroom-to-be could be traced. At the close of a delightful afternoon, a delicious lunch was served. Miss Kaufman was the recipient of many hearty congratulations. The wedding will take place in July.

Misses Hazel and Lucy Powers will leave Monday via Roseburg with their father, A. H. Powers, for a week's visit in the north. On their return, Mrs. Powers Florence, Margaret and Albert will leave for Minneapolis where they will visit relatives for a couple of months.

A regular meeting of the Ladies' Art club was held at the home of Mrs. W. E. Warwick Friday afternoon, June 9, instead of June 16 at the home of Mrs. Frank Sumner, as was formerly announced. A portion of the afternoon was pleasantly spent at sewing, after which a lunch was served by the hostess. Due to the fact that the "Alice H" could not be secured to carry the passengers, the annual club picnic was again postponed from June 11 to June 18, for which occasion the launch "Marshfield" has been secured. The next meeting of the club will be held Friday afternoon, June 23, at the home of Mrs. Frank Sumner, in South Marshfield.

Miss Marie Maloney and Dan E. Maloney will leave next week for a visit at their old home in Iowa. He will return in about a month while Miss Maloney will return about September 1.

Last Sunday, a party of Marshfield young folk enjoyed a launch ride up North Coos River and a picnic at the Hatchery. The usual picnic diversions were followed by a bountiful picnic lunch. Leyland, Miss May Stauff, Miss Dilla Pratt, Miss Martha Bernitt, Miss Johnson, Miss Cora Bowron and Miss Edith Hildenbrand and Mr. Dodson, Jas. Cowan, Oscar Guloxson, Claude Tucker and Geo. Mrs. Jas. Ferrey, Sr., arrived home this week from an extended stay in Portland. She was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Jacobs, and little son and by Mrs. Williams and baby who will visit here for a while.

Karl Haines, who left a few days ago for Nebraska, is expected home about July 1, with his bride. The young lady is Miss Nola Wells of Pleasantdale, Neb., and is one of the McCulloch, Mrs. Alva Doll, Mrs. Nellie Whereat, Mrs. Harrington, Mrs. Dresser, Mrs. Ogr-n, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Black, and Mrs. Downs.

Mrs. J. T. McCormac and Mrs. M. C. Maloney have issued invitations for Monday afternoon in honor of Miss Elizabeth Kaufman.

The Misses F. M. and M. F. George left Wednesday for Roseburg for a visit with friends, and from there will go to their home in Port Huron, Mich. Miss F. M. George will return in October as the bride of Carl Evertsen.

The Episcopal Altar Guild met Tuesday with Mrs. P. A. Sandberg. There were about twenty members present. It was decided to hold a "tea" Tuesday, June 27, at the home of Mrs. J. W. Bennett. This will conclude the meetings for the summer, and they will adjourn until fall.

There will be no meeting next Tuesday.

Mrs. L. M. Noble arrived home this week from a few weeks' stay in Portland. She was accompanied by her niece, Miss Maude Bowron who has been attending St. Helen's Hall.

Miss E. Dresser, a teacher in the Minneapolis schools, arrived here yesterday to spend the summer vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Dresser of Hall Avenue.
